He Hasn't Spent a Cent in 15 Years

Lester L. Zern (center), 31-year-old trucker, who says he hasn't spent a cent in 15 years, read that Uncle Sam was running short in pennies and that banks were having a hard time meeting the demand. So, deciding to do his share, he showed up at a bank in Pottstown, Pa., with 52,682 pennies—enough to almost fill a tin washtub. It took bank employe L. G. Gardner (left) almost an hour to count them. Zern said he started saving pennies "just for fun" when he finished high school "and the penny I put in a parking meter at the bank was the first I spent since then." (AP Wirephoto).

Truman Would Require U.S. Employes to State Incomes

Says Law Would Help Prevent Improper Conduct and Suspicions

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to require its members and all top government officials—including generals, admirals and judges—to give a public accounting each year of their total income.

Mr. Truman said legislation along that line would help prevent "improper conduct" and "unfounded suspicions."

In a lengthy message, sent to the capitol in the midst of a Senate inquiry into charges of political influence in government loans, the President said:

"In operations as large as those of our government today, with so much depending on official action in the Congress and in the executive agencies, there are bound to be attempts by private citizens or special interests groups to gain their ends by illegal or improper means."

Mr. Truman said he would favor in the bill "the principle that national party officials and employes be among those persons required to file annual statements."

The President's own party chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr., was before the Senate's investigating subcommittee at the moment.

Specifically, the President recommended to Congress the prompt enactment of a law—

". . . Which will require all full-time civilian presidential appointees, including members of the federal bench; all elected officers of the federal government, including members of the Congress; and all other top officials and employes of the three branches of the government—say those receiving salaries of $10,000 or more, plus flag and general officers of the armed services—to file annually a statement of their total incomes, including amounts over and above their government salaries, and the sources of this outside income."

Consideration should be given, the President said, to requirements that government employes making less than $10,000 should make such statements if their outside income exceeds $1,000 a year.

He added:

"Some items which are not ordinarily counted as income, such as gifts and loans, should be in-

McClellan Hits Purported Sale

Boyle Denies Using His Political Position for Personal Profit

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.) told Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., today his purported sale of law practice "implies" Boy may have used his political position for personal profit. Boyle denied it vigorously.

At a Senate hearing, McClellan described as "unusual" the arrangement Boyle and Max Siskind, a Washington lawyer, had testified they made for Siskind to take over Boyle's practice and pay him $150,000.

McClellan said the fact they never signed any paper for the $150,000 sale "implies that there was an arrangement that you were to receive fees" in the guise of installment payments.

The deal, McClellan asserted, "gives rise" to belief in the minds of some that it was an arrangement for "Siskind to do the work, and Boyle as the national chairman to get $150,000."

But Boyle insisted the entire arrangement was entirely proper.

Boyle specifically denied, too, that he used political influence in behalf of $565,000 of RFC loans to the American Lithofold Corp.

He acknowledged that he did make an appointment for R. J. Blauner, president of the St. Louis printing firm, to see RFC Chairman Harley Hise about the loans on Feb. 28, 1949.

Won't Reveal Names

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—In a surprise turnabout, the state decided today not to reveal the identities of cops named as bribe-takers in secret grand jury testimony by bookmaker Harry Gross. Shortly before reading of the explosive testimony was slated to begin a special session court, Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz announced the decision to keep the names secret.

Will Try to Form Local Unit as Aid To Colored People

An attempt will be made tonight to form a local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A meeting of interested persons has been called for 8 o'clock at the New Central Baptist Church, 229 East Strand.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has been active throughout the country. One of its best known services has been the furnishing of legal aid for minority group members unable to obtain such aid through their own resources.

A membership of 50 persons is needed in order to charter a local chapter. A group of 24 persons has already formed itself into a nucleus for organizational purposes. The Rev. Charles Jackson of Gill street has been named temporary chairman. Permanent officers will be elected and installed after a charter is obtained.

Membership is open to persons of all races and creeds. The local chapter will not be limited to Kingston residents, but will accept any interested Ulster county residents interested in membership.

State Order For Special Term Given

Governor Also Broadens Scope of Matter to Get at Any Violations of Law

Ruppell Resigns

Staten Island Leader Quits His Borough Position

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Governor Dewey today ordered a special term of Supreme Court to handle prosecutions that may stem from the State Crime Commission's investigation of crime and corruption on Staten Island.

At the same time, Dewey broadened the scope of his order superseding District Attorney Herman Methfessel "to include any violations of law relating to gambling, bribery and corruption, influence upon elective or appointive public officers, perjury and the subornation of perjury and the administration of justice."

Dewey said "it has become clear that a condition exists in both political parties in Staten Island which requires vigorous action."

Dewey acted shortly after it was disclosed that Edward A. Ruppell, Staten Island's Republican leader, had resigned his $10,000 a year job as Richmond county commissioner of borough works. He has been accused before the Crime Commission of accepting payoffs for political favors.

Ruppell Quits Office

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Edward A. Ruppell, Staten Island's Republican leader accused before the State Crime Commission of accepting payoffs for political favors, has resigned his $10,000-a-year job as Richmond commissioner of borough works.

The resignation, tendered yesterday, was accepted by Richmond Borough President Cornelius A. Hall today. Hall said he would "withhold judgment" of his aide, however, pending findings of a special prosecutor named by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to sift testimony given before the crime commission.

Hall, announcing the resignation, said that he would not "condone dishonesty or corruption among any of my aides, or among any persons even remotely connected with my office."

No Personal Judgment

He made it clear, however, that he would not pass personal judgment on Ruppell until the Republican leader had had a chance to clear himself in court. Hall, who named Ruppell to the borough's top appointive post of works commissioner in 1946, is an independent Democrat.

In his letter of resignation, Ruppell told Hall that he knew he must be "concerned over the unfavorable publicity" stemming from the crime commission hearings.

"I am fully confident that in due time the false accusations made against me will be proved untrue," he wrote, adding:

"However, in all fairness to you, I hereby tender my resignation as commissioner of borough works."

Ruppell acted yesterday, the final day of the hearings which saw a parade of witnesses stream to the stand to accuse the Republican leader of using his office to promote shady deals. Several liquor store dealers testified—that they handed over thousands of dollars to Ruppell before they got their liquor licenses.

Ruppell, who did not resign as GOP chairman, has held public office on Staten Island since 1934.

Court Orders Jury Findings on Chief For City Officials

Port Jervis City Aide Asks Formally for Information Taken

Goshen, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Testimony before an Orange county grand jury that reported it found "open and notorious" gambling in Port Jervis, N. Y., today was ordered turned over to that city.

State Supreme Court Justice Elbert T. Gallagher granted a motion by Harry Silvers, Port Jervis corporation counsel, asking release of transcript of the testimony.

On the basis of the testimony, the grand jury last week issued a presentment (official report) accusing John J. Powrie, then acting police chief of Port Jervis, of responsibility for open gambling.

The jury said it did not find sufficient evidence to indict him for any crime, but said that retention of Powrie in any capacity on the police force "would seem unwarranted."

Monday night, Port Jervis suspended Powrie from duty, effective at 4 p. m. yesterday, until Oct. 26, and ordered a departmental trial Oct. 22 on charges of "misconduct and conduct unbecoming an officer."

In the meantime, Silvers had moved to obtain the testimony from the grand jury. The jury had recommended supplying it to Port Jervis, but Judge Gallagher said he could not do so without a formal application. Silvers said the testimony will be made public at the departmental trial.

Powrie has made no comment. The common council gave him 10 days to file an answer to the misconduct charges.

Brooklyn Woman Is Hurt Fatally

Mrs. Anikey, 64, Is 20th Person to Die This Year of Injuries

A 64-year-old Brooklyn woman visiting in Milton was fatally injured as she was walking across Route 9W one mile north of Young's Garage, Milton, about 5:30 p. m. Wednesday.

State police of the Highland station said the woman, Mrs. Anastasia Anikey, 64, of 610 46th street, Brooklyn, died at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie at 7:40 p. m.

Mrs. Anikey was struck by a one and one-half ton Reo van truck owned by Better Home Insulation Company, 216 Union street, Poughkeepsie, and driven by Fred H. Wilsey, 42, of Plutarch road, Highland, state police reported.

Troopers after an investigation said that Mrs. Anikey and Mrs. Catherine Stepura of Milton, whom she was visiting, were standing on the east shoulder of the highway waiting to cross to the west side. As the truck approached headed north, Mrs. Anikey started across and was struck, troopers said. Mrs. Stepura was not hit by the truck.

Taken To Hospital

Suffering from a crushed chest and other possible injuries, Mrs. Anikey was taken by a Vassar Hospital ambulance to that hospital, troopers reported.

When troopers were informed of her death at 7:40 p. m., Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson

President Signs New Order Affecting Childless Couples

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Truman yesterday signed new draft regulations which make childless married men eligible for military service.

The presidential action also makes other changes in Selective Service rules in keeping with the draft law passed by Congress last June. They range from including some aliens in the draft to lowering the volunteer age limit.

Of major effect, however, is the permission to draft childless married men, a change Selective Service officials believe will make 500,000 men formerly deferred eligible for duty. Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow, acting director of Selective Service, said about 200,000 of this total may be drafted.

The new rules are for the guidance of local draft boards. Selective Service has said a few of them already have been reclassifying childless married men.

Men affected would be those within the draft age bracket, 18½ to 26 years old.

To prevent last-minute claims for deferment "based only on the registrant's opinion that his wife recently has become pregnant," the new law clearly defines "child."

Under the amended law, "child" means an infant from date of conception. A man may obtain deferment only if his doctor says a child has been conceived before the draftee is ordered to report for induction.

The new regulations for the first time also:

1. Make aliens living permanently in the United States liable for the draft. They are exempt only if they are citizens of one of the 20 countries having military exemption treaties with the U. S., or if they are diplomatic personnel. Under the old law, aliens

Ridgway Office Says Reds May Be Trying To Force UN to Quit

Says Papers Show Jessup Had Linkup

Takes Batch of Notes to Group Checking Truman Nomination of UN Delegate

McCarthy Sure

Senator Confident His File Will Prevent Confirmation

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) today produced copies of a batch of documents which he said support his contention that Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup has "an unusual affinity for Communist causes."

McCarthy took the material, bound with a cover sheet in deep pink color, before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee studying President Truman's nomination of Jessup as an American delegate to the United Nations. Jessup, a top adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, has served previously as a delegate.

McCarthy was the first witness as the subcommittee started public hearings on the Jessup appointment. In advance of the session, McCarthy told reporters the material he was presenting to the group "should persuade the Senate to refuse to confirm Jessup."

Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) said Jessup might take the witness chair late in the day to reply to McCarthy. The ambassador already has denied similar accusations against him by McCarthy last year.

McCarthy's 28-page compilation contained some copies of documents he has presented before in criticism of Jessup.

Draws on Testimony

He also drew heavily from testimony which has been given by various witnesses who have appeared this year before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee.

Nowhere in his prepared brief did McCarthy specifically call for Senate rejection of the Jessup nomination. Before he began testifying he said he would "pretty much let these documents speak for themselves."

An introductory statement in McCarthy's brief said "the documents contained herein do not even remotely constitute the entire picture of Ambassador Jessup's record, but merely cover some of the highlights of the evidence in the Jessup case."

McCarthy added that "after the evidence (which he set forth) was brought to the attention of the President, he gave Jessup top secret clearance to all atomic and hydrogen bomb information and appointed him as U. S. delegate to the United Nations."

Uses General's Story

One of McCarthy's exhibits dealt with testimony by retired Brig. Gen. Louis J. Fortier before the Internal Security Subcommittee last week.

Formerly an army intelligence officer in the Far East, Fortier said Jessup told him early last year that U. S. recognition of Red China was imminent. Fortier quoted Jessup as having said further that recognition would not mean approval of the nature or character of the Communist regime.

In his statement to the foreign relations group today, McCarthy said Jessup advised, according to Fortier's testimony, "that Communist China would and should be recognized by the United States."

At the suggestion of Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.), chairman of the internal security unit, the foreign relations subcommittee has agreed to study the McCarran group's records dealing with Jessup.

The ambassador's name has cropped up frequently during its inquiry into whether the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR) exercised any pro-communist influence on the shaping of American policy toward the Far East.

The IPR was founded about 25 years ago for the stated purpose of conducting objective research

Iran Crisis Boils With New Rumors

Mushroom Plant To End Operation In Mid-December

Petitioner Agrees to Leave Premises on McEntee Street by That Date

The petitioner for the right to continue a mushroom business in a building formerly used as a bottling works at 43-45 McEntee street, agreed at a hearing last night before the City Zoning Board, to withdraw the application and plans to vacate the premises by Dec. 15.

The application was filed by Christopher Ciccarello, of Bridgeport, Conn., owner of the property which the Connelly Mushroom Company sought to use for the growing of mushrooms. The building was formerly a bottling plant operated by the Hauck Brewing Co.

The City Zoning Board issued an order for execution of the agreement on the date agreed to after hearing the petitioner's plan to finish the growth of mushrooms now in progress by the deadline date.

It was indicated that complaints from about 20 residents of the area were based on the release of chlorine gas used in conjunction with the business from gas bottles early this month.

The hearing was brought before the zoning board under the nonconformity provision of the zoning law. This provision allows a business zone status in residential areas if the plant or place is continued as in operation at the time of adoption of the law, but orders hearings where changes are involved. Such hearings are conducted before the zoning board instead of the laws and rules committee of the Common Council.

Attorney Charles Gaffney appeared for the complainants, City Judge Raymond J. Mino, represented Ciccarello, owner of the property, and Abraham Streifer appeared for the Connelly Mushroom Company which sought to continue growing mushrooms at the plant. Stanley Dempsey and Attorney Joseph Avis, members of the zoning board, and City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan, the board's secretary, attended the hearing.

Plane Strike Continues

Woodridge, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP)—A strike of some 10,000 Wright aeronautical workers continued today to stop up nearly a billion dollars of defense orders, including a new-type jet engine. Federal mediators described the situation as "hopeless" after the company offered three to nine cents an hour in pay boosts in reply to the unions' demand for 12 cents plus fringe benefits.

U. S., Britain Might Appeal to Shah to Repeal Order

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States has appealed to Iran to cancel its order for expulsion of British oil experts from Abadan, the great Iranian refinery center.

Situation Is Serious

London, Sept. 27 (AP)—A message from President Truman was rushed to Prime Minister Attlee today as the Iranian oil crisis boiled to ominous proportions.

Indications were that Britain and the United States might appeal directly to the young Shah of Iran to repeal an order expelling British technicians from the Abadan oil refinery, in a last-ditch attempt to prevent a Middle East explosion.

Moscow dispatches said the Soviet Union was watching the Iranian developments closely. The Russians have a treaty with Iran providing for Soviet intervention in the case of foreign invasion.

With Iran's forces in Khuzistan province, site of the Abadan refinery, placed on an alert, rumors that the British might land forces brought Nationalist

A new steel coal barge will be launched by Island Dock, Inc., tomorrow morning. The launching is scheduled to take place at 11 o'clock.

The barge has been built for Sargent Barge Line, Inc., of 1 Broadway, New York. It is 120'x 34'x13' and is designed to carry 1,000 tons of coal. It is of all welded steel construction and has five watertight compartments. The barge will be used to carry coal to power stations of the Jersey Central Power and Light Company of New Jersey.

The barge is to be christened the "Edwin H. Werner," an offical of the Jersey Central Power and Light Company. The barge will be christened by Mrs. Goodwin E. Crosby, a niece of the barge's owner, D. J. Sargent.

After the launching the barge will be towed to the fitting-out dock of Island Dock, where the finishing touches to the barge will be made. It is scheduled to be delivered to the owner about October 15th. A sister ship to this barge will be constructed by the Island Dock as soon as steel for its construction can be obtained.

Feeling Is Foe Losing Own Game

'Sheer Frustration' May Be Their Feeling at Present—UN Shuns Trivialities

Safeguards Needed

Ridgway Says Parley Site Must Be Better Situated

Tokyo, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Public Information Office said tonight the Reds may be trying to force the United Nations to break off Korean cease-fire talks "out of sheer frustration and futility."

The statement was issued a few hours after the supreme allied commander made a proposal designed to get the suspended talks restarted. Ridgway suggested a new conference site in no-man's-land where delegates could resume discussions of item two of the agenda—location of a military buffer zone.

The headquarters release took Communist liaison officers to task for refusing to discuss anything but a time and date for a new meeting.

"The significance of this . . . is obvious," the statement said. "The Reds at the present time are responsible for the calling off of the truce talks . . . such a turn of events does not help their so-called 'peace offensive,' which has been going on for many months now.

May Force Questions

"Consequently, if the talks are resumed on their terms, the Communists may be planning to force on the delegates the endless questions of neutrality and violations and all other peripheral matters that have nothing to do with a cease-fire itself. In such a manner they may hope to bring the UN command delegates to the point where they would break off the talks out of the sheer frustration and futility of not being able to get down to the substantive items of the agenda.

"It is fairly obvious," the release said, "that the most logical proposal to put an end to the difficulties surrounding the Kaesong site were put forth in a suggestion to the Communists by General Ridgway when he stressed the advisability of a change in the conference site itself. The resumption of talks cannot proceed without more adequate safeguards than have been offered at Kaesong to date."

Free of Armed Troops

Ridgway said the new site should be kept free of armed troops. He also suggested that delegates resume discussion on the location of a military buffer zone across the Korean peninsula. This was the subject that tied up the truce talks for weeks before the Reds broke them off Aug. 23.

The allied commander told the top Red commanders that talks could be resumed immediately if they agreed.

There was no quick reaction from Red officials. A Communist correspondent predicted they would reject the proposals.

No Part of Kaesong

The United Nations command wants no part of Kaesong, located behind the Communist lines. And the UN command has told the

Leading Editors to Make Formal Blackout Protest

San Francisco, Sept. 27 (AP)—A formal protest is coming from America's leading editors against President Truman's new order broadening the blackout on news from government agencies.

Some 250 editors voted unanimously to draft such a protest at yesterday's opening session of the annual meeting of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Unanimous approval also was given a second resolution urging all possible steps to win the release of AP Correspondent William N. Oatis, now imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on trumped up spy charges.

J. R. Wiggins of the Washington Post called President Truman's new security order the most important censorship problem of the year.

That order directs all civilian government agencies to classify information in varying grades of secrecy.

Wiggins said the order makes possible the suppression of even routine data—from crops to industrial production—in the name of security.

He expressed hope that "courageous editors can find means of circumventing the order." He pointed out that it fails to provide penalties for violators.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' Committee on Freedom of Information, said:

"It seems we have been kicked back over our goal line."

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, called both the new order and the imprisonment of Oatis "transcendent important questions."

Frank J. Starzel, AP general manager, said the Oatis case is being pursued with energetic interest by the State Department. He said months of delicate negotiations are ahead to win Oatis' release, but added:

"I think there is no doubt the Czech government recognizes it made a mistake internationally."

Ruppell Quits Office

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Edward A. Ruppell, Staten Island's Republican leader accused before the State Crime Commission of accepting payoffs for political favors, has resigned his $10,000-a-year job as Richmond commissioner of borough works.

The resignation, tendered yesterday, was accepted by Richmond Borough President Cornelius A. Hall today. Hall said he would "withhold judgment" of his aide, however, pending findings of a special prosecutor named by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to sift testimony given before the crime commission.

Nowhere in his prepared brief did McCarthy specifically call for Senate rejection of the Jessup nomination. Before he began testifying he said he would "pretty much let these documents speak for themselves."

An introductory statement in McCarthy's brief said "the documents contained herein do not even remotely constitute the entire picture of Ambassador Jessup's record, but merely cover some of the highlights of the evidence in the Jessup case."

McCarthy added that "after the evidence (which he set forth) was brought to the attention of the President, he gave Jessup top secret clearance to all atomic and hydrogen bomb information and appointed him as U. S. delegate to the United Nations."

Uses General's Story

One of McCarthy's exhibits dealt with testimony by retired Brig. Gen. Louis J. Fortier before the Internal Security Subcommittee last week.

Formerly an army intelligence officer in the Far East, Fortier said Jessup told him early last year that U. S. recognition of Red China was imminent. Fortier quoted Jessup as having said further that recognition would not mean approval of the nature or character of the Communist regime.

In his statement to the foreign relations group today, McCarthy said Jessup advised, according to Fortier's testimony, "that Communist China would and should be recognized by the United States."

At the suggestion of Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.), chairman of the internal security unit, the foreign relations subcommittee has agreed to study the McCarran group's records dealing with Jessup.

The ambassador's name has cropped up frequently during its inquiry into whether the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR) exercised any pro-communist influence on the shaping of American policy toward the Far East.

Mushroom Plant To End Operation In Mid-December

Petitioner Agrees to Leave Premises on McEntee Street by That Date

The petitioner for the right to continue a mushroom business in a building formerly used as a bottling works at 43-45 McEntee street, agreed at a hearing last night before the City Zoning Board, to withdraw the application and plans to vacate the premises by Dec. 15.

The application was filed by Christopher Ciccarello, of Bridgeport, Conn., owner of the property which the Connelly Mushroom Company sought to use for the growing of mushrooms. The building was formerly a bottling plant operated by the Hauck Brewing Co.

The City Zoning Board issued an order for execution of the agreement on the date agreed to after hearing the petitioner's plan to finish the growth of mushrooms now in progress by the deadline date.

It was indicated that complaints from about 20 residents of the area were based on the release of chlorine gas used in conjunction with the business from gas bottles early this month.

The hearing was brought before the zoning board under the nonconformity provision of the zoning law. This provision allows a business zone status in residential areas if the plant or place is continued as in operation at the time of adoption of the law, but orders hearings where changes are involved. Such hearings are conducted before the zoning board instead of the laws and rules committee of the Common Council.

Attorney Charles Gaffney appeared for the complainants, City Judge Raymond J. Mino, represented Ciccarello, owner of the property, and Abraham Streifer appeared for the Connelly Mushroom Company which sought to continue growing mushrooms at the plant. Stanley Dempsey and Attorney Joseph Avis, members of the zoning board, and City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan, the board's secretary, attended the hearing.

Woodridge, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP)—A strike of some 10,000 Wright aeronautical workers continued today to stop up nearly a billion dollars of defense orders, including a new-type jet engine. Federal mediators described the situation as "hopeless" after the company offered three to nine cents an hour in pay boosts in reply to the unions' demand for 12 cents plus fringe benefits.

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States has appealed to Iran to cancel its order for expulsion of British oil experts from Abadan, the great Iranian refinery center.

London, Sept. 27 (AP)—A message from President Truman was rushed to Prime Minister Attlee today as the Iranian oil crisis boiled to ominous proportions.

'Sheer Frustration' May Be Their Feeling at Present—UN Shuns Trivialities

Ridgway Says Parley Site Must Be Better Situated

Tokyo, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Public Information Office said tonight the Reds may be trying to force the United Nations to break off Korean cease-fire talks "out of sheer frustration and futility."

The statement was issued a few hours after the supreme allied commander made a proposal designed to get the suspended talks restarted. Ridgway suggested a new conference site in no-man's-land where delegates could resume discussions of item two of the agenda—location of a military buffer zone.

The headquarters release took Communist liaison officers to task for refusing to discuss anything but a time and date for a new meeting.

"The significance of this . . . is obvious," the statement said. "The Reds at the present time are responsible for the calling off of the truce talks . . . such a turn of events does not help their so-called 'peace offensive,' which has been going on for many months now.

May Force Questions

"Consequently, if the talks are resumed on their terms, the Communists may be planning to force on the delegates the endless questions of neutrality and violations and all other peripheral matters that have nothing to do with a cease-fire itself. In such a manner they may hope to bring the UN command delegates to the point where they would break off the talks out of the sheer frustration and futility of not being able to get down to the substantive items of the agenda.

"It is fairly obvious," the release said, "that the most logical proposal to put an end to the difficulties surrounding the Kaesong site were put forth in a suggestion to the Communists by General Ridgway when he stressed the advisability of a change in the conference site itself. The resumption of talks cannot proceed without more adequate safeguards than have been offered at Kaesong to date."

Free of Armed Troops

Ridgway said the new site should be kept free of armed troops. He also suggested that delegates resume discussion on the location of a military buffer zone across the Korean peninsula. This was the subject that tied up the truce talks for weeks before the Reds broke them off Aug. 23.

The allied commander told the top Red commanders that talks could be resumed immediately if they agreed.

There was no quick reaction from Red officials. A Communist correspondent predicted they would reject the proposals.

The Reds want the talks resumed in Kaesong, with the first item of business a full-scale discussion of alleged allied violations of the Kaesong neutral zone.

Boyle Denies Using His Political Position for Personal Profit

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.) told Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., today his purported sale of law practice "implies" Boy may have used his political position for personal profit. Boyle denied it vigorously.

At a Senate hearing, McClellan described as "unusual" the arrangement Boyle and Max Siskind, a Washington lawyer, had testified they made for Siskind to take over Boyle's practice and pay him $150,000.

McClellan said the fact they never signed any paper for the $150,000 sale "implies that there was an arrangement that you were to receive fees" in the guise of installment payments.

The deal, McClellan asserted, "gives rise" to belief in the minds of some that it was an arrangement for "Siskind to do the work, and Boyle as the national chairman to get $150,000."

But Boyle insisted the entire arrangement was entirely proper.

Boyle specifically denied, too, that he used political influence in behalf of $565,000 of RFC loans to the American Lithofold Corp.

He acknowledged that he did make an appointment for R. J. Blauner, president of the St. Louis printing firm, to see RFC Chairman Harley Hise about the loans on Feb. 28, 1949.

Won't Reveal Names

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—In a surprise turnabout, the state decided today not to reveal the identities of cops named as bribe-takers in secret grand jury testimony by bookmaker Harry Gross. Says Law Would Help Prevent Improper Conduct and Suspicions

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to require its members and all top government officials—including generals, admirals and judges—to give a public accounting each year of their total income.

Mr. Truman said legislation along that line would help prevent "improper conduct" and "unfounded suspicions."

In a lengthy message, sent to the capitol in the midst of a Senate inquiry into charges of political influence in government loans, the President said:

"In operations as large as those of our government today, with so much depending on official action in the Congress and in the executive agencies, there are bound to be attempts by private citizens or special interests groups to gain their ends by illegal or improper means."

Mr. Truman said he would favor in the bill "the principle that national party officials and employes be among those persons required to file annual statements."

Specifically, the President recommended to Congress the prompt enactment of a law—

". . . Which will require all full-time civilian presidential appointees, including members of the federal bench; all elected officers of the federal government, including members of the Congress; and all other top officials and employes of the three branches of the government—say those receiving salaries of $10,000 or more, plus flag and general officers of the armed services—to file annually a statement of their total incomes, including amounts over and above their government salaries, and the sources of this outside income."

Consideration should be given, the President said, to requirements that government employes making less than $10,000 should make such statements if their outside income exceeds $1,000 a year.

He added:

"Some items which are not ordinarily counted as income, such as gifts and loans, should be in-

Will Try to Form Local Unit as Aid To Colored People

An attempt will be made tonight to form a local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A meeting of interested persons has been called for 8 o'clock at the New Central Baptist Church, 229 East Strand.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has been active throughout the country. One of its best known services has been the furnishing of legal aid for minority group members unable to obtain such aid through their own resources.

A membership of 50 persons is needed in order to charter a local chapter. A group of 24 persons has already formed itself into a nucleus for organizational purposes. The Rev. Charles Jackson of Gill street has been named temporary chairman. Permanent officers will be elected and installed after a charter is obtained.

Membership is open to persons of all races and creeds. The local chapter will not be limited to Kingston residents, but will accept any interested Ulster county residents interested in membership.

President Signs New Order Affecting Childless Couples

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP) — President Truman yesterday signed new draft regulations which make childless married men eligible for military service.

The presidential action also makes other changes in Selective Service rules in keeping with the draft law passed by Congress last June. They range from including some aliens in the draft to lowering the volunteer age limit.

Of major effect, however, is the permission to draft childless married men, a change Selective Service officials believe will make 500,000 men formerly deferred eligible for duty. Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow, acting director of Selective Service, said about 200,000 of this total may be drafted.

The new rules are for the guidance of local draft boards. Selective Service has said a few of them already have been reclassifying childless married men. Men affected would be those within the draft age bracket, 18½ to 26 years old.

To prevent last-minute claims for deferment "based only on the registrant's opinion that his wife recently has become pregnant," the new law clearly defines "child."

Under the amended law, "child" means an infant from date of conception. A man may obtain deferment only if his doctor says a child has been conceived before the draftee is ordered to report for induction.

The new regulations for the first time also:

1. Make aliens living permanently in the United States liable for the draft. They are exempt only if they are citizens of one of the 20 countries having military exemption treaties with the U. S., or if they are diplomatic personnel. Under the old law, aliens

Leading Editors to Make Formal Blackout Protest

San Francisco, Sept. 27 (AP)—A formal protest is coming from America's leading editors against President Truman's new order broadening the blackout on news from government agencies.

Some 250 editors voted unanimously to draft such a protest at yesterday's opening session of the annual meeting of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Unanimous approval also was given a second resolution urging all possible steps to win the release of AP Correspondent William N. Oatis, now imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on trumped up spy charges.

J. R. Wiggins of the Washington Post called President Truman's new security order the most important censorship problem of the year.

That order directs all civilian government agencies to classify information in varying grades of secrecy.

Wiggins said the order makes possible the suppression of even routine data—from crops to industrial production—in the name of security.

He expressed hope that "courageous editors can find means of circumventing the order." He pointed out that it fails to provide penalties for violators.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' Committee on Freedom of Information, said:

"It seems we have been kicked back over our goal line."

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, called both the new order and the imprisonment of Oatis "transcendent important questions."

Frank J. Starzel, AP general manager, said the Oatis case is being pursued with energetic interest by the State Department. He said months of delicate negotiations are ahead to win Oatis' release, but added:

"I think there is no doubt the Czech government recognizes it made a mistake internationally."

State Order For Special Term Given

Staten Island Leader Quits His Borough Position

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Governor Dewey today ordered a special term of Supreme Court to handle prosecutions that may stem from the State Crime Commission's investigation of crime and corruption on Staten Island.

At the same time, Dewey broadened the scope of his order superseding District Attorney Herman Methfessel "to include any violations of law relating to gambling, bribery and corruption, influence upon elective or appointive public officers, perjury and the subornation of perjury and the administration of justice."

Dewey said "it has become clear that a condition exists in both political parties in Staten Island which requires vigorous action."

Dewey acted shortly after it was disclosed that Edward A. Ruppell, Staten Island's Republican leader, had resigned his $10,000 a year job as Richmond county commissioner of borough works. He has been accused before the Crime Commission of accepting payoffs for political favors.

Ruppell Quits Office

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Edward A. Ruppell, Staten Island's Republican leader accused before the State Crime Commission of accepting payoffs for political favors, has resigned his $10,000-a-year job as Richmond commissioner of borough works.

The resignation, tendered yesterday, was accepted by Richmond Borough President Cornelius A. Hall today. Hall said he would "withhold judgment" of his aide, however, pending findings of a special prosecutor named by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to sift testimony given before the crime commission.

Hall, announcing the resignation, said that he would not "condone dishonesty or corruption among any of my aides, or among any persons even remotely connected with my office."

No Personal Judgment

He made it clear, however, that he would not pass personal judgment on Ruppell until the Republican leader had had a chance to clear himself in court. Hall, who named Ruppell to the borough's top appointive post of works commissioner in 1946, is an independent Democrat.

In his letter of resignation, Ruppell told Hall that he knew he must be "concerned over the unfavorable publicity" stemming from the crime commission hearings.

"I am fully confident that in due time the false accusations made against me will be proved untrue," he wrote, adding:

"However, in all fairness to you, I hereby tender my resignation as commissioner of borough works."

Ruppell acted yesterday, the final day of the hearings which saw a parade of witnesses stream to the stand to accuse the Republican leader of using his office to promote shady deals. Several liquor store dealers testified—that they handed over thousands of dollars to Ruppell before they got their liquor licenses.

Ruppell, who did not resign as GOP chairman, has held public office on Staten Island since 1934.

Port Jervis City Aide Asks Formally for Information Taken

Goshen, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Testimony before an Orange county grand jury that reported it found "open and notorious" gambling in Port Jervis, N. Y., today was ordered turned over to that city.

State Supreme Court Justice Elbert T. Gallagher granted a motion by Harry Silvers, Port Jervis corporation counsel, asking release of transcript of the testimony.

On the basis of the testimony, the grand jury last week issued a presentment (official report) accusing John J. Powrie, then acting police chief of Port Jervis, of responsibility for open gambling.

The jury said it did not find sufficient evidence to indict him for any crime, but said that retention of Powrie in any capacity on the police force "would seem unwarranted."

Monday night, Port Jervis suspended Powrie from duty, effective at 4 p. m. yesterday, until Oct. 26, and ordered a departmental trial Oct. 22 on charges of "misconduct and conduct unbecoming an officer."

In the meantime, Silvers had moved to obtain the testimony from the grand jury. The jury had recommended supplying it to Port Jervis, but Judge Gallagher said he could not do so without a formal application. Silvers said the testimony will be made public at the departmental trial.

Powrie has made no comment. The common council gave him 10 days to file an answer to the misconduct charges.

Brooklyn Woman Is Hurt Fatally

Mrs. Anikey, 64, Is 20th Person to Die This Year of Injuries

A 64-year-old Brooklyn woman visiting in Milton was fatally injured as she was walking across Route 9W one mile north of Young's Garage, Milton, about 5:30 p. m. Wednesday.

State police of the Highland station said the woman, Mrs. Anastasia Anikey, 64, of 610 46th street, Brooklyn, died at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie at 7:40 p. m.

Mrs. Anikey was struck by a one and one-half ton Reo van truck owned by Better Home Insulation Company, 216 Union street, Poughkeepsie, and driven by Fred H. Wilsey, 42, of Plutarch road, Highland, state police reported.

Troopers after an investigation said that Mrs. Anikey and Mrs. Catherine Stepura of Milton, whom she was visiting, were standing on the east shoulder of the highway waiting to cross to the west side. As the truck approached headed north, Mrs. Anikey started across and was struck, troopers said. Mrs. Stepura was not hit by the truck.

Taken To Hospital

Suffering from a crushed chest and other possible injuries, Mrs. Anikey was taken by a Vassar Hospital ambulance to that hospital, troopers reported.

Takes Batch of Notes to Group Checking Truman Nomination of UN Delegate

McCarthy Sure

Senator Confident His File Will Prevent Confirmation

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) today produced copies of a batch of documents which he said support his contention that Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup has "an unusual affinity for Communist causes."

McCarthy took the material, bound with a cover sheet in deep pink color, before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee studying President Truman's nomination of Jessup as an American delegate to the United Nations. Jessup, a top adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, has served previously as a delegate.

McCarthy was the first witness as the subcommittee started public hearings on the Jessup appointment. In advance of the session, McCarthy told reporters the material he was presenting to the group "should persuade the Senate to refuse to confirm Jessup."

Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) said Jessup might take the witness chair late in the day to reply to McCarthy. The ambassador already has denied similar accusations against him by McCarthy last year.

McCarthy's 28-page compilation contained some copies of documents he has presented before in criticism of Jessup.

Draws on Testimony

He also drew heavily from testimony which has been given by various witnesses who have appeared this year before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee.

Nowhere in his prepared brief did McCarthy specifically call for Senate rejection of the Jessup nomination. Before he began testifying he said he would "pretty much let these documents speak for themselves."

An introductory statement in McCarthy's brief said "the documents contained herein do not even remotely constitute the entire picture of Ambassador Jessup's record, but merely cover some of the highlights of the evidence in the Jessup case."

Boyle Denies Using His Political Position for Personal Profit

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.) told Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., today his purported sale of law practice "implies" Boy may have used his political position for personal profit. Boyle denied it vigorously.

At a Senate hearing, McClellan described as "unusual" the arrangement Boyle and Max Siskind, a Washington lawyer, had testified they made for Siskind to take over Boyle's practice and pay him $150,000.

McClellan said the fact they never signed any paper for the $150,000 sale "implies that there was an arrangement that you were to receive fees" in the guise of installment payments.

The deal, McClellan asserted, "gives rise" to belief in the minds of some that it was an arrangement for "Siskind to do the work, and Boyle as the national chairman to get $150,000."

But Boyle insisted the entire arrangement was entirely proper.

Boyle specifically denied, too, that he used political influence in behalf of $565,000 of RFC loans to the American Lithofold Corp.

He acknowledged that he did make an appointment for R. J. Blauner, president of the St. Louis printing firm, to see RFC Chairman Harley Hise about the loans on Feb. 28, 1949.

Won't Reveal Names

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—In a surprise turnabout, the state decided today not to reveal the identities of cops named as bribe-takers in secret grand jury testimony by bookmaker Harry Gross. Shortly before reading of the explosive testimony was slated to begin a special session court, Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz announced the decision to keep the names secret.

Says Law Would Help Prevent Improper Conduct and Suspicions

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to require its members and all top government officials—including generals, admirals and judges—to give a public accounting each year of their total income.

Mr. Truman said legislation along that line would help prevent "improper conduct" and "unfounded suspicions."

In a lengthy message, sent to the capitol in the midst of a Senate inquiry into charges of political influence in government loans, the President said:

"In operations as large as those of our government today, with so much depending on official action in the Congress and in the executive agencies, there are bound to be attempts by private citizens or special interests groups to gain their ends by illegal or improper means."

Mr. Truman said he would favor in the bill "the principle that national party officials and employes be among those persons required to file annual statements."

The President's own party chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr., was before the Senate's investigating subcommittee at the moment.

Specifically, the President recommended to Congress the prompt enactment of a law—

". . . Which will require all full-time civilian presidential appointees, including members of the federal bench; all elected officers of the federal government, including members of the Congress; and all other top officials and employes of the three branches of the government—say those receiving salaries of $10,000 or more, plus flag and general officers of the armed services—to file annually a statement of their total incomes, including amounts over and above their government salaries, and the sources of this outside income."

Consideration should be given, the President said, to requirements that government employes making less than $10,000 should make such statements if their outside income exceeds $1,000 a year.

He added:

"Some items which are not ordinarily counted as income, such as gifts and loans, should be in-

Will Try to Form Local Unit as Aid To Colored People

An attempt will be made tonight to form a local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A meeting of interested persons has been called for 8 o'clock at the New Central Baptist Church, 229 East Strand.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has been active throughout the country. One of its best known services has been the furnishing of legal aid for minority group members unable to obtain such aid through their own resources.

A membership of 50 persons is needed in order to charter a local chapter. A group of 24 persons has already formed itself into a nucleus for organizational purposes. The Rev. Charles Jackson of Gill street has been named temporary chairman. Permanent officers will be elected and installed after a charter is obtained.

Membership is open to persons of all races and creeds. The local chapter will not be limited to Kingston residents, but will accept any interested Ulster county residents interested in membership.

President Signs New Order Affecting Childless Couples

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—President Truman yesterday signed new draft regulations which make childless married men eligible for military service.

The presidential action also makes other changes in Selective Service rules in keeping with the draft law passed by Congress last June. They range from including some aliens in the draft to lowering the volunteer age limit.

Of major effect, however, is the permission to draft childless married men, a change Selective Service officials believe will make 500,000 men formerly deferred eligible for duty. Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow, acting director of Selective Service, said about 200,000 of this total may be drafted.

The new rules are for the guidance of local draft boards. Selective Service has said a few of them already have been reclassifying childless married men.

Men affected would be those within the draft age bracket, 18½ to 26 years old.

To prevent last-minute claims for deferment "based only on the registrant's opinion that his wife recently has become pregnant," the new law clearly defines "child."

Under the amended law, "child" means an infant from date of conception. A man may obtain deferment only if his doctor says a child has been conceived before the draftee is ordered to report for induction.

The new regulations for the first time also:

1. Make aliens living permanently in the United States liable for the draft. They are exempt only if they are citizens of one of the 20 countries having military exemption treaties with the U. S., or if they are diplomatic personnel. Under the old law, aliens

Leading Editors to Make Formal Blackout Protest

San Francisco, Sept. 27 (AP)—A formal protest is coming from America's leading editors against President Truman's new order broadening the blackout on news from government agencies.

Some 250 editors voted unanimously to draft such a protest at yesterday's opening session of the annual meeting of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Unanimous approval also was given a second resolution urging all possible steps to win the release of AP Correspondent William N. Oatis, now imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on trumped up spy charges.

J. R. Wiggins of the Washington Post called President Truman's new security order the most important censorship problem of the year.

That order directs all civilian government agencies to classify information in varying grades of secrecy.

Wiggins said the order makes possible the suppression of even routine data—from crops to industrial production—in the name of security.

He expressed hope that "courageous editors can find means of circumventing the order." He pointed out that it fails to provide penalties for violators.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' Committee on Freedom of Information, said:

"It seems we have been kicked back over our goal line."

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, called both the new order and the imprisonment of Oatis "transcendent important questions."

Frank J. Starzel, AP general manager, said the Oatis case is being pursued with energetic interest by the State Department. He said months of delicate negotiations are ahead to win Oatis' release, but added:

"I think there is no doubt the Czech government recognizes it made a mistake internationally."

Selbst Case Over

The jury in the contract action brought by Rose Selbst against Benjamin Selbst returned a verdict at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening in county court, finding a no cause verdict in favor of the defendant on the $825 check cause of action and returning a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $150 on her charge that there was due her back alimony. A counter claim for $8,500 had been dismissed and that question was not submitted to the jury. Mrs. Selbst sued to recover $825 on a check which she alleged her husband had given her but which was never paid, and also for alimony which she contended was due her. Abraham Streifer appeared for plaintiff and Howard C. St. John appeared for the defendant.

Business Group Outlines Goals

Members of the Kerhonkson Lions Club heard two officials of the newly-formed Public Relations Bureau for Small Business describe at the club's recent meeting the objectives of the organization set up to "give a big voice to small business."

William Joyce, a member of the club and president of the Public Relations Bureau, told the group that his organization intended to give small businessmen throughout the state a voice in affairs in keeping with their economic importance.

There are 575,000 of these small businessmen in New York, he said, and they actually account for 98 per cent of all the business establishments in the state.

"This means," he said, "that small business is everybody's business—my business and your business. It's that important to our kind of economy and our kind of government.

Third Office Planned

"Up to now," he continued, "small business has had no spokesman, and no central organization to safeguard and promote its interests. We propose to fill that vacuum. We propose to organize a broad cross-section of all small businessmen, provide them with help on their personal business problems and maintain a service which will alert them on all matters of legislation which affect their well-being."

Offices have already been set up at Kerhonkson and in New York, Joyce said, and a third office is planned for Albany.

"Albany will get special attention. We plan to issue periodic legislative reports from our 'watchdog' office in the state's capital."

Joyce, who was introduced by the club's president, Arthur C. Chipp, was followed by Robert V. Stapleton, a director of the Public Relations Bureau, who described the organization's legal services.

A capable staff of attorneys will be maintained by the PRB, he said, to handle matters brought before it by subscribers to PRB services.

Seldom, he said, does a small businessman have the time or resources to even register an opinion on proposals that vitally affect his business. The PRB has been set up, he added, to give him adequate representation by making it possible for an individual businessman to voice his opinions with effectiveness.

The meeting, held at the Indian Valley Inn, was under the direction of Robert Doyle, the club's program chairman.

Report Three Nations Back Trieste Division

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 27 (AP) — Responsible diplomatic sources here reported today that the United States, Britain and France have agreed to divide the free territory of Trieste between Yugoslavia and Italy.

Trieste, most important of the north Adriatic seaports, and its surrounding territory were set up as an independent region under the Italian Peace Treaty, with one half of the area administered by the British and the Americans, the other half by Yugoslavia.

These unofficial reports say Italy will receive the part of the territory—including the big port of Trieste itself—now under Anglo-American jurisdiction and known as Zone "A," while Yugoslavia will get the balance, Zone B.

The report follows a meeting between Premier Alcide de Gasperi of Italy with President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and a conference between Yugoslav Ambassador Vladimir Popovic and Acheson in Washington.

Selbst Case Over

The jury in the contract action brought by Rose Selbst against Benjamin Selbst returned a verdict at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening in county court, finding a no cause verdict in favor of the defendant on the $825 check cause of action and returning a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $150 on her charge that there was due her back alimony. A counter claim for $8,500 had been dismissed and that question was not submitted to the jury. Mrs. Selbst sued to recover $825 on a check which she alleged her husband had given her but which was never paid, and also for alimony which she contended was due her. Abraham Streifer appeared for plaintiff and Howard C. St. John appeared for the defendant.

Business Group Outlines Goals

Members of the Kerhonkson Lions Club heard two officials of the newly-formed Public Relations Bureau for Small Business describe at the club's recent meeting the objectives of the organization set up to "give a big voice to small business."

William Joyce, a member of the club and president of the Public Relations Bureau, told the group that his organization intended to give small businessmen throughout the state a voice in affairs in keeping with their economic importance.

There are 575,000 of these small businessmen in New York, he said, and they actually account for 98 per cent of all the business establishments in the state.

"This means," he said, "that small business is everybody's business—my business and your business. It's that important to our kind of economy and our kind of government.

Third Office Planned

"Up to now," he continued, "small business has had no spokesman, and no central organization to safeguard and promote its interests. We propose to fill that vacuum. We propose to organize a broad cross-section of all small businessmen, provide them with help on their personal business problems and maintain a service which will alert them on all matters of legislation which affect their well-being."

Offices have already been set up at Kerhonkson and in New York, Joyce said, and a third office is planned for Albany.

"Albany will get special attention. We plan to issue periodic legislative reports from our 'watchdog' office in the state's capital."

Joyce, who was introduced by the club's president, Arthur C. Chipp, was followed by Robert V. Stapleton, a director of the Public Relations Bureau, who described the organization's legal services.

A capable staff of attorneys will be maintained by the PRB, he said, to handle matters brought before it by subscribers to PRB services.

Seldom, he said, does a small businessman have the time or resources to even register an opinion on proposals that vitally affect his business. The PRB has been set up, he added, to give him adequate representation by making it possible for an individual businessman to voice his opinions with effectiveness.

The meeting, held at the Indian Valley Inn, was under the direction of Robert Doyle, the club's program chairman.

Report Three Nations Back Trieste Division

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 27 (AP) — Responsible diplomatic sources here reported today that the United States, Britain and France have agreed to divide the free territory of Trieste between Yugoslavia and Italy.

Trieste, most important of the north Adriatic seaports, and its surrounding territory were set up as an independent region under the Italian Peace Treaty, with one half of the area administered by the British and the Americans, the other half by Yugoslavia.

These unofficial reports say Italy will receive the part of the territory—including the big port of Trieste itself—now under Anglo-American jurisdiction and known as Zone "A," while Yugoslavia will get the balance, Zone B.

The report follows a meeting between Premier Alcide de Gasperi of Italy with President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and a conference between Yugoslav Ambassador Vladimir Popovic and Acheson in Washington.

Anglo King Gains Strength And His Appetite Improves

London, Sept. 27 (AP)—King George's doctors said today he is stronger and his appetite is improving.

Their morning bulletin, the eighth since a serious lung operation Sunday, said the King had a better night and that his progress is continuing.

The Bulletin, signed by four of the King's doctors, and the surgeon who performed the operation, said:

"After a better night the King is stronger, his appetite is improving and progress continues."

A London expert on lung operations said today's report "is as good as you could have expected for a young, strong man in the same circumstances." The King is 55.

Duke Visits Palace

The Duke of Windsor, who is staying at a private home in London, visited the palace at noon but did not get to see his ailing brother. Only Queen Elizabeth sees the King. It was the first palace visit by the former king since he arrived Monday from Paris.

The encouraging report was issued as the monarch entered a new danger period in his fight for recovery.

Reports from inside Buckingham Palace, which termed the next 72 hours "vital," indicated two doctors are keeping a constant watch.

Palace sources also said Queen Elizabeth has indicated she wants to be called at any hour, if the King asks for her.

The king's doctors used the term "resection" in describing the operation. It means cutting out all or part of a lung. The doctors have not disclosed the disease that made the operation necessary.

British Are Warned

Buckingham Palace warned the British people last night that the king's condition will cause "some anxiety for the next week or 10 days."

Fourteen minutes after the palace statement, Princess Elizabeth announced she was postponing her Canadian tour to stay near her father.

The 25-year-old heiress to the throne said she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will make the trip one or two weeks later. They were scheduled originally to arrive in Quebec Oct. 2 for a cross-Canadian tour that included a side trip to the White House in Washington. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada suggested the postponement.

There was general agreement among London specialists that if King George comes through the week-end without serious complications he will be in position for a fast recovery.

President Signs

could not be drafted unless they had taken out first citizenship papers.

2. Allow 17-year-olds to volunteer with the written consent of parent or guardian. The former age limit was 18.

3. Force conscientious objectors to do some work of national importance for two years if physically able.

4. Spread the draft more evenly through age groups to prevent too-heavy call-up of young men.

5. Lower physical standards to those of January 1945—the lowest point in World War 2—and reduce mental requirements.

6. Provide for calling up doctors according to length of prior military service rather than by age. Those who have served the shortest period would be called first.

7. Add "pharmacy, chiropractic, or chiropody" to "medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy, optometry" in the provisions for special consideration to students in the healing arts.

Selective Service also announced dates for two new qualification tests for college students who want to be deferred from the draft. Students who score 70 or better in such tests may be considered for deferment.

First tests will be given Dec. 13, primarily for those students whose academic year ends next January. The second will be given April 24. Applications for the first test must be postmarked no later than Nov. 5, and for the second not later than March 10.

Application forms can be obtained from all local draft boards within a week. The tests themselves will be given at more than 1,000 centers over the country by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. and scores will be mailed direct to local draft boards.

Anglo King Gains Strength And His Appetite Improves

London, Sept. 27 (AP)—King George's doctors said today he is stronger and his appetite is improving.

Their morning bulletin, the eighth since a serious lung operation Sunday, said the King had a better night and that his progress is continuing.

The Bulletin, signed by four of the King's doctors, and the surgeon who performed the operation, said:

"After a better night the King is stronger, his appetite is improving and progress continues."

A London expert on lung operations said today's report "is as good as you could have expected for a young, strong man in the same circumstances." The King is 55.

Duke Visits Palace

The Duke of Windsor, who is staying at a private home in London, visited the palace at noon but did not get to see his ailing brother. Only Queen Elizabeth sees the King. It was the first palace visit by the former king since he arrived Monday from Paris.

The encouraging report was issued as the monarch entered a new danger period in his fight for recovery.

Reports from inside Buckingham Palace, which termed the next 72 hours "vital," indicated two doctors are keeping a constant watch.

Palace sources also said Queen Elizabeth has indicated she wants to be called at any hour, if the King asks for her.

The king's doctors used the term "resection" in describing the operation. It means cutting out all or part of a lung. The doctors have not disclosed the disease that made the operation necessary.

British Are Warned

Buckingham Palace warned the British people last night that the king's condition will cause "some anxiety for the next week or 10 days."

Fourteen minutes after the palace statement, Princess Elizabeth announced she was postponing her Canadian tour to stay near her father.

The 25-year-old heiress to the throne said she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will make the trip one or two weeks later. They were scheduled originally to arrive in Quebec Oct. 2 for a cross-Canadian tour that included a side trip to the White House in Washington. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada suggested the postponement.

There was general agreement among London specialists that if King George comes through the week-end without serious complications he will be in position for a fast recovery.

President Signs

could not be drafted unless they had taken out first citizenship papers.

2. Allow 17-year-olds to volunteer with the written consent of parent or guardian. The former age limit was 18.

3. Force conscientious objectors to do some work of national importance for two years if physically able.

4. Spread the draft more evenly through age groups to prevent too-heavy call-up of young men.

5. Lower physical standards to those of January 1945—the lowest point in World War 2—and reduce mental requirements.

6. Provide for calling up doctors according to length of prior military service rather than by age. Those who have served the shortest period would be called first.

7. Add "pharmacy, chiropractic, or chiropody" to "medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy, optometry" in the provisions for special consideration to students in the healing arts.

Selective Service also announced dates for two new qualification tests for college students who want to be deferred from the draft. Students who score 70 or better in such tests may be considered for deferment.

First tests will be given Dec. 13, primarily for those students whose academic year ends next January. The second will be given April 24. Applications for the first test must be postmarked no later than Nov. 5, and for the second not later than March 10.

Application forms can be obtained from all local draft boards within a week. The tests themselves will be given at more than 1,000 centers over the country by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. and scores will be mailed direct to local draft boards.

APPEAL FOR CRUSADE FUNDS

Richard M. Kalish, local chairman of the Crusade for Freedom drive for financial assistance to help fight communism, announces that a one-day campaign has been set for Kingston on Monday, October 8. Local residents may send their contributions to the local postmaster in Kingston.

The Crusade for Freedom campaign for funds has won the enthusiastic support and participation of countless well-informed Americans. If Radio Free Europe is making as much of an impression in Europe as it is in the United States, it should accomplish a great deal in counteracting Communist propaganda.

The central idea of Radio Free Europe is that Communist propaganda can be countered best behind the Iron Curtain by the voices of persons who have lived in the countries now ruled by communism and who escaped to the West because they could not endure the oppressive atmosphere of the Red doctrine and life. These persons know what life was like in their countries before the Reds took over, and what it has become since. They can speak to the people in their homelands not only in their own tongues but with their own feelings, and out of their own backgrounds and traditions. Also important is the point that Radio Free Europe is a private, not a government, enterprise.

It is claimed in Europe that the voice of Radio Free Europe is being heard, and if it is heard it surely must be heeded to some extent.

Those who will help in this local campaign may be helping to keep the truth alive in lands where present rulers are bent on destroying the very memory of truth.

DEATH HELD OFF

Dr. George C. Lippincott recently celebrated his hundred and first birthday at his home in Salem, New Jersey. He is the oldest living retired naval officer and the oldest graduate of Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

In 1886 Dr. Lippincott was retired from the Navy and told that he had only a few months to live because of a serious heart ailment. He placed himself on a program of rest, and sixty-five years later he still awaited the fulfillment of his doctor's prediction.

The doctor who tells his patient the distressing news that he has not long to live is aware that he may be wrong. Doctors, more than most men, realize how much good care and intelligent behavior, and the unfathomable factor of the will to live, can contribute to the length of human life.

LEARNING ABOUT INDUSTRY

American industry devotes a good deal of attention to informative literature designed to aid school students in understanding industry. Speakers prominent in the field appear at high school assemblies and various enterprises sponsor essay contests which encourage the gathering of industrial information.

It is important that the men and women who will work in and buy from our industry in the future learn something of how it works during their formative school years. The young people in our schools today should be given every opportunity to visit various industrial plants and watch their operation. The production system is one of the great heritages which one generation passes on to another; it is well for the heirs to know what they will inherit and how valuable it is.

The piece of furniture which catches the little woman's eye seems to be either old enough to be priced as an antique or modern enough to be dazzling. Father favors something in the middle, old enough to be comfortable and new enough to be reasonable.

The record employment level means greater production, fatter pay envelopes and more leaves left unraked in the back yard.

Only some of us go to bed while wide awake, but we all get up while still sleepy.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

CREDIT JUMPERS

President Truman is correct beyond criticism in his decision to keep his prime minister, Dean Acheson. He would even be justified in naming Dean Acheson as his successor if he could, because Acheson has made the foreign and domestic policies of the current administration. As our foreign commitments dominate the budget and as the budget controls all domestic affairs, our government has gradually but definitely moved, as to policy, from the White House to the State Department. It will be sound to base the 1952 campaign on a debate of the Acheson policies and achievements.

Dean Acheson is, in effect, the pivot of the administration. Were President Truman to let Dean Acheson go, it would be an admission of the failure of his administration. The President could not do that. The suggestion that Mr. Truman will have Dean Acheson with him on the train when he speaks to the country, is an evidence of political realism.

There is no reason, however, why either Truman or Acheson should go credit jumping for the Japanese treaty. That treaty is the result of the labors of General Douglas MacArthur over a prolonger period in the war. This work was implemented by the efforts of John Foster Dulles. That that was understood at the San Francisco conference was made clear at the mere mention of General MacArthur's name. It brought the strongest applause of the evening. Whatever comes of the Japanese treaty, the credit or blame must be MacArthur's.

The credit jumper is not an extraordinary phenomenon in industry or in government. One man does a tremendous job and at the crucial moment, another, usually his superior, jumps in and grabs the credit. If the young fellow complains, he often finds himself suffering from lessened opportunity or he might even be fired.

When Mr. Truman does the credit jumping for Dean Acheson with regard to the Japanese treaty, he hurts his favorite because those who know the facts will wonder why anyone would want to deprive General MacArthur of the fruits of his achievements.

However, the President does not limit himself to credit jumping MacArthur; he tries to do the same as regards Herbert Hoover, attempting to give the impression that the work of the Hoover Commission was a joint operation of Herbert Hoover and Dean Acheson.

This is not true and President Truman knows it, because the differences between Hoover and Acheson were brought to the President for decision. There is, however, a record to which we can refer which clearly shows where Acheson stood with regard to the Hoover Commission's reports. Acheson concurred with eight reports; he dissented, in whole or in part, from 11 reports. This is Acheson's record:

"Report No. 1. General management of the executive branch. Concurred.
"Report No. 2. Personal management. Concurred.
"Report No. 3. Office of General Services (supply activities). Concurred.
"Report No. 4. The Post Office Department. Concurred.
"Report No. 5. Foreign affairs. Concurred.
"Report No. 6. The Department of Agriculture. Two dissents.
"Report No. 7. The budget and accounting system. One dissent.
"Report No. 8. The National Security Organization. One dissent.
"Report No. 9. Veterans' affairs. Concurred.
"Report No. 10. The Department of Commerce. One dissent.
"Report No. 11. The Treasury Department. Two dissents.
"Report No. 12. Regulatory agencies. Two dissents.
"Report No. 13. The Department of Labor. One dissent.
"Report No. 14. The Department of the Interior. One dissent covering entire report.
"Report No. 15. Social security, education, and Indian affairs. Social security—one over-all dissent; education—concurred; Indian affairs—one over-all dissent.
"Report No. 16. Medical activities. One over-all dissent.
"Report No. 17. Federal business enterprises. One over-all dissent.
"Report No. 18. Overseas administration, federal-state relations, and federal research. Overseas administration—concurred; federal-state relations—over-all dissent; federal research—concurred.
"Report No. 19. —Concluding report. Concurred, except as to dissents noted above."

If Mr. Truman is so proud of Herbert Hoover's work, why does he prevent the full implementation of these reports? If he wants to credit jump in favor of Dean Acheson, why did the secretary of state make it so tough for Hoover when the commission was in session? Also, why does the Post Office Department still fight the proposals for making that agency of government more efficient by modernizing its methods?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EMOTIONS CAUSE SOME SKIN AILMENTS

Most of us think of the skin as just a covering for the various organs and tissues of the body. As a matter of fact, the skin is an organ and just as important to our health as other organs of the body.

The skin contains the sweat glands that help regulate the temperature of the body, the oil glands which keep it soft and pliable; it records various sensations from the nervous system and brain—cold, heat, pain—and is supplied with all the various body tissues found in other organs. There is muscle, nerve, fat tissue and ability to hold sugar—energy—for future needs.

In The Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. D. Cappon, Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, states that "if we stop for a moment to think about the skin, we recognize that it is the objective visible part of the human being who hides the mysteries of his body underneath it. It is the physical boundary between oneself and the outer world."

In addition to the physical sensations—heat, cold, pain—it has mental and emotional functions; it provides a means of communication between the inner and outer worlds of the individual.

The skin shows outward signs of inward disturbances, which help the physician in making his diagnosis and prescribing treatment. We are all familiar with how certain foods (to which the individual is allergic) cause various skin disturbances—hives, rash—but it is only recently that skin specialists and general physicians are finding how the emotions—worry, stress, fear—cause skin eruptions, exaggerate others, and prolong the usual course of certain skin diseases.

Among the common skin ailments due to the emotions are nervous pruritis (itching), blushing due to guilty feelings and flushing caused by anger; hyperhidrosis (excessive perspiration) caused by anxiety (chronic fear) and urticaria (hives).

Eczema, the commonest skin disease known, is often caused by emotional disturbances, although foods and other substances are more frequent causes.

Other skin ailments caused wholly or in part by emotional disturbances are fever blisters, acne, warts and psoriasis (white patches of cells resembling mortar).

Acne

Acne (pimples) is one of the most distressing and embarrassing of ailments. Send today for Dr. Barton's booklet on this subject entitled "Acne—Pimples," enclosing 10 cents and a 3-cent stamp to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Tch, Tch, Don't You Know It's Rude to Peek?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Iowa Governor's Taxes—The problem of whether to prosecute the Republican governor for income-tax evasion has been troubling the Democratic administration in Washington for months. At first the Treasury debated whether it should send the case to the Justice Department, finally decided to treat the matter as routine. . . . The Justice Department is now giving Gov. William Beardsley a chance to come in and argue his case privately on or about October 10. This is a courtesy given every alleged tax defrauder before prosecution starts. . . . What happened was that Governor Beardsley "forgot" to include income from his drug-store and his farm. Furthermore, his memory lapse continued for about four years. . . . When the Treasury agent asked Beardsley for his records, the governor replied that he was "too busy"—"come back later." . . . Beardsley kept stalling and never did produce the records, so the agent went to the governor's bank where he found he had neglected to report about $50,000 over almost a four-year period. . . . The Treasury agent, in reporting to Washington, pointed out that the governor had made quite a few speeches about taxes, so was quite tax conscious.

Guard for Le May—The man the Russians are supposed to fear most is Lieut. Gen. Curtis Le May, commander of the B-36 squadrons at Offut Field, Neb. He is the man slated to direct the dropping of the A-bomb over Moscow in case of war. . . . The air force, therefore, has wanted to put a special guard on Le May, but he has objected. . . . Since the assassination attempt on President Truman, however, Air Secretary Finletter has overruled Le May and put a special sentry at Offut Field's officers' quarters with instructions to keep his eye on Le May.

Republican Survey — A GOP scout friendly to Eisenhower has just finished a survey of Illinois, home bailiwick of the Chicago Tribune's Colonel McCormick and the results look good for Ike. . . . Dope is that Werner Schroeder, long-time GOP national committeeman and stanch Tribune man, will be dropped. . . . The colonel also appears to be losing out in Cook county (Chicago), with Sinon Murray of Cicero likely to become the local Republican power. . . . McCormick has been to shove ex-Sen. Curley Brooks down the organization's throat as governor, but won't succeed. Ex-Congressman William Stratton will probably be the candidate instead. However, even the Republicans agree that it won't be easy to defeat popular Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democrat. Next GOP survey for Eisenhower will be of Wisconsin.

Behind Iron Curtain—Reaction to freedom balloon leaflets from Czechoslovakia was a bit slow at first, but is now snowballing. Czechs are surreptitiously tacking leaflets up on bulletin boards—even on official government boards—nailing them on telegraph poles, and mimeographing them. . . . one bunch of Czech Communists were blazing mad when each received a copy of the freedom-friendship message anonymously in the mail. . . . the leaflets are making such inroads that the official Communist paper Tvorba devoted one-half its front page to a cartoon showing President Truman passing out balloons to Czech exiles. The exiles were Drs. Zenkle, Majer and Peroutka, who were dressed in medieval armor as knights of yore and labeled "Crusaders." . . . The cartoon, of course, was aimed at two things: 1. To make the friendship balloons appear as a U. S. government operation; 2. To make the crusade for freedom appear as spurred on by Czech exiles. . . . Actually the crusade for freedom is backed by such widely assorted Americans as Dan Tobin of the Teamsters Union, Frank Altschul of Lehman Brothers, Dave Dubinsky of the Ladies Garment Workers, and Harold Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania. . . . Eleven million leaflets were dropped—enough for every third man, woman and child in Czechoslovakia.

Monkey-wrench Congress—The heat of the tax debate has coined a new name for this Congress—"The Monkey-wrench Congress." . . . First, Congress threw a monkey-wrench into the anti-inflation program—at which time many senators argued that they would control inflation later when the tax bill came around. . . . Now the same senators have thrown a monkey-wrench into the tax bill by opening up big loopholes for special interests. . . . In other words, the senators kicked the lid off profits with one foot via the controls bill, then eased the taxes on these profits with the other. Nothing could help inflation more.

He Bet on Hirohito—In all the hosannas sung over the Japanese peace treaty and the plaudits given MacArthur, Acheson and Dulles, one man who definitely deserved a bow was not there. He is gaunt, grizzled Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan. It was Joe Grew who worked out the idea, later followed by MacArthur, of betting our money on Emperor Hirohito. Knowing their love of the emperor, Grew figured that the Japanese would follow Hirohito when he decreed at surrender; and would also follow him if he gave the nod to us in post-war Japan. Therefore he urged a policy of emperor-cooperation. . . . Grew also knew Hirohito was a modern, common-sense individual, had traveled to Europe as a youngster, had been partially tutored by a Japanese Quaker, and was inherently against the war lords. . . . Many people criticized Grew for his policy during the war years—among them this writer. Therefore, I should like to be among those—as I have before—to pay him tribute on the wise policy which eventually culminated in the peace treaty at San Francisco.

Harding defended—On top of Herbert Hoover's defense of the late President Harding, Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming threw a quote from Harding into the teeth of senators voting for special privileges in the tax bill. It showed Harding to be a man of basic idealism even though weak about carrying it out. . . . Here is what Harding said: ". . . We may call to universal service every plant, agency, or facility, all in the sublime sacrifice for country, and not one penny of war profit shall inure to the benefit of private individual, corporation, or combination, but all above the normal shall flow into the defense chest of the nation. There is something inherently wrong, something out of accord with the ideals of representative democracy, when one portion of our citizenship turns its activities to private gain and defensive war, while another is fighting, sacrificing, or dying for national preservation." . . . Senator O'Mahoney, incidentally, has waged a tenacious fight for the little taxpayer.

The Orchid That Works for a Living

The word vanilla is derived from the Spanish. It means "little pod". In each of the now widely scattered species of the vanilla plant, the pod is preceded by a small blossom which leaves no doubt that the plant belongs to the orchid family.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 27 — It's a curious commentary on the handling of tax legislation that, whenever a revenue bill is under consideration, the "left wing" is found striving for higher and higher excess-profits-tax rates.

The assumption is that this is a means of soaking "big business," and presumably the "left wing" is the friend of little business.

Actually it works out just the other way. Nearly every excess-profits-tax law enacted under the various Democratic administrations has been of major assistance to the well-entrenched companies and has dealt a severe blow to the smaller competitors.

If the system of "free enterprise" in America means the removal of unfair competition, then the "left wing" has followed a consistent pattern over the years designed to help the monopolies and the larger business. These big institutions usually have a better "base period" for computing excess profits than the smaller ones. Also they have large reserves. When the smaller companies are able to make a little money during prosperous periods, the government takes most of it away from them. As a consequence, when the prosperity ends and deflation begins, these smaller companies usually have not accumulated sufficient reserves to meet the change in economic conditions.

During the last war, Congress definitely took care of "postwar" deflation. Provisions were inserted in the law allowing refunds to companies that might suffer severe losses in postwar years. No such provisions permitting refunds are in the new law. In the present period of tension there is no "postwar" period in sight. Hence, in case of a sudden deflation, the companies that started up in the last few years and have begun to obtain a fairly substantial part of the total volume of business done in a particular industry will find themselves in financial difficulties. Extensive unemployment may result from their failures and in many cases they will be swallowed up in forced mergers with large companies.

To maintain high-level employment it will be necessary to look ahead to the period of deflation that may come in 1953 when the present armament program tapers off. It will be much more expensive then to finance, by means of grants and loans, new work projects of the WPA variety than to protect new businesses now.

This is the time to be thinking of what happens when the present period of tension undergoes a change, as might occur if there is an overthrow of a government in any of the satellite countries and it begins to be apparent that Soviet imperialism is weakening.

It is one of the unexplained factors of present-day legislation that labor-union leaders whose workers have the most to lose from unemployment are the very ones who are pressing Congress to raise the excess-profits rates virtually to the point of confiscation.

The rates in the proposed law about to be enacted are higher than anything encountered in either World War 1 or World War 2. Not only have the regular corporation tax rates been raised to a point far beyond any other rate of its kind heretofore but the excess-profits rate combined with the regular corporate rates will exceed in severity the rates in effect from 1941 to 1945.

Labor-union leaders may have the idea that, if the rates are high enough, employers will diminish their resistance to wage increases and fringe benefits. This may be true of the so-called monopolies, but it is not true of the marginal competitors which are trying during the present boom to get a foothold in their respective industries.

There is, of course, back of this pressure for high rates an effort to squeeze every dollar possible in the mistaken belief that this will avoid for Congress the necessity next year of taxing the lower incomes. But even if 100 per cent of the income of individuals earning more than $10,000 a year were confiscated in taxes, the federal government would still be operating at a huge deficit. Taxes are rapidly approaching the saturation point.

What the new tax rates may do to incentive is something to which little thought is usually given by the "left wingers," some of whose ideas of a "planned economy" include government ownership, nationalization, and forms of state socialism if the economic situation should become chaotic. The responsibility of the "left wingers," however, for bringing on such a period of chaos in a democracy is not always clear when the catastrophe has happened. Hence what is taking place in the Senate these days in connection with the pressure for higher and higher excess-profits taxes is more significant, ideologically speaking, than appears to meet the eye.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 27—The few respectable individuals who served on the "President's Committee on Civil Rights" here get their noses rubbed in another flagrant case of mob terrorism by criminal unioneers. By the committee's deliberate design, union mob action was exempted from their proposed federal law against lynching. It It would be absurd to plead that these persons were so stupid that they did not realize that their official recommendations intentionally implied that lynchings were righteous if committed by union mobs against innocent citizens not even suspected of any crime. They would grant to union mobs a vested right to engage in cold-blooded conduct which would be heinous if committed in hot blood by spontaneous, unorganized gangs of neighbors aroused by some horrible crime against one of their women. The "report" of this group is a disgraceful concession to terrorism different in no way from the depredations of Hitler's Brown Shirts.

The Boston Evening American of Sept. 13 reported that goons of the CIO had attacked the homes in Dighton, Mass., 40 miles from Boston, the state capital, of law-abiding citizens employed by the Mt. Hope Finishing Co., a textile firm.

The town has no police force; the sheriff is no longer a peace officer, having been superseded by the state police, and Governor Paul A. Dever, a Democrat, refused to send the state police on the ground that the situation was not beyond the control of the non-existent local force.

If this had been a mob outbreak by infuriated southern farmers against a team of Communist provocateurs sent into some rural area from New York, the "President's Committee on Civil Rights" would have desired the Department of Justice to prosecute the local officials and bring suit for damages against the local government. The "committee," a dummy front, as it now appears, advocated damages in favor of the Communists in such a case even though they were bent on violent insurrection.

"A good portion of Massachusetts citizenry was amazed to learn that the state police may not give protection to women and children menaced by mob violence resulting from any labor dispute unless they are ordered to do so by the governor," the Boston Evening American said. "A larger portion of the public will resent Governor Dever's refusal to permit the state police to protect the lives and property of Dighton residents who suffered mob violence.

"Dighton has been a strike-divided town as the result of a jurisdictional dispute at the Mt. Hope Finishing Co. One faction, in a howling mob of 200 or more, descended on the home of members of the other faction, stoned them, beat up one woman, damaged considerable property, and endangered the lives of children, who became hysterical. There are 52 reserve policemen. Their chief duty is traffic direction during the racing season at the dog track. Twenty-two of the reserves are employed at the plant. Half of them are strikers.

"At least two of the menfolks in besieged homes armed themselves and fired shots in the air to scare off the attackers."

These individuals would have been within their rights had they blown the heads off as many of the terrorists as they could hit with their shotguns. The right of the citizen to defend himself with all necessary force, when the police abandon him, is well established. He has the right to kill. In one strike, waged against several mid-western communities by criminal rioters of the CIO Packinghouse Workers, two law-abiding citizens, both Negroes, each killed a picket with well-directed gun-fire. Both were acquitted by juries.

"While the assault was under way," the Boston Evening Ameri-

APPEAL FOR CRUSADE FUNDS

Richard M. Kalish, local chairman of the Crusade for Freedom drive for financial assistance to help fight communism, announces that a one-day campaign has been set for Kingston on Monday, October 8. Local residents may send their contributions to the local postmaster in Kingston.

The Crusade for Freedom campaign for funds has won the enthusiastic support and participation of countless well-informed Americans. If Radio Free Europe is making as much of an impression in Europe as it is in the United States, it should accomplish a great deal in counteracting Communist propaganda.

The central idea of Radio Free Europe is that Communist propaganda can be countered best behind the Iron Curtain by the voices of persons who have lived in the countries now ruled by communism and who escaped to the West because they could not endure the oppressive atmosphere of the Red doctrine and life. These persons know what life was like in their countries before the Reds took over, and what it has become since. They can speak to the people in their homelands not only in their own tongues but with their own feelings, and out of their own backgrounds and traditions. Also important is the point that Radio Free Europe is a private, not a government, enterprise.

It is claimed in Europe that the voice of Radio Free Europe is being heard, and if it is heard it surely must be heeded to some extent.

Those who will help in this local campaign may be helping to keep the truth alive in lands where present rulers are bent on destroying the very memory of truth.

DEATH HELD OFF

Dr. George C. Lippincott recently celebrated his hundred and first birthday at his home in Salem, New Jersey. He is the oldest living retired naval officer and the oldest graduate of Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

In 1886 Dr. Lippincott was retired from the Navy and told that he had only a few months to live because of a serious heart ailment. He placed himself on a program of rest, and sixty-five years later he still awaited the fulfillment of his doctor's prediction.

The doctor who tells his patient the distressing news that he has not long to live is aware that he may be wrong. Doctors, more than most men, realize how much good care and intelligent behavior, and the unfathomable factor of the will to live, can contribute to the length of human life.

LEARNING ABOUT INDUSTRY

American industry devotes a good deal of attention to informative literature designed to aid school students in understanding industry. Speakers prominent in the field appear at high school assemblies and various enterprises sponsor essay contests which encourage the gathering of industrial information.

It is important that the men and women who will work in and buy from our industry in the future learn something of how it works during their formative school years. The young people in our schools today should be given every opportunity to visit various industrial plants and watch their operation. The production system is one of the great heritages which one generation passes on to another; it is well for the heirs to know what they will inherit and how valuable it is.

CREDIT JUMPERS

President Truman is correct beyond criticism in his decision to keep his prime minister, Dean Acheson. He would even be justified in naming Dean Acheson as his successor if he could, because Acheson has made the foreign and domestic policies of the current administration. As our foreign commitments dominate the budget and as the budget controls all domestic affairs, our government has gradually but definitely moved, as to policy, from the White House to the State Department. It will be sound to base the 1952 campaign on a debate of the Acheson policies and achievements.

Dean Acheson is, in effect, the pivot of the administration. Were President Truman to let Dean Acheson go, it would be an admission of the failure of his administration. The President could not do that. The suggestion that Mr. Truman will have Dean Acheson with him on the train when he speaks to the country, is an evidence of political realism.

There is no reason, however, why either Truman or Acheson should go credit jumping for the Japanese treaty. That treaty is the result of the labors of General Douglas MacArthur over a prolonger period in the war. This work was implemented by the efforts of John Foster Dulles. That that was understood at the San Francisco conference was made clear at the mere mention of General MacArthur's name. It brought the strongest applause of the evening. Whatever comes of the Japanese treaty, the credit or blame must be MacArthur's.

The credit jumper is not an extraordinary phenomenon in industry or in government. One man does a tremendous job and at the crucial moment, another, usually his superior, jumps in and grabs the credit. If the young fellow complains, he often finds himself suffering from lessened opportunity or he might even be fired.

When Mr. Truman does the credit jumping for Dean Acheson with regard to the Japanese treaty, he hurts his favorite because those who know the facts will wonder why anyone would want to deprive General MacArthur of the fruits of his achievements.

However, the President does not limit himself to credit jumping MacArthur; he tries to do the same as regards Herbert Hoover, attempting to give the impression that the work of the Hoover Commission was a joint operation of Herbert Hoover and Dean Acheson.

This is not true and President Truman knows it, because the differences between Hoover and Acheson were brought to the President for decision. There is, however, a record to which we can refer which clearly shows where Acheson stood with regard to the Hoover Commission's reports. Acheson concurred with eight reports; he dissented, in whole or in part, from 11 reports. This is Acheson's record:

"Report No. 1. General management of the executive branch. Concurred.

"Report No. 2. Personal management. Concurred.

"Report No. 3. Office of General Services (supply activities). Concurred.

"Report No. 4. The Post Office Department. Concurred.

"Report No. 5. Foreign affairs. Concurred.

"Report No. 6. The Department of Agriculture. Two dissents.

"Report No. 7. The budget and accounting system. One dissent.

"Report No. 8. The National Security Organization. One dissent.

"Report No. 9. Veterans' affairs. Concurred.

"Report No. 10. The Department of Commerce. One dissent.

"Report No. 11. The Treasury Department. Two dissents.

"Report No. 12. Regulatory agencies. Two dissents.

"Report No. 13. The Department of Labor. One dissent.

"Report No. 14. The Department of the Interior. One dissent covering entire report.

"Report No. 15. Social security, education, and Indian affairs. Social security—one over-all dissent; education—concurred; Indian affairs—one over-all dissent.

"Report No. 16. Medical activities. One over-all dissent.

"Report No. 17. Federal business enterprises. One over-all dissent.

"Report No. 18. Overseas administration, federal-state relations, and federal research. Overseas administration—concurred; federal-state relations—over-all dissent; federal research—concurred.

"Report No. 19. —Concluding report. Concurred, except as to dissents noted above."

If Mr. Truman is so proud of Herbert Hoover's work, why does he prevent the full implementation of these reports? If he wants to credit jump in favor of Dean Acheson, why did the secretary of state make it so tough for Hoover when the commission was in session? Also, why does the Post Office Department still fight the proposals for making that agency of government more efficient by modernizing its methods?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EMOTIONS CAUSE SOME SKIN AILMENTS

Most of us think of the skin as just a covering for the various organs and tissues of the body. As a matter of fact, the skin is an organ and just as important to our health as other organs of the body.

The skin contains the sweat glands that help regulate the temperature of the body, the oil glands which keep it soft and pliable; it records various sensations from the nervous system and brain—cold, heat, pain—and is supplied with all the various body tissues found in other organs. There is muscle, nerve, fat tissue and ability to hold sugar—energy—for future needs.

In The Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. D. Cappon, Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, states that "if we stop for a moment to think about the skin, we recognize that it is the objective visible part of the human being who hides the mysteries of his body underneath it. It is the physical boundary between oneself and the outer world."

In addition to the physical sensations—heat, cold, pain—it has mental and emotional functions; it provides a means of communication between the inner and outer worlds of the individual.

The skin shows outward signs of inward disturbances, which help the physician in making his diagnosis and prescribing treatment. We are all familiar with how certain foods (to which the individual is allergic) cause various skin disturbances—hives, rash—but it is only recently that skin specialists and general physicians are finding how the emotions—worry, stress, fear—cause skin eruptions, exaggerate others, and prolong the usual course of certain skin diseases.

Among the common skin ailments due to the emotions are nervous pruritis (itching), blushing due to guilty feelings and flushing caused by anger; hyperhidrosis (excessive perspiration) caused by anxiety (chronic fear) and urticaria (hives).

Eczema, the commonest skin disease known, is often caused by emotional disturbances, although foods and other substances are more frequent causes.

Other skin ailments caused wholly or in part by emotional disturbances are fever blisters, acne, warts and psoriasis (white patches of cells resembling mortar).

Tch, Tch, Don't You Know It's Rude to Peek?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Iowa Governor's Taxes—The problem of whether to prosecute the Republican governor for income-tax evasion has been troubling the Democratic administration in Washington for months. At first the Treasury debated whether it should send the case to the Justice Department, finally decided to treat the matter as routine. . . . The Justice Department is now giving Gov. William Beardsley a chance to come in and argue his case privately on or about October 10. This is a courtesy given every alleged tax defrauder before prosecution starts. . . . What happened was that Governor Beardsley "forgot" to include income from his drugstore and his farm. Furthermore, his memory lapse continued for about four years. . . . When the Treasury agent asked Beardsley for his records, the governor replied that he was "too busy"—"come back later." . . . Beardsley kept stalling and never did produce the records, so the agent went to the governor's bank where he found he had neglected to report about $50,000 over almost a four-year period. . . . The Treasury agent, in reporting to Washington, pointed out that the governor had made quite a few speeches about taxes, so was quite tax conscious.

Guard for Le May—The man the Russians are supposed to fear most is Lieut. Gen. Curtis Le May, commander of the B-36 squadrons at Offut Field, Neb. He is the man slated to direct the dropping of the A-bomb over Moscow in case of war. . . . The air force, therefore, has wanted to put a special guard on Le May, but he has objected. . . . Since the assassination attempt on President Truman, however, Air Secretary Finletter has overruled Le May and put a special sentry at Offut Field's officers' quarters with instructions to keep his eye on Le May.

Republican Survey — A GOP scout friendly to Eisenhower has just finished a survey of Illinois, home bailiwick of the Chicago Tribune's Colonel McCormick and the results look good for Ike. . . . Dope is that Werner Schroeder, long-time GOP national committeeman and stanch Tribune man, will be dropped. . . . The colonel also appears to be losing out in Cook county (Chicago), with Sinon Murray of Cicero likely to become the local Republican power. . . . McCormick has been to shove ex-Sen. Curley Brooks down the organization's throat as governor, but won't succeed. Ex-Congressman William Stratton will probably be the candidate instead. However, even the Republicans agree that it won't be easy to defeat popular Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democrat. Next GOP survey for Eisenhower will be of Wisconsin.

Behind Iron Curtain—Reaction to freedom balloon leaflets from Czechoslovakia was a bit slow at first, but is now snowballing. Czechs are surreptitiously tacking leaflets up on bulletin boards—even on official government boards—nailing them on telegraph poles, and mimeographing them. . . . one bunch of Czech Communists were blazing mad when each received a copy of the freedom-friendship message anonymously in the mail. . . . the leaflets are making such inroads that the official Communist paper Tvorba devoted one-half its front page to a cartoon showing President Truman passing out balloons to Czech exiles. The exiles were Drs. Zenkle, Majer and Peroutka, who were dressed in medieval armor as knights of yore and labeled "Crusaders." . . . The cartoon, of course, was aimed at two things: 1. To make the friendship balloons appear as a U. S. government operation; 2. To make the crusade for freedom appear as spurred on by Czech exiles. . . . Actually the crusade for freedom is backed by such widely assorted Americans as Dan Tobin of the Teamsters Union, Frank Altschul of Lehman Brothers, Dave Dubinsky of the Ladies Garment Workers, and Harold Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania. . . . Eleven million leaflets were dropped—enough for every third man, woman and child in Czechoslovakia.

Monkey-wrench Congress—The heat of the tax debate has coined a new name for this Congress—"The Monkey-wrench Congress." . . . First, Congress threw a monkey-wrench into the anti-inflation program—at which time many senators argued that they would control inflation later when the tax bill came around. . . . Now the same senators have thrown a monkey-wrench into the tax bill by opening up big loopholes for special interests. . . . In other words, the senators kicked the lid off profits with one foot via the controls bill, then eased the taxes on these profits with the other. Nothing could help inflation more.

He Bet on Hirohito—In all the hosannas sung over the Japanese peace treaty and the plaudits given MacArthur, Acheson and Dulles, one man who definitely deserved a bow was not there. He is gaunt, grizzled Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan. It was Joe Grew who worked out the idea, later followed by MacArthur, of betting our money on Emperor Hirohito. Knowing their love of the emperor, Grew figured that the Japanese would follow Hirohito when he decreed at surrender; and would also follow him if he gave the nod to us in post-war Japan. Therefore he urged a policy of emperor-cooperation. . . . Grew also knew Hirohito was a modern, common-sense individual, had traveled to Europe as a youngster, had been partially tutored by a Japanese Quaker, and was inherently against the war lords. . . . Many people criticized Grew for his policy during the war years—among them this writer. Therefore, I should like to be among those—as I have before—to pay him tribute on the wise policy which eventually culminated in the peace treaty at San Francisco.

Harding defended—On top of Herbert Hoover's defense of the late President Harding, Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming threw a quote from Harding into the teeth of senators voting for special privileges in the tax bill. It showed Harding to be a man of basic idealism even though weak about carrying it out. . . . Here is what Harding said: ". . . We may call to universal service every plant, agency, or facility, all in the sublime sacrifice for country, and not one penny of war profit shall inure to the benefit of private individual, corporation, or combination, but all above the normal shall flow into the defense chest of the nation. There is something inherently wrong, something out of accord with the ideals of representative democracy, when one portion of our citizenship turns its activities to private gain and defensive war, while another is fighting, sacrificing, or dying for national preservation." . . . Senator O'Mahoney, incidentally, has waged a tenacious fight for the little taxpayer.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 27 — It's a curious commentary on the handling of tax legislation that, whenever a revenue bill is under consideration, the "left wing" is found striving for higher and higher excess-profits-tax rates.

The assumption is that this is a means of soaking "big business," and presumably the "left wing" is the friend of little business.

Actually it works out just the other way. Nearly every excess-profits-tax law enacted under the various Democratic administrations has been of major assistance to the well-entrenched companies and has dealt a severe blow to the smaller competitors.

If the system of "free enterprise" in America means the removal of unfair competition, then the "left wing" has followed a consistent pattern over the years designed to help the monopolies and the larger business. These big institutions usually have a better "base period" for computing excess profits than the smaller ones. Also they have large reserves. When the smaller companies are able to make a little money during prosperous periods, the government takes most of it away from them. As a consequence, when the prosperity ends and deflation begins, these smaller companies usually have not accumulated sufficient reserves to meet the change in economic conditions.

During the last war, Congress definitely took care of "postwar" deflation. Provisions were inserted in the law allowing refunds to companies that might suffer severe losses in postwar years. No such provisions permitting refunds are in the new law. In the present period of tension there is no "postwar" period in sight. Hence, in case of a sudden deflation, the companies that started up in the last few years and have begun to obtain a fairly substantial part of the total volume of business done in a particular industry will find themselves in financial difficulties. Extensive unemployment may result from their failures and in many cases they will be swallowed up in forced mergers with large companies.

To maintain high-level employment it will be necessary to look ahead to the period of deflation that may come in 1953 when the present armament program tapers off. It will be much more expensive then to finance, by means of grants and loans, new work projects of the WPA variety than to protect new businesses now.

This is the time to be thinking of what happens when the present period of tension undergoes a change, as might occur if there is an overthrow of a government in any of the satellite countries and it begins to be apparent that Soviet imperialism is weakening.

It is one of the unexplained factors of present-day legislation that labor-union leaders whose workers have the most to lose from unemployment are the very ones who are pressing Congress to raise the excess-profits rates virtually to the point of confiscation.

The rates in the proposed law about to be enacted are higher than anything encountered in either World War 1 or World War 2. Not only have the regular corporation tax rates been raised to a point far beyond any other rate of its kind heretofore but the excess-profits rate combined with the regular corporate rates will exceed in severity the rates in effect from 1941 to 1945.

Labor-union leaders may have the idea that, if the rates are high enough, employers will diminish their resistance to wage increases and fringe benefits. This may be true of the so-called monopolies, but it is not true of the marginal competitors which are trying during the present boom to get a foothold in their respective industries.

There is, of course, back of this pressure for high rates an effort to squeeze every dollar possible in the mistaken belief that this will avoid for Congress the necessity next year of taxing the lower incomes. But even if 100 per cent of the income of individuals earning more than $10,000 a year were confiscated in taxes, the federal government would still be operating at a huge deficit. Taxes are rapidly approaching the saturation point.

What the new tax rates may do to incentive is something to which little thought is usually given by the "left wingers," some of whose ideas of a "planned economy" include government ownership, nationalization, and forms of state socialism if the economic situation should become chaotic. The responsibility of the "left wingers," however, for bringing on such a period of chaos in a democracy is not always clear when the catastrophe has happened. Hence what is taking place in the Senate these days in connection with the pressure for higher and higher excess-profits taxes is more significant, ideologically speaking, than appears to meet the eye.

If this had been a mob outbreak by infuriated southern farmers against a team of Communist provocateurs sent into some rural area from New York, the "President's Committee on Civil Rights" would have desired the Department of Justice to prosecute the local officials and bring suit for damages against the local government. The "committee," a dummy front, as it now appears, advocated damages in favor of the Communists in such a case even though they were bent on violent insurrection.

"A good portion of Massachusetts citizenry was amazed to learn that the state police may not give protection to women and children menaced by mob violence resulting from any labor dispute unless they are ordered to do so by the governor," the Boston Evening American said. "A larger portion of the public will resent Governor Dever's refusal to permit the state police to protect the lives and property of Dighton residents who suffered mob violence.

"Dighton has been a strike-divided town as the result of a jurisdictional dispute at the Mt. Hope Finishing Co. One faction, in a howling mob of 200 or more, descended on the home of members of the other faction, stoned them, beat up one woman, damaged considerable property, and endangered the lives of children, who became hysterical. There are 52 reserve policemen. Their chief duty is traffic direction during the racing season at the dog track. Twenty-two of the reserves are employed at the plant. Half of them are strikers.

"At least two of the menfolks in besieged homes armed themselves and fired shots in the air to scare off the attackers."

These individuals would have been within their rights had they blown the heads off as many of the terrorists as they could hit with their shotguns. The right of the citizen to defend himself with all necessary force, when the police abandon him, is well established. He has the right to kill. In one strike, waged against several mid-western communities by criminal rioters of the CIO Packinghouse Workers, two law-abiding citizens, both Negroes, each killed a picket with well-directed gun-fire. Both were acquitted by juries.

APPEAL FOR CRUSADE FUNDS

Richard M. Kalish, local chairman of the Crusade for Freedom drive for financial assistance to help fight communism, announces that a one-day campaign has been set for Kingston on Monday, October 8. Local residents may send their contributions to the local postmaster in Kingston.

The Crusade for Freedom campaign for funds has won the enthusiastic support and participation of countless well-informed Americans. If Radio Free Europe is making as much of an impression in Europe as it is in the United States, it should accomplish a great deal in counteracting Communist propaganda.

The central idea of Radio Free Europe is that Communist propaganda can be countered best behind the Iron Curtain by the voices of persons who have lived in the countries now ruled by communism and who escaped to the West because they could not endure the oppressive atmosphere of the Red doctrine and life. These persons know what life was like in their countries before the Reds took over, and what it has become since. They can speak to the people in their homelands not only in their own tongues but with their own feelings, and out of their own backgrounds and traditions. Also important is the point that Radio Free Europe is a private, not a government, enterprise.

It is claimed in Europe that the voice of Radio Free Europe is being heard, and if it is heard it surely must be heeded to some extent.

Those who will help in this local campaign may be helping to keep the truth alive in lands where present rulers are bent on destroying the very memory of truth.

DEATH HELD OFF

Dr. George C. Lippincott recently celebrated his hundred and first birthday at his home in Salem, New Jersey. He is the oldest living retired naval officer and the oldest graduate of Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

In 1886 Dr. Lippincott was retired from the Navy and told that he had only a few months to live because of a serious heart ailment. He placed himself on a program of rest, and sixty-five years later he still awaited the fulfillment of his doctor's prediction.

The doctor who tells his patient the distressing news that he has not long to live is aware that he may be wrong. Doctors, more than most men, realize how much good care and intelligent behavior, and the unfathomable factor of the will to live, can contribute to the length of human life.

LEARNING ABOUT INDUSTRY

American industry devotes a good deal of attention to informative literature designed to aid school students in understanding industry. Speakers prominent in the field appear at high school assemblies and various enterprises sponsor essay contests which encourage the gathering of industrial information.

It is important that the men and women who will work in and buy from our industry in the future learn something of how it works during their formative school years. The young people in our schools today should be given every opportunity to visit various industrial plants and watch their operation. The production system is one of the great heritages which one generation passes on to another; it is well for the heirs to know what they will inherit and how valuable it is.

The piece of furniture which catches the little woman's eye seems to be either old enough to be priced as an antique or modern enough to be dazzling. Father favors something in the middle, old enough to be comfortable and new enough to be reasonable.

The record employment level means greater production, fatter pay envelopes and more leaves left unraked in the back yard.

CREDIT JUMPERS

President Truman is correct beyond criticism in his decision to keep his prime minister, Dean Acheson. He would even be justified in naming Dean Acheson as his successor if he could, because Acheson has made the foreign and domestic policies of the current administration. As our foreign commitments dominate the budget and as the budget controls all domestic affairs, our government has gradually but definitely moved, as to policy, from the White House to the State Department. It will be sound to base the 1952 campaign on a debate of the Acheson policies and achievements.

Dean Acheson is, in effect, the pivot of the administration. Were President Truman to let Dean Acheson go, it would be an admission of the failure of his administration. The President could not do that. The suggestion that Mr. Truman will have Dean Acheson with him on the train when he speaks to the country, is an evidence of political realism.

There is no reason, however, why either Truman or Acheson should go credit jumping for the Japanese treaty. That treaty is the result of the labors of General Douglas MacArthur over a prolonger period in the war. This work was implemented by the efforts of John Foster Dulles. That that was understood at the San Francisco conference was made clear at the mere mention of General MacArthur's name. It brought the strongest applause of the evening. Whatever comes of the Japanese treaty, the credit or blame must be MacArthur's.

The credit jumper is not an extraordinary phenomenon in industry or in government. One man does a tremendous job and at the crucial moment, another, usually his superior, jumps in and grabs the credit. If the young fellow complains, he often finds himself suffering from lessened opportunity or he might even be fired.

When Mr. Truman does the credit jumping for Dean Acheson with regard to the Japanese treaty, he hurts his favorite because those who know the facts will wonder why anyone would want to deprive General MacArthur of the fruits of his achievements.

However, the President does not limit himself to credit jumping MacArthur; he tries to do the same as regards Herbert Hoover, attempting to give the impression that the work of the Hoover Commission was a joint operation of Herbert Hoover and Dean Acheson.

This is not true and President Truman knows it, because the differences between Hoover and Acheson were brought to the President for decision. There is, however, a record to which we can refer which clearly shows where Acheson stood with regard to the Hoover Commission's reports. Acheson concurred with eight reports; he dissented, in whole or in part, from 11 reports. This is Acheson's record:

"Report No. 1. General management of the executive branch. Concurred.

"Report No. 2. Personal management. Concurred.

"Report No. 3. Office of General Services (supply activities). Concurred.

"Report No. 4. The Post Office Department. Concurred.

"Report No. 5. Foreign affairs. Concurred.

"Report No. 6. The Department of Agriculture. Two dissents.

"Report No. 7. The budget and accounting system. One dissent.

"Report No. 8. The National Security Organization. One dissent.

"Report No. 9. Veterans' affairs. Concurred.

"Report No. 10. The Department of Commerce. One dissent.

"Report No. 11. The Treasury Department. Two dissents.

"Report No. 12. Regulatory agencies. Two dissents.

"Report No. 13. The Department of Labor. One dissent.

"Report No. 14. The Department of the Interior. One dissent covering entire report.

"Report No. 15. Social security, education, and Indian affairs. Social security—one over-all dissent; education—concurred; Indian affairs—one over-all dissent.

"Report No. 16. Medical activities. One over-all dissent.

"Report No. 17. Federal business enterprises. One over-all dissent.

"Report No. 18. Overseas administration, federal-state relations, and federal research. Overseas administration—concurred; federal-state relations—over-all dissent; federal research—concurred.

"Report No. 19. —Concluding report. Concurred, except as to dissents noted above."

If Mr. Truman is so proud of Herbert Hoover's work, why does he prevent the full implementation of these reports? If he wants to credit jump in favor of Dean Acheson, why did the secretary of state make it so tough for Hoover when the commission was in session? Also, why does the Post Office Department still fight the proposals for making that agency of government more efficient by modernizing its methods?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EMOTIONS CAUSE SOME SKIN AILMENTS

Most of us think of the skin as just a covering for the various organs and tissues of the body. As a matter of fact, the skin is an organ and just as important to our health as other organs of the body.

The skin contains the sweat glands that help regulate the temperature of the body, the oil glands which keep it soft and pliable; it records various sensations from the nervous system and brain—cold, heat, pain—and is supplied with all the various body tissues found in other organs. There is muscle, nerve, fat tissue and ability to hold sugar—energy—for future needs.

In The Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. D. Cappon, Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, states that "if we stop for a moment to think about the skin, we recognize that it is the objective visible part of the human being who hides the mysteries of his body underneath it. It is the physical boundary between oneself and the outer world."

In addition to the physical sensations—heat, cold, pain—it has mental and emotional functions; it provides a means of communication between the inner and outer worlds of the individual.

The skin shows outward signs of inward disturbances, which help the physician in making his diagnosis and prescribing treatment. We are all familiar with how certain foods (to which the individual is allergic) cause various skin disturbances—hives, rash—but it is only recently that skin specialists and general physicians are finding how the emotions—worry, stress, fear—cause skin eruptions, exaggerate others, and prolong the usual course of certain skin diseases.

Among the common skin ailments due to the emotions are nervous pruritis (itching), blushing due to guilty feelings and flushing caused by anger; hyperhidrosis (excessive perspiration) caused by anxiety (chronic fear) and urticaria (hives).

Eczema, the commonest skin disease known, is often caused by emotional disturbances, although foods and other substances are more frequent causes.

Other skin ailments caused wholly or in part by emotional disturbances are fever blisters, acne, warts and psoriasis (white patches of cells resembling mortar).

Tch, Tch, Don't You Know It's Rude to Peek?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Iowa Governor's Taxes—The problem of whether to prosecute the Republican governor for income-tax evasion has been troubling the Democratic administration in Washington for months. At first the Treasury debated whether it should send the case to the Justice Department, finally decided to treat the matter as routine. . . . The Justice Department is now giving Gov. William Beardsley a chance to come in and argue his case privately on or about October 10. This is a courtesy given every alleged tax defrauder before prosecution starts. . . . What happened was that Governor Beardsley "forgot" to include income from his drugstore and his farm. Furthermore, his memory lapse continued for about four years. . . . When the Treasury agent asked Beardsley for his records, the governor replied that he was "too busy"—"come back later." . . . Beardsley kept stalling and never did produce the records, so the agent went to the governor's bank where he found he had neglected to report about $50,000 over almost a four-year period. . . . The Treasury agent, in reporting to Washington, pointed out that the governor had made quite a few speeches about taxes, so was quite tax conscious.

Guard for Le May—The man the Russians are supposed to fear most is Lieut. Gen. Curtis Le May, commander of the B-36 squadrons at Offut Field, Neb. He is the man slated to direct the dropping of the A-bomb over Moscow in case of war. . . . The air force, therefore, has wanted to put a special guard on Le May, but he has objected. . . . Since the assassination attempt on President Truman, however, Air Secretary Finletter has overruled Le May and put a special sentry at Offut Field's officers' quarters with instructions to keep his eye on Le May.

Republican Survey — A GOP scout friendly to Eisenhower has just finished a survey of Illinois, home bailiwick of the Chicago Tribune's Colonel McCormick and the results look good for Ike. . . . Dope is that Werner Schroeder, long-time GOP national committeeman and stanch Tribune man, will be dropped. . . . The colonel also appears to be losing out in Cook county (Chicago), with Sinon Murray of Cicero likely to become the local Republican power. . . . McCormick has been to shove ex-Sen. Curley Brooks down the organization's throat as governor, but won't succeed. Ex-Congressman William Stratton will probably be the candidate instead. However, even the Republicans agree that it won't be easy to defeat popular Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democrat. Next GOP survey for Eisenhower will be of Wisconsin.

Behind Iron Curtain—Reaction to freedom balloon leaflets from Czechoslovakia was a bit slow at first, but is now snowballing. Czechs are surreptitiously tacking leaflets up on bulletin boards—even on official government boards—nailing them on telegraph poles, and mimeographing them. . . . one bunch of Czech Communists were blazing mad when each received a copy of the freedom-friendship message anonymously in the mail. . . . the leaflets are making such inroads that the official Communist paper Tvorba devoted one-half its front page to a cartoon showing President Truman passing out balloons to Czech exiles. The exiles were Drs. Zenkle, Majer and Peroutka, who were dressed in medieval armor as knights of yore and labeled "Crusaders." . . . The cartoon, of course, was aimed at two things: 1. To make the friendship balloons appear as a U. S. government operation; 2. To make the crusade for freedom appear as spurred on by Czech exiles. . . . Actually the crusade for freedom is backed by such widely assorted Americans as Dan Tobin of the Teamsters Union, Frank Altschul of Lehman Brothers, Dave Dubinsky of the Ladies Garment Workers, and Harold Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania. . . . Eleven million leaflets were dropped—enough for every third man, woman and child in Czechoslovakia.

Monkey-wrench Congress—The heat of the tax debate has coined a new name for this Congress—"The Monkey-wrench Congress." . . . First, Congress threw a monkey-wrench into the anti-inflation program—at which time many senators argued that they would control inflation later when the tax bill came around. . . . Now the same senators have thrown a monkey-wrench into the tax bill by opening up big loopholes for special interests. . . . In other words, the senators kicked the lid off profits with one foot via the controls bill, then eased the taxes on these profits with the other. Nothing could help inflation more.

He Bet on Hirohito—In all the hosannas sung over the Japanese peace treaty and the plaudits given MacArthur, Acheson and Dulles, one man who definitely deserved a bow was not there. He is gaunt, grizzled Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan. It was Joe Grew who worked out the idea, later followed by MacArthur, of betting our money on Emperor Hirohito. Knowing their love of the emperor, Grew figured that the Japanese would follow Hirohito when he decreed at surrender; and would also follow him if he gave the nod to us in post-war Japan. Therefore he urged a policy of emperor-cooperation. . . . Grew also knew Hirohito was a modern, common-sense individual, had traveled to Europe as a youngster, had been partially tutored by a Japanese Quaker, and was inherently against the war lords. . . . Many people criticized Grew for his policy during the war years—among them this writer. Therefore, I should like to be among those—as I have before—to pay him tribute on the wise policy which eventually culminated in the peace treaty at San Francisco.

Harding defended—On top of Herbert Hoover's defense of the late President Harding, Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming threw a quote from Harding into the teeth of senators voting for special privileges in the tax bill. It showed Harding to be a man of basic idealism even though weak about carrying it out. . . . Here is what Harding said: ". . . We may call to universal service every plant, agency, or facility, all in the sublime sacrifice for country, and not one penny of war profit shall inure to the benefit of private individual, corporation, or combination, but all above the normal shall flow into the defense chest of the nation. There is something inherently wrong, something out of accord with the ideals of representative democracy, when one portion of our citizenship turns its activities to private gain and defensive war, while another is fighting, sacrificing, or dying for national preservation." . . . Senator O'Mahoney, incidentally, has waged a tenacious fight for the little taxpayer.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 27 — It's a curious commentary on the handling of tax legislation that, whenever a revenue bill is under consideration, the "left wing" is found striving for higher and higher excess-profits-tax rates.

The assumption is that this is a means of soaking "big business," and presumably the "left wing" is the friend of little business.

Actually it works out just the other way. Nearly every excess-profits-tax law enacted under the various Democratic administrations has been of major assistance to the well-entrenched companies and has dealt a severe blow to the smaller competitors.

If the system of "free enterprise" in America means the removal of unfair competition, then the "left wing" has followed a consistent pattern over the years designed to help the monopolies and the larger business. These big institutions usually have a better "base period" for computing excess profits than the smaller ones. Also they have large reserves. When the smaller companies are able to make a little money during prosperous periods, the government takes most of it away from them. As a consequence, when the prosperity ends and deflation begins, these smaller companies usually have not accumulated sufficient reserves to meet the change in economic conditions.

During the last war, Congress definitely took care of "postwar" deflation. Provisions were inserted in the law allowing refunds to companies that might suffer severe losses in postwar years. No such provisions permitting refunds are in the new law. In the present period of tension there is no "postwar" period in sight. Hence, in case of a sudden deflation, the companies that started up in the last few years and have begun to obtain a fairly substantial part of the total volume of business done in a particular industry will find themselves in financial difficulties. Extensive unemployment may result from their failures and in many cases they will be swallowed up in forced mergers with large companies.

To maintain high-level employment it will be necessary to look ahead to the period of deflation that may come in 1953 when the present armament program tapers off. It will be much more expensive then to finance, by means of grants and loans, new work projects of the WPA variety than to protect new businesses now.

This is the time to be thinking of what happens when the present period of tension undergoes a change, as might occur if there is an overthrow of a government in any of the satellite countries and it begins to be apparent that Soviet imperialism is weakening.

It is one of the unexplained factors of present-day legislation that labor-union leaders whose workers have the most to lose from unemployment are the very ones who are pressing Congress to raise the excess-profits rates virtually to the point of confiscation.

The rates in the proposed law about to be enacted are higher than anything encountered in either World War 1 or World War 2. Not only have the regular corporation tax rates been raised to a point far beyond any other rate of its kind heretofore but the excess-profits rate combined with the regular corporate rates will exceed in severity the rates in effect from 1941 to 1945.

Labor-union leaders may have the idea that, if the rates are high enough, employers will diminish their resistance to wage increases and fringe benefits. This may be true of the so-called monopolies, but it is not true of the marginal competitors which are trying during the present boom to get a foothold in their respective industries.

There is, of course, back of this pressure for high rates an effort to squeeze every dollar possible in the mistaken belief that this will avoid for Congress the necessity next year of taxing the lower incomes. But even if 100 per cent of the income of individuals earning more than $10,000 a year were confiscated in taxes, the federal government would still be operating at a huge deficit. Taxes are rapidly approaching the saturation point.

What the new tax rates may do to incentive is something to which little thought is usually given by the "left wingers," some of whose ideas of a "planned economy" include government ownership, nationalization, and forms of state socialism if the economic situation should become chaotic. The responsibility of the "left wingers," however, for bringing on such a period of chaos in a democracy is not always clear when the catastrophe has happened. Hence what is taking place in the Senate these days in connection with the pressure for higher and higher excess-profits taxes is more significant, ideologically speaking, than appears to meet the eye.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 27—The few respectable individuals who served on the "President's Committee on Civil Rights" here get their noses rubbed in another flagrant case of mob terrorism by criminal unionceers. By the committee's deliberate design, union mob action was exempted from their proposed federal law against lynching. It It would be absurd to plead that these persons were so stupid that they did not realize that their official recommendations intentionally implied that lynchings were righteous if committed by union mobs against innocent citizens not even suspected of any crime. They would grant to union mobs a vested right to engage in cold-blooded conduct which would be heinous if committed in hot blood by spontaneous, unorganized gangs of neighbors aroused by some horrible crime against one of their women. The "report" of this group is a disgraceful concession to terrorism different in no way from the depredations of Hitler's Brown Shirts.

The Boston Evening American of Sept. 13 reported that goons of the CIO had attacked the homes in Dighton, Mass., 40 miles from Boston, the state capital, of law-abiding citizens employed by the Mt. Hope Finishing Co., a textile firm.

The town has no police force; the sheriff is no longer a peace officer, having been superseded by the state police, and Governor Paul A. Dever, a Democrat, refused to send the state police on the ground that the situation was not beyond the control of the non-existent local force.

If this had been a mob outbreak by infuriated southern farmers against a team of Communist provocateurs sent into some rural area from New York, the "President's Committee on Civil Rights" would have desired the Department of Justice to prosecute the local officials and bring suit for damages against the local government. The "committee," a dummy front, as it now appears, advocated damages in favor of the Communists in such a case even though they were bent on violent insurrection.

"A good portion of Massachusetts citizenry was amazed to learn that the state police may not give protection to women and children menaced by mob violence resulting from any labor dispute unless they are ordered to do so by the governor," the Boston Evening American said. "A larger portion of the public will resent Governor Dever's refusal to permit the state police to protect the lives and property of Dighton residents who suffered mob violence.

"Dighton has been a strike-divided town as the result of a jurisdictional dispute at the Mt. Hope Finishing Co. More Chaperones Volunteer for Elks' Teen Dance

With all indications pointing to a larger attendance than at first anticipated, additional members of the Elks Auxiliary have volunteered their services as chaperones for the teen-age dance Friday night in the clubhouse on Fair street.

The auxiliary is cooperating with Kingston Lodge, 550, B. P. O. Elks in sponsoring the social event which is scheduled for after the high school football game.

Chaperones added to the list recently announced by Mrs. Henry DeWitt, president of the auxiliary, are Mrs. Herbert Simonetty, Mrs. Henry Bruck, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Alex Lovy, Mrs. John Machone, Mrs. James Berardi, Mrs. Charles Ryan, Mrs. Herbert Van Deusen.

Music for the event, arranged as part of youth program planned by Exalted Ruler John J. Mrs. Malsin Dies

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Lane Bryant Malsin, who at the turn of the century founded a ladies' wear business that grew into Lane Bryant, nationwide chain, died of a heart ailment last night at her Fifth avenue home. She was 72. Her firm probably was most widely-known for creating a ready-to-wear maternity dress for expectant mothers. She started it as a near-penniless seamstress working in a one-room third-floor flat in Gouverneur street. At her death it was a vast retail chain for women's apparel of all descriptions. Mrs. Malsin, whose real name was Lena Himmelstein, came to this country in 1895 from Lithuania.

Mrs. Peter Corsones Is Elected Hospital Auxiliary President

Mrs. Peter D. Corsones was elected president of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary by a unanimous vote Tuesday at the group's first regular meeting of the season held in the Nurses' Home. Mrs. Corsones succeeds Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, Sr.

During the meeting Mrs. Roy M. Sutliff, Mrs. Louis Smith and Mrs. Reynolds Carr were appointed to the nominating committee. They named the following slate of officers which was approved and elected: Mrs. Parker K. Brinnier, first vice-president; Mrs. Joseph Jacobson, second vice-president; Mrs. Arthur W. Hazenbush, treasurer; Mrs. Albert MacFadden, Jr., recording secretary, and Mrs. Frederick Chidsey, corresponding secretary.

In Mrs. Holcomb's absence, Mrs. Brinnier presided at the business meeting preceding the election.

At the tea which followed, Mrs. Brinnier poured. Mrs. Walter Elston and Mrs. H. W. Wiggins were hostesses for the afternoon.

The group will meet again Tuesday, October 30 at 7:45 p. m. instead of in the afternoon. All members, and those interested in joining the auxiliary, are urged to attend as activities for the coming year will be discussed and committee heads appointed.

Big Movie Audience

The National Geographic Society estimates that more than 230,000,000 persons see movies in the world each week.

A Different Garbo

Greta Garbo, minus the glamour that made her one of history's best known movie stars, leaves plane recently at Orly Field, Paris, France, after trip from New York. She wears the ever-present dark glasses.

Cheese Is Rich Food

It takes five quarts of milk to make a pound of American cheese; as a result cheese is a concentrated food high in nutrients.

Brilliant Specialist Put in Straitjacket

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 27 (AP)—A brilliant brain specialist, described by his wife as "a sick man," was in a hospital for the insane today at her request.

Dr. Harry E. Hewitt, Jr., 41, was committed yesterday to Central State Hospital at Norman in a straitjacket following a violent struggle with four deputies in his office.

The action came three weeks to the day after dismissal of first degree manslaughter charges filed against the highly regarded physician in connection with the death Aug. 9 of a woman patient.

Hewitt was accused of drunkenly administering drugs to Mrs. Allene Shuler for a headache. The Borger, Tex., woman collapsed and died within 24 hours after treatment.

At his preliminary hearing in city court Sept. 5, Hewitt testified Mrs. Shuler died of a stroke. He denied being drunk.

The case was dismissed by Judge J. F. Beavers after five doctors refused to venture a professional guess as to cause of death.

County Judge James L. Powell disclosed yesterday Mrs. Hewitt signed a petition for her husband's commitment on the day of Mrs. Shuler's death but asked that he withhold action until after the hearing.

Powell described the doctor as being "in pretty bad shape." He and two psychiatrists examined Hewitt following the Shuler incident but findings were never divulged.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

ACCEPT KIND INTENTIONS

A letter today says: "A neighbor recently had an overflow of guests (family) and I offered my spare bedroom which was accepted. They were no trouble. Since they left I have found on the dresser a nice thank-you note and a small sum of money with a request I buy something for myself. Should I return this money?"

Nothing could hurt their feelings more than to misunderstand their kind intentions. You really cannot do other than follow their request and write a thank-you letter telling them what it was you bought.

Wedding Guest Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: When you stipulate that a wedding guest may wear whatever she would wear to church on a Sunday, this assumes, of course, that everyone goes to church on Sundays. Will you describe the clothes some other way?

Answer: I cannot imagine that anyone can be ignorant of the type of clothes that would be proper in church—meaning a suit with a hat or a daytime dress with a hat. The one important rule is that no woman may be bare-headed in church.

The New Reply Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be in bad taste for us to send out the printed reply cards which the stationer suggests as the solution for laxness among the wedding guests? He tells me that there has been so much uncertainty attached to the R.S.V.P. that the reply cards now come into fashion are almost a necessity.

Answer: I see no offense to taste in sending these cards out. The laxness in sending replies is sufficient excuse for the endorsement of this new practice.

Children at Weddings

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it customary to let the very young children of sisters and brothers of the bride and groom come to the wedding and dinner and exclude all the other young children?

Answer: Yes!

Fall weddings are coming and brides-to-be are asking many questions regarding the procedure. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her booklet No. 501, "Weddings," includes the details. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Journalistic Milestone

Karachi (AP)—In the first venture of its kind in Pakistan—and perhaps in all Asia—a group of Karachi journalists have started publication of a newspaper they own cooperatively. Each member of the group holds an equal share in the firm, which began this month publication of the Karachi "Evening Star." The paper's editor, M. A. Zuberi, recently visited the United States on a tour sponsored by the Department of State. He claims the venture in which each member of the staff holds a share in the paper, is the first of its kind in Asia.

As Pegler Sees It

can continued, "One woman telephoned the Rehoboth barracks three times for state police protection. She was told that because the violence was the result of a labor dispute the troopers could not intervene without an order from the governor. That joker in the state law is nothing but a state license permitting goons to run amuck."

Governor Dever issued an untrue statement holding that the situation had been exaggerated because there was no resistance to arrest.

"Incidents of resisting arrest were unreported because of the lack of police to attempt arrests," the Boston American said. "And the mob—not 'crowds'—was dispersed only by the gunfire of besieged men." Rocks were thrown through windows, not only on the night of the big riot but many times before. Mrs. Edward O'Connell, the wife of a non-striker, was severely beaten about the face. And the normal criminal conduct of the typical CIO goon had been routine, including the strewing of nails in driveways, "rocking" and overturning of automobiles and the stoning of individuals on the roads. A can of paint was thrown into one car. A foreign substance was placed in the gas tank of another to ruin the engine, a new goon technique.

The textile workers' union in this area was organized under an ex-convict who had served time for managing a team of prostitutes in Worcester. He was promoted to a regional job and honored at a ceremonial dinner by the army and the War Production Board. After his well-known criminal record was published in these dispatches, he was quietly dismissed.

Brilliant Specialist Put in Straitjacket

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 27 (AP)—A brilliant brain specialist, described by his wife as "a sick man," was in a hospital for the insane today at her request.

Dr. Harry E. Hewitt, Jr., 41, was committed yesterday to Central State Hospital at Norman in a straitjacket following a violent struggle with four deputies in his office.

The action came three weeks to the day after dismissal of first degree manslaughter charges filed against the highly regarded physician in connection with the death Aug. 9 of a woman patient.

Hewitt was accused of drunkenly administering drugs to Mrs. Allene Shuler for a headache. The Borger, Tex., woman collapsed and died within 24 hours after treatment.

At his preliminary hearing in city court Sept. 5, Hewitt testified Mrs. Shuler died of a stroke. He denied being drunk.

The case was dismissed by Judge J. F. Beavers after five doctors refused to venture a professional guess as to cause of death.

County Judge James L. Powell disclosed yesterday Mrs. Hewitt signed a petition for her husband's commitment on the day of Mrs. Shuler's death but asked that he withhold action until after the hearing.

Powell described the doctor as being "in pretty bad shape." He and two psychiatrists examined Hewitt following the Shuler incident but findings were never divulged.

ACCEPT KIND INTENTIONS

A letter today says: "A neighbor recently had an overflow of guests (family) and I offered my spare bedroom which was accepted. They were no trouble. Since they left I have found on the dresser a nice thank-you note and a small sum of money with a request I buy something for myself. Should I return this money?"

Nothing could hurt their feelings more than to misunderstand their kind intentions. You really cannot do other than follow their request and write a thank-you letter telling them what it was you bought.

Wedding Guest Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: When you stipulate that a wedding guest may wear whatever she would wear to church on a Sunday, this assumes, of course, that everyone goes to church on Sundays. Will you describe the clothes some other way?

Answer: I cannot imagine that anyone can be ignorant of the type of clothes that would be proper in church—meaning a suit with a hat or a daytime dress with a hat. The one important rule is that no woman may be bare-headed in church.

The New Reply Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be in bad taste for us to send out the printed reply cards which the stationer suggests as the solution for laxness among the wedding guests? He tells me that there has been so much uncertainty attached to the R.S.V.P. that the reply cards now come into fashion are almost a necessity.

Answer: I see no offense to taste in sending these cards out. The laxness in sending replies is sufficient excuse for the endorsement of this new practice.

Children at Weddings

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it customary to let the very young children of sisters and brothers of the bride and groom come to the wedding and dinner and exclude all the other young children?

Answer: Yes!

Journalistic Milestone

Karachi (AP)—In the first venture of its kind in Pakistan—and perhaps in all Asia—a group of Karachi journalists have started publication of a newspaper they own cooperatively. Each member of the group holds an equal share in the firm, which began this month publication of the Karachi "Evening Star." The paper's editor, M. A. Zuberi, recently visited the United States on a tour sponsored by the Department of State. He claims the venture in which each member of the staff holds a share in the paper, is the first of its kind in Asia.

can continued. "One woman telephoned the Rehoboth barracks three times for state police protection. She was told that because the violence was the result of a labor dispute the troopers could not intervene without an order from the governor. That joker in the state law is nothing but a state license permitting goons to run amuck."

Governor Dever issued an untrue statement holding that the situation had been exaggerated because there was no resistance to arrest.

Probe Witness Tells of Threats

New York, Sept. 27 (AP) — A crime probe witness testified yesterday that Staten Island's Republican leader, Edward A. Ruppell, tried to influence his testimony by intimating that his parents might "get hurt."

The fireworks finale to seven days of hearings before the State Crime Commission was provided by Henry E. Lucking, 32-year-old air force veteran.

Lucking previously had testified he had paid Ruppell $2,000 in 1945 to help get a liquor store license. The Richmond county GOP chairman denied it.

Lucking related the story of the alleged threat to his family in the concluding bit of testimony given to the commission as it wound up — temporarily at least—its probe of crime and political corruption on Staten Island.

General Denials Made

Ruppell — accused of shady deals by a parade of witnesses in New York city's ferryboat borough — entered blanket denials. His general theme was that any money which passed was all for the party treasury.

As the open hearings reached their climax, the federal government placed income tax liens totaling $436,072 against Staten Island's "Dee boys," named by probe witnesses as bosses of the island's bookmaking racket.

The Crime Commission spent considerable time in trying to find out how the three—Michael, John and Alexander Dalessio—rose to riches in a decade. The probers didn't get much real financial information from the brothers.

The liens—mostly for the years 1945 through 1950—listed these alleged arrearages: Michael, $297,478; John, $72,368; and Alexander, $66,225.

Will Report Findings

The State Crime Commission, which has no power to indict or prosecute, will report its findings to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who created it, and to the legislature.

If any criminal prosecutions develop from the testimony the job will be up to a right-hand man of Gov. Dewey.

William B. Herlands, associate of Dewey in the latter's racket-busting days, has been named special prosecutor in all matters connected with the Staten Island inquiry.

Herlands was named after Dewey superseded Democratic Prosecutor Herman Methfessel in such matters on the ground of "gross abuse of power." Methfessel had caused the arrest of a woman on perjury charges after she testified she saw him in a house where roulette was being played.

Protest Is Rejected

Paris, Sept. 27 (AP)—France has turned down a Russian protest against the rearmament of Western Germany. The Soviet Union protested Sept. 11 that such rearmament would "sap the foundations" of the Franco-Soviet mutual aid treaty of 1944. The French, in a note delivered last night, rejected this contention.

Bible Class Founder Dies

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 27 (AP)—The founder of a Bible class who was commended by Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt for his work died yesterday. He was the Rev. Otho F. Burtholow, 83, a Methodist minister who organized the Every Man's Bible Class in Mt. Vernon, N. Y. The class boasted an enrollment of 2,400, making it the largest of its kind in the nation. The Rev. Mr. Burtholow served as pastor of Summerfield Methodist Church, Bridgeport, Conn., and three churches in Brooklyn—Fleet Street Church, 18th Street Church and James Street Church.

Bigger British Airlines

London (AP)—New 47-seat Elizabethan airliners will begin flying British European Airways' London-Paris route on October 21. The nationalized British airline said the Elizabethans will replace the 27-seat Viking planes now used on the Paris service.

Six More Are Reported

New York, Sept. 27 (AP) — Six more slaughterhouses in New York State and northern New Jersey were reported yesterday as violators of federal meat price controls. Two were in Newark, one in Buffalo and three in Syracuse, according to price stabilization agents covering the two-state area known as OPS Region 2. The two-day total of violations—of a week-long drive throughout the nation—is 15.

Probe Witness Tells of Threats

New York, Sept. 27 (AP) — A crime probe witness testified yesterday that Staten Island's Republican leader, Edward A. Ruppell, tried to influence his testimony by intimating that his parents might "get hurt."

The fireworks finale to seven days of hearings before the State Crime Commission was provided by Henry E. Lucking, 32-year-old air force veteran.

Lucking previously had testified he had paid Ruppell $2,000 in 1945 to help get a liquor store license. The Richmond county GOP chairman denied it.

Lucking related the story of the alleged threat to his family in the concluding bit of testimony given to the commission as it wound up — temporarily at least—its probe of crime and political corruption on Staten Island.

General Denials Made

Ruppell — accused of shady deals by a parade of witnesses in New York city's ferryboat borough — entered blanket denials. His general theme was that any money which passed was all for the party treasury.

As the open hearings reached their climax, the federal government placed income tax liens totaling $436,072 against Staten Island's "Dee boys," named by probe witnesses as bosses of the island's bookmaking racket.

The Crime Commission spent considerable time in trying to find out how the three—Michael, John and Alexander Dalessio—rose to riches in a decade. The probers didn't get much real financial information from the brothers.

The liens—mostly for the years 1945 through 1950—listed these alleged arrearages: Michael, $297,478; John, $72,368; and Alexander, $66,225.

Will Report Findings

The State Crime Commission, which has no power to indict or prosecute, will report its findings to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who created it, and to the legislature.

If any criminal prosecutions develop from the testimony the job will be up to a right-hand man of Gov. Dewey.

William B. Herlands, associate of Dewey in the latter's racket-busting days, has been named special prosecutor in all matters connected with the Staten Island inquiry.

Herlands was named after Dewey superseded Democratic Prosecutor Herman Methfessel in such matters on the ground of "gross abuse of power." Methfessel had caused the arrest of a woman on perjury charges after she testified she saw him in a house where roulette was being played.

Protest Is Rejected

Paris, Sept. 27 (AP)—France has turned down a Russian protest against the rearmament of Western Germany. The Soviet Union protested Sept. 11 that such rearmament would "sap the foundations" of the Franco-Soviet mutual aid treaty of 1944. The French, in a note delivered last night, rejected this contention.

Iran Crisis Boils

tempers in Tehran to a fever pitch.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, barred from speaking in the Majlis (Parliament) for lack of a quorum, mounted a chair in front of the building and addressed a wildly shouting crowd of his fanatic followers, declaring his government would not stop its struggle "to recover the rights of the Iranian people." Mossadegh was the architect of Iran's program which nationalized the British government-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Truman's Reply Sent

With the 317 remaining British technicians at the Great Abadan refinery given until Thursday to get out, Britain appealed to the President of the United States last night for help. President Truman's reply came today and was rushed to 10 Downing street, where Attlee was meeting with his cabinet on the delicate issue of whether to send British troops to protect its oil men in Iran.

The cabinet meeting lasted about three hours. There was no official announcement on what decision was reached. Some sources hinted that the cabinet might meet again before finally reaching a decision.

G. H. Middleton, counsellor of the British Embassy in Tehran, arrived in London for a conference with Attlee and said Iran was "making it physically impossible for the British people to continue in Abadan, by denying them stores, housing and so on."

"What happens next," he said, "must depend on what the cabinet decides here and on the Anglo-American consultation."

Seek Middle Way

The U. S. and Britain are reported seeking a middle way out of the crisis. The critical question before Washington is: Would the U. S. give diplomatic support to the possible use of armed force by Britain to keep what is left of the British position at Abadan?

Diplomatic informants in Washington said the extreme alternatives facing the British government are either to "walk in or to walk out." Attlee and his cabinet, they mean, must decide whether to send troops or to order their technicians to leave Abadan.

Both British and American officials declined to give any hint of what was in Truman's reply. British officials, so far, have not disclosed what was in Attlee's original message to Truman.

Appeal Described

Some sources here described Attlee's appeal as urging the U. S. to join Britain in one last big diplomatic effort to get Iran to cancel its order expelling the British oil men from Abadan.

Political circles here indicated that if Attlee's Labor cabinet bows to Iran's demand that all British oil technicians get out of the country, Conservative Leader Winston Churchill will touch off a parliamentary explosion.

Attlee was expected to confer with Churchill and with Liberal Leader Clement Davies on whatever the cabinet decides.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison and Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell attended the cabinet meeting. They returned from the United States last night. The full cabinet session was held up for their return.

There was speculation that Attlee's message to Truman also concerned action Britain could take to maintain the position of its oil technicians in Abadan—the world's largest refinery. The refinery, a property of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, has been nationalized by Iran.

Britain has ships, warplanes and troops within easy striking distance of Abadan. In the early days of the oil dispute, however, Britain broadly agreed not to use force to hold the fabulously rich oil fields without first consulting the United States.

Iran's Premier Begs Prayers To Guide British in Turmoil

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 27 (AP)—Tears streaming from his eyes, frail Premier Mohammed Mossadegh mounted a chair in front of the Parliament building today and attempted to soothe a crowd moved to near frenzy against the British in the darkening Iranian oil crisis.

As the premier spoke, Iran's armed forces in the south were on the alert to prevent any British attempt to seize the great Abadan refinery in the south, from which British technicians have been ordered to leave by next Thursday. The alert was issued last night after rumors flooded Tehran that the British planned to land troops.

Barred by a maneuver of opposition deputies from speaking in Parliament, the aged premier addressed about 600 of his followers who gathered spontaneously as he left the Parliament building, they shouted: "Down with the British!"

"Don't say that," the premier cried. "Only pray that God will guide the British."

"Give us permission to start bloodshed and kill the opposition," shouted a spectator.

Mossadegh, who was appealing for public support in his move to oust British technicians from Abadan, did not reply, but brushed away tears. Then he sobbed: "We only want to recover our just rights and get more money for the prosperity of the country."

Mossadegh said he came to power through the support of the people, even though his National Front Party had only seven seats in the Majlis, Lower House of Parliament. His party was responsible for pushing nationalization of the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company (AIOC), which is controlled by the British government.

"Unless there is a vote of no confidence in the Majlis, this government will not quit but will continue its struggle as hard as ever to recover the rights of the Iranian people," Mossadegh declared.

A demonstration continued for a half hour after Mossadegh finished speaking. Then the crowd dispersed peacefully. Mossadegh had been prevented from addressing Parliament because the opposition boycotted the scheduled session. Seventy members are required for a session, and only 65 showed up.

Deputy Premier Hossein Makki, Mossadegh's right-hand man who has been bossing the nationalization of oil installations in southern Iran, accused the British of stirring up the opposition, and demanded that London recall its ambassador, Francis Shepherd.

Makki reflected the feeling of tension in Iranian official circles when he told the crowd he was going to Abadan today to direct the expulsion of the 300 British technicians there.

"I am leaving for Abadan on a sacred mission entrusted to me by the government," he said. "I may not return alive."

Shouts of "we pray for you" rose from the crowd.

The government's alert to troops in Khuzistan province, site of the refineries, was accompanied by instructions to blow up installations at the billion-dollar plant if foreign forces attempted to land, a member of the Iranian National Defense Board said.

The 317 Britons still at Abadan—once the world's largest refinery and keystone of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's operations—were ready to leave on a minute's notice.

Final instructions are expected after today's cabinet meeting in London where the British government is believed ready to make a decision on how to handle the crisis.

Iran Crisis Boils

tempers in Tehran to a fever pitch.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, barred from speaking in the Majlis (Parliament) for lack of a quorum, mounted a chair in front of the building and addressed a wildly shouting crowd of his fanatic followers, declaring his government would not stop its struggle "to recover the rights of the Iranian people." Mossadegh was the architect of Iran's program which nationalized the British government-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Truman's Reply Sent

With the 317 remaining British technicians at the Great Abadan refinery given until Thursday to get out, Britain appealed to the President of the United States last night for help. President Truman's reply came today and was rushed to 10 Downing street, where Attlee was meeting with his cabinet on the delicate issue of whether to send British troops to protect its oil men in Iran.

The cabinet meeting lasted about three hours. There was no official announcement on what decision was reached. Some sources hinted that the cabinet might meet again before finally reaching a decision.

G. H. Middleton, counsellor of the British Embassy in Tehran, arrived in London for a conference with Attlee and said Iran was "making it physically impossible for the British people to continue in Abadan, by denying them stores, housing and so on."

"What happens next," he said, "must depend on what the cabinet decides here and on the Anglo-American consultation."

Seek Middle Way

The U. S. and Britain are reported seeking a middle way out of the crisis. The critical question before Washington is: Would the U. S. give diplomatic support to the possible use of armed force by Britain to keep what is left of the British position at Abadan?

Diplomatic informants in Washington said the extreme alternatives facing the British government are either to "walk in or to walk out." Attlee and his cabinet, they mean, must decide whether to send troops or to order their technicians to leave Abadan.

President Truman's views on the matter now are before the cabinet apparently.

Both British and American officials declined to give any hint of what was in Truman's reply. British officials, so far, have not disclosed what was in Attlee's original message to Truman.

Appeal Described

Some sources here described Attlee's appeal as urging the U. S. to join Britain in one last big diplomatic effort to get Iran to cancel its order expelling the British oil men from Abadan.

Political circles here indicated that if Attlee's Labor cabinet bows to Iran's demand that all British oil technicians get out of the country, Conservative Leader Winston Churchill will touch off a parliamentary explosion.

Attlee was expected to confer with Churchill and with Liberal Leader Clement Davies on whatever the cabinet decides.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison and Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell attended the cabinet meeting. They returned from the United States last night. The full cabinet session was held up for their return.

There was speculation that Attlee's message to Truman also concerned action Britain could take to maintain the position of its oil technicians in Abadan—the world's largest refinery. The refinery, a property of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, has been nationalized by Iran.

Britain has ships, warplanes and troops within easy striking distance of Abadan. In the early days of the oil dispute, however, Britain broadly agreed not to use force to hold the fabulously rich oil fields without first consulting the United States.

Iran's Premier Begs Prayers To Guide British in Turmoil

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 27 (AP)—Tears streaming from his eyes, frail Premier Mohammed Mossadegh mounted a chair in front of the Parliament building today and attempted to soothe a crowd moved to near frenzy against the British in the darkening Iranian oil crisis.

As the premier spoke, Iran's armed forces in the south were on the alert to prevent any British attempt to seize the great Abadan refinery in the south, from which British technicians have been ordered to leave by next Thursday. The alert was issued last night after rumors flooded Tehran that the British planned to land troops.

Barred by a maneuver of opposition deputies from speaking in Parliament, the aged premier addressed about 600 of his followers who gathered spontaneously as he left the Parliament building, they shouted: "Down with the British!"

"Don't say that," the premier cried. "Only pray that God will guide the British."

"Give us permission to start bloodshed and kill the opposition," shouted a spectator.

Mossadegh, who was appealing for public support in his move to oust British technicians from Abadan, did not reply, but brushed away tears. Then he sobbed: "We only want to recover our just rights and get more money for the prosperity of the country."

Mossadegh said he came to power through the support of the people, even though his National Front Party had only seven seats in the Majlis, Lower House of Parliament. His party was responsible for pushing nationalization of the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company (AIOC), which is controlled by the British government.

"Unless there is a vote of no confidence in the Majlis, this government will not quit but will continue its struggle as hard as ever to recover the rights of the Iranian people," Mossadegh declared.

A demonstration continued for a half hour after Mossadegh finished speaking. Then the crowd dispersed peacefully. Mossadegh had been prevented from addressing Parliament because the opposition boycotted the scheduled session. Seventy members are required for a session, and only 65 showed up.

Deputy Premier Hossein Makki, Mossadegh's right-hand man who has been bossing the nationalization of oil installations in southern Iran, accused the British of stirring up the opposition, and demanded that London recall its ambassador, Francis Shepherd.

Makki reflected the feeling of tension in Iranian official circles when he told the crowd he was going to Abadan today to direct the expulsion of the 300 British technicians there.

"I am leaving for Abadan on a sacred mission entrusted to me by the government," he said. "I may not return alive."

Shouts of "we pray for you" rose from the crowd.

The government's alert to troops in Khuzistan province, site of the refineries, was accompanied by instructions to blow up installations at the billion-dollar plant if foreign forces attempted to land, a member of the Iranian National Defense Board said.

The 317 Britons still at Abadan—once the world's largest refinery and keystone of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's operations—were ready to leave on a minute's notice.

Final instructions are expected after today's cabinet meeting in London where the British government is believed ready to make a decision on how to handle the crisis.

Arterial Program Is Forced to Wait

Other state highway plans which have become more urgent have shelved work on definite plans resulting from arterial route surveys in various state communities, a state engineer said today.

The surveys began in 1946 and one was made in this city in 1948 to determine a means for facilitating the flow of main route travel, but no plans have been completed because of the pressure of other, more urgent state work.

The only plans completed following the arterial route surveys were in such cities nearer the metropolitan area such as Yonkers and White Plains. Plans were approved for the latter city, but at Yonkers there was dissatisfaction and probably others will have to be made, the engineer said.

Principal Route

Meanwhile, J. S. Bixby, district state engineer, stationed at Poughkeepsie, told the city planning commission there Tuesday that the Highland-New Paltz road will be a principal access road to the New York State Thruway from the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

Bixby said Poughkeepsie officials should make up their minds to approve state plans for arterial highways through that city, or suffer the consequences of clogged streets.

A new state law permits the use of bridge-toll funds to pay Poughkeepsie's share of rights-of-way costs on arterial highway construction, Bixby said.

It was learned through Bixby's office today that the Lane Construction Co., started Monday near Saugerties to pour concrete on the section of the state thruway between Kingston and Saugerties. This work will continue until frost.

Births

Sept. 18—Chris to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anthony Provenzano, Woodstock.

Sept. 19—Jonathan Jacob to Mr. and Mrs. William Ladin, Zena; Janis Vivian to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard William Helmer, Hyde Park, and Andrea Renee to Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Frederick May, 185 Smith avenue.

Sept. 20—Elizabeth Ann to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Francis Carter, 37 Hanratty street; Frederick Max, Jr., to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Figge, Port Ewen, and Thomas Henry to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Joseph Murphy, Saugerties.

Frontiers Again Important

Los Angees (AP)—Colonization in Latin America has brought back conditions somewhat similar to those on the old American frontier, says Dr. Henry J. Bruman of the University of California. Dr. Bruman saw the problems of South and Central America frontiers in 1944-45 when he spent a year studying them in Brazil. Now he is leaving on another trip which will take him to several countries, but he will spend eight months of his sabbatical leave in Brazil.

Savage Attacks Made by Planes on Communist Guns

UN Command, Korea, Sept. 27 (AP)—Navy and air force fighter-bombers today smashed home savage attacks on Communist artillery dug in on the rugged mountain slopes of eastern Korea.

Thirty-two F-51 Mustangs and navy Corsairs dropped napalm fire-bombs and high explosives on Red artillery and mortar positions in the "Heartbreak Ridge" area.

Communist fire slacked off at once.

In the third straight day of aerial dogfights, 34 F-86 Sabre jets tangled with 50 Russian-type MIG jet fighters and damaged two of the Red planes. One allied warplane was damaged but returned safely to base.

The Far East air forces reported this three-day battle score:

Reds losses 26—five shot down, two probably destroyed, 19 damaged.

Hits Are Reported

Hits on the MIGS were reported by Col. Benjamin S. Preston of Hollywood, Fla., and Maj. William T. Wisner of Shreveport, La.

Red artillery and mortar fire still fell on the positions of American and French soldiers of the U. S. 23rd Infantry Regiment north of Yanggu. The Red barrage, one of the heaviest of the Korean campaign, kept the UN infantry away from the strategic high ground on the north-south ridge line.

Dalmatian Is Injured

A female Dalmatian dog, struck early today by an automobile on Route 28, was taken to the office of Dr. A. Evans on Albany avenue, where it may be claimed by its owner. The dog, a beautiful animal, was not seriously hurt, Dr. Evans said. The dog was injured on Route 28 near the Hill Top Inn about 12:45 a. m. today by a car that continued on without stopping. Another motorist moved the animal to the side of the road and notified the sheriff's office, after which Deputy Sheriff Arthur B. Smith wrapped it in a blanket and took it to the veterinarian.

Mrs. Carrie Newton, 200 Tremper avenue, suffered a slight burn on the right hand in attempting to check a flareup in a space heater, out of adjustment yesterday. Firemen were called at 6:10 p. m.

To Open Headquarters

St. Louis, Sept. 27 (AP)—A group of St. Louis Republicans plans to open a Stassen-for-president headquarters Monday. E. W. Bromwich, a spokesman for the group, said yesterday it would be the first Stassen headquarters in the country and that he expected other states to follow suit.

Arterial Program Is Forced to Wait

Other state highway plans which have become more urgent have shelved work on definite plans resulting from arterial route surveys in various state communities, a state engineer said today.

The surveys began in 1946 and one was made in this city in 1948 to determine a means for facilitating the flow of main route travel, but no plans have been completed because of the pressure of other, more urgent state work.

The only plans completed following the arterial route surveys were in such cities nearer the metropolitan area such as Yonkers and White Plains. Plans were approved for the latter city, but at Yonkers there was dissatisfaction and probably others will have to be made, the engineer said.

Principal Route

Meanwhile, J. S. Bixby, district state engineer, stationed at Poughkeepsie, told the city planning commission there Tuesday that the Highland - New Paltz road will be a principal access road to the New York State Thruway from the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

Bixby said Poughkeepsie officials should make up their minds to approve state plans for arterial highways through that city, or suffer the consequences of clogged streets.

A new state law permits the use of bridge-toll funds to pay Poughkeepsie's share of rights-of-way costs on arterial highway construction, Bixby said.

It was learned through Bixby's office today that the Lane Construction Co., started Monday near Saugerties to pour concrete on the section of the state thruway between Kingston and Saugerties. This work will continue until frost.

Frontiers Again Important

Los Angees (AP)—Colonization in Latin America has brought back conditions somewhat similar to those on the old American frontier, says Dr. Henry J. Bruman of the University of California. Dr. Bruman saw the problems of South and Central America frontiers in 1944-45 when he spent a year studying them in Brazil. Now he is leaving on another trip which will take him to several countries, but he will spend eight months of his sabbatical leave in Brazil.

Savage Attacks Made by Planes on Communist Guns

UN Command, Korea, Sept. 27 (AP)—Navy and air force fighter-bombers today smashed home savage attacks on Communist artillery dug in on the rugged mountain slopes of eastern Korea.

Thirty-two F-51 Mustangs and navy Corsairs dropped napalm fire-bombs and high explosives on Red artillery and mortar positions in the "Heartbreak Ridge" area.

Communist fire slacked off at once.

In the third straight day of aerial dogfights, 34 F-86 Sabre jets tangled with 50 Russian-type MIG jet fighters and damaged two of the Red planes. One allied warplane was damaged but returned safely to base.

The Far East air forces reported this three-day battle score:

Reds losses 26—five shot down, two probably destroyed, 19 damaged.

Hits Are Reported

Hits on the MIGS were reported by Col. Benjamin S. Preston of Hollywood, Fla., and Maj. William T. Wisner of Shreveport, La.

Red artillery and mortar fire still fell on the positions of American and French soldiers of the U. S. 23rd Infantry Regiment north of Yanggu. The Red barrage, one of the heaviest of the Korean campaign, kept the UN infantry away from the strategic high ground on the north-south ridge line.

Dalmatian Is Injured

A female Dalmatian dog, struck early today by an automobile on Route 28, was taken to the office of Dr. A. Evans on Albany avenue, where it may be claimed by its owner. The dog, a beautiful animal, was not seriously hurt, Dr. Evans said. The dog was injured on Route 28 near the Hill Top Inn about 12:45 a. m. today by a car that continued on without stopping. Another motorist moved the animal to the side of the road and notified the sheriff's office, after which Deputy Sheriff Arthur B. Smith wrapped it in a blanket and took it to the veterinarian.

Woman Is Burned

Mrs. Carrie Newton, 200 Tremper avenue, suffered a slight burn on the right hand in attempting to check a flareup in a space heater out of adjustment yesterday. Firemen were called at 6:10 p. m.

To Open Headquarters

St. Louis, Sept. 27 (AP)—A group of St. Louis Republicans plans to open a Stassen-for-president headquarters Monday, E. W. Bromwich, a spokesman for the group, said yesterday it would be the first Stassen headquarters in the country and that he expected other states to follow suit.

The surveys began in 1946 and one was made in this city in 1948 to determine a means for facilitating the flow of main route travel, but no plans have been completed because of the pressure of other, more urgent state work.

The only plans completed following the arterial route surveys were in such cities nearer the metropolitan area such as Yonkers and White Plains. Plans were approved for the latter city, but at Yonkers there was dissatisfaction and probably others will have to be made, the engineer said.

Meanwhile, J. S. Bixby, district state engineer, stationed at Poughkeepsie, told the city planning commission there Tuesday that the Highland-New Paltz road will be a principal access road to the New York State Thruway from the Mid-Hudson Bridge.

Frontiers Again Important

Los Angees (AP)—Colonization in Latin America has brought back conditions somewhat similar to those on the old American frontier, says Dr. Henry J. Bruman of the University of California. Dr. Bruman saw the problems of South and Central America frontiers in 1944-45 when he spent a year studying them in Brazil. Now he is leaving on another trip which will take him to several countries, but he will spend eight months of his sabbatical leave in Brazil.

Savage Attacks Made by Planes on Communist Guns

UN Command, Korea, Sept. 27 (AP)—Navy and air force fighter-bombers today smashed home savage attacks on Communist artillery dug in on the rugged mountain slopes of eastern Korea.

Thirty-two F-51 Mustangs and navy Corsairs dropped napalm fire-bombs and high explosives on Red artillery and mortar positions in the "Heartbreak Ridge" area.

Communist fire slacked off at once.

In the third straight day of aerial dogfights, 34 F-86 Sabre jets tangled with 50 Russian-type MIG jet fighters and damaged two of the Red planes. One allied warplane was damaged but returned safely to base.

The Far East air forces reported this three-day battle score:

Reds losses 26—five shot down, two probably destroyed, 19 damaged.

Hits Are Reported

Hits on the MIGS were reported by Col. Benjamin S. Preston of Hollywood, Fla., and Maj. William T. Wisner of Shreveport, La.

Red artillery and mortar fire still fell on the positions of American and French soldiers of the U. S. 23rd Infantry Regiment north of Yanggu. The Red barrage, one of the heaviest of the Korean campaign, kept the UN infantry away from the strategic high ground on the north-south ridge line.

Dalmatian Is Injured

A female Dalmatian dog, struck early today by an automobile on Route 28, was taken to the office of Dr. A. Evans on Albany avenue, where it may be claimed by its owner. The dog, a beautiful animal, was not seriously hurt, Dr. Evans said. The dog was injured on Route 28 near the Hill Top Inn about 12:45 a. m. today by a car that continued on without stopping. Another motorist moved the animal to the side of the road and notified the sheriff's office, after which Deputy Sheriff Arthur B. Smith wrapped it in a blanket and took it to the veterinarian.

Woman Is Burned

Mrs. Carrie Newton, 200 Tremper avenue, suffered a slight burn on the right hand in attempting to check a flareup in a space heater out of adjustment yesterday. Firemen were called at 6:10 p. m.

To Open Headquarters

St. Louis, Sept. 27 (AP)—A group of St. Louis Republicans plans to open a Stassen-for-president headquarters Monday. E. W. Bromwich, a spokesman for the group, said yesterday it would be the first Stassen headquarters in the country and that he expected other states to follow suit.

The Mature Parent

Joy in Parents Not Just Important; It's Vital

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Normally, he would have been a handsome boy. This day, however, his face was set with sullen anger. He stood, his jaw rigid, while he listened to his mother ask the court to send him away to some place that could control him.

"He's all I have left," she said. "I lost his brother 18 months ago. He stayed out three nights running last week. I know enough about psychology to know that he's running away from something inside of him. It can't be his home. He's got a bicycle and a television set. I want him to be happy. I lost his sister four years ago. . . . . "

She talked for three minutes and mentioned her dead children eight times. On her coat sleeve, she wore a wide mourning band.

I looked at her son and I thought, "You're a healthy child. You are quite right to run away from grief that is never over."

Then I was shocked at my thought, because I felt so sorry for the mother who was now losing her last, her only child. But suddenly I remembered another mother I know. I remembered what she said to me once when I was struggling with sorrow.

She said, "My dear, your grief must lose its anger. If you don't stop resenting loss, you will make a sieve of your life through which all the things you love will sift away."

She had lost her son in the RAF the year before.

I have wanted to write a column on joy for some time. So the other day, I spoke to a distinguished psychiatrist about it.

To Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, a New York city specialist in human behavior, I said, "Is joy in parents important to children?"

Dr. Lowrey chooses words precisely. "I would call it 'vital' rather than 'important,' he told me.

WE HAVE TO FIGHT FOR JOY

Then I asked my $64 question. "Is joy natural to us? Or do we have to acquire it?"

"Oh, we have to acquire it," he said. "In childhood, joy is apt to be natural and spontaneous. But we lose this baby joy as we grow up. When we step off the curb into living, our childish joy is fretted away by disappointment and fears that grow out of them."

"What do we do then?" I asked.

"We have to begin to fight for it," he told me. "Consciously. We have to learn to defend and protect it consciously. Otherwise, we won't make much headway. We'd fight for it more consciously than we do if we realized that joy is the triumph of the mature human being. It is the reward of the people who educate themselves out of misgivings and anger."

Many of us will be grateful for these comments by Dr. Lowrey.

We may not find it easy at first to defend our sense of joy at the end of a hot Summer day, with the oven heating the kitchen and an angry child in the middle of it, screaming his rage at us.

But if we do close our ears, and put down our mixing spoon for one or two conscious moments, we will find we can quickly recognize and laugh at this trick anger plays to steal joy from our home.

The fight Dr. Lowrey speaks of is a running fight. It is not made just in the big crises, but in the little ones where anger and discouragement sneak up on us. It's the fight we must wage when we're off guard in the hot kitchen, the crowded store, the steamy bathroom where our six-year-old says, "I hate you, I'll tell daddy on you." I think Dr. Lowrey means these are the real arenas.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Normally, he would have been a handsome boy. This day, however, his face was set with sullen anger. He stood, his jaw rigid, while he listened to his mother ask the court to send him away to some place that could control him.

"He's all I have left," she said. "I lost his brother 18 months ago. He stayed out three nights running last week. I know enough about psychology to know that he's running away from something inside of him. It can't be his home. He's got a bicycle and a television set. I want him to be happy. I lost his sister four years ago. . . . . "

She talked for three minutes and mentioned her dead children eight times. On her coat sleeve, she wore a wide mourning band.

I looked at her son and I thought, "You're a healthy child. You are quite right to run away from grief that is never over."

Then I was shocked at my thought, because I felt so sorry for the mother who was now losing her last, her only child. But suddenly I remembered another mother I know. I remembered what she said to me once when I was struggling with sorrow.

She said, "My dear, your grief must lose its anger. If you don't stop resenting loss, you will make a sieve of your life through which all the things you love will sift away."

She had lost her son in the RAF the year before.

I have wanted to write a column on joy for some time. So the other day, I spoke to a distinguished psychiatrist about it.

To Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, a New York city specialist in human behavior, I said, "Is joy in parents important to children?"

Dr. Lowrey chooses words precisely. "I would call it 'vital' rather than 'important,' he told me.

WE HAVE TO FIGHT FOR JOY

Then I asked my $64 question. "Is joy natural to us? Or do we have to acquire it?"

"Oh, we have to acquire it," he said. "In childhood, joy is apt to be natural and spontaneous. But we lose this baby joy as we grow up. When we step off the curb into living, our childish joy is fretted away by disappointment and fears that grow out of them."

"What do we do then?" I asked.

"We have to begin to fight for it," he told me. "Consciously. We have to learn to defend and protect it consciously. Otherwise, we won't make much headway. We'd fight for it more consciously than we do if we realized that joy is the triumph of the mature human being. It is the reward of the people who educate themselves out of misgivings and anger."

Many of us will be grateful for these comments by Dr. Lowrey.

We may not find it easy at first to defend our sense of joy at the end of a hot Summer day, with the oven heating the kitchen and an angry child in the middle of it, screaming his rage at us.

But if we do close our ears, and put down our mixing spoon for one or two conscious moments, we will find we can quickly recognize and laugh at this trick anger plays to steal joy from our home.

The fight Dr. Lowrey speaks of is a running fight. It is not made just in the big crises, but in the little ones where anger and discouragement sneak up on us. It's the fight we must wage when we're off guard in the hot kitchen, the crowded store, the steamy bathroom where our six-year-old says, "I hate you, I'll tell daddy on you." I think Dr. Lowrey means these are the real arenas.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Normally, he would have been a handsome boy. This day, however, his face was set with sullen anger. He stood, his jaw rigid, while he listened to his mother ask the court to send him away to some place that could control him.

"He's all I have left," she said. "I lost his brother 18 months ago. He stayed out three nights running last week. I know enough about psychology to know that he's running away from something inside of him. It can't be his home. He's got a bicycle and a television set. I want him to be happy. I lost his sister four years ago. . . . . "

She talked for three minutes and mentioned her dead children eight times. On her coat sleeve, she wore a wide mourning band.

I looked at her son and I thought, "You're a healthy child. You are quite right to run away from grief that is never over."

Then I was shocked at my thought, because I felt so sorry for the mother who was now losing her last, her only child. But suddenly I remembered another mother I know. I remembered what she said to me once when I was struggling with sorrow.

She said, "My dear, your grief must lose its anger. If you don't stop resenting loss, you will make a sieve of your life through which all the things you love will sift away."

She had lost her son in the RAF the year before.

I have wanted to write a column on joy for some time. So the other day, I spoke to a distinguished psychiatrist about it.

To Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, a New York city specialist in human behavior, I said, "Is joy in parents important to children?"

Dr. Lowrey chooses words precisely. "I would call it 'vital' rather than 'important,' he told me.

WE HAVE TO FIGHT FOR JOY

Then I asked my $64 question. "Is joy natural to us? Or do we have to acquire it?"

"Oh, we have to acquire it," he said. "In childhood, joy is apt to be natural and spontaneous. But we lose this baby joy as we grow up. When we step off the curb into living, our childish joy is fretted away by disappointment and fears that grow out of them."

"What do we do then?" I asked.

"We have to begin to fight for it," he told me. "Consciously. We have to learn to defend and protect it consciously. Otherwise, we won't make much headway. We'd fight for it more consciously than we do if we realized that joy is the triumph of the mature human being. It is the reward of the people who educate themselves out of misgivings and anger."

Many of us will be grateful for these comments by Dr. Lowrey.

We may not find it easy at first to defend our sense of joy at the end of a hot Summer day, with the oven heating the kitchen and an angry child in the middle of it, screaming his rage at us.

But if we do close our ears, and put down our mixing spoon for one or two conscious moments, we will find we can quickly recognize and laugh at this trick anger plays to steal joy from our home.

The fight Dr. Lowrey speaks of is a running fight. It is not made just in the big crises, but in the little ones where anger and discouragement sneak up on us. It's the fight we must wage when we're off guard in the hot kitchen, the crowded store, the steamy bathroom where our six-year-old says, "I hate you, I'll tell daddy on you." I think Dr. Lowrey means these are the real arenas.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Spotty shortages of beef showed up in many retail meat counters this week as the controversy over beef price controls, raged from the rangelands to the hall of Congress.

Price-tags on meat were little changed, but shoppers found that butchers, particularly in the big volume chain stores and supermarkets, often had no beef to sell.

Changes in the costs of other foods were irregular. Top grade eggs turned downward—by as much as six cents a dozen—in some areas for the first time in many weeks. Butter advanced one to two cents a pound in scattered sections.

Lettuce, tomatoes and several fresh fruits moved higher, while carrots, sweet potatoes, cauliflower and brussels sprouts were lower.

Blaming on Pricing

The scarcity of beef steaks, roasts and other popular beef cuts was blamed on pricing troubles, not on any real shortage of meat. Big retailers said they couldn't obtain their usual supplies from the packing houses. The packers said their slaughtering operations were down sharply because they were unable to buy livestock at present ceilings.

Their purchases over a 30-day period must average no higher than the ceilings—but the only livestock they're been offered lately has been at above-average prices, the packers said. Either the livestock producers are withholding their animals from the market or the government's complicated pricing, grading, and record-keeping regulations are being ignored somewhere along the meat supply line.

To Check Houses

The Office of Price Stabilization, seeking to expose violations and make the regulations work, sent out every available investigator this week to check hundreds of packing and meat distributing houses. At the end of a single day, these sleuths said they had found at least 96 control violations in 27 cities: Inaccurate scales, improper grading, falsely weighed carcasses, incomplete records and so on.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said in a speech at San Diego that "if there are sharp practices they are being indulged in by registered slaughterers and licensed practitioners who have been in the business for years." The American Meat Institute, which represents most big packers, retorted that DiSalle's meat control program is unworkable and the situation will get "progressively worse unless controls are promptly removed."

Expected To Go Up

Meantime, retail beef prices were expected to go up an average of 1½ cents a pound later this week, reflecting higher ceilings in the wake of the higher wholesale prices granted last week. And an adjustment in wholesale pork ceilings was announced which price officials said would trim ham and bacon prices in some stores next week by as much as five cents a pound.

The nation's apple growers started a nationwide campaign to market their big crop earlier this year. The apple crop is expected to be about 10 per cent bigger than the ten-year (1940-49) average—almost as large as last year's, but with more of the fruit coming from the east and midwest and fewer from the far west.

Early movement of this abundant supply—from now through December—is the only way to prevent accumulating too many apples in storage for the spring and early summer market, the industry says. So apples are featured by the Agriculture Department as the week's most plentiful food for thrifty buying. An intensive trade promotion program will continue up to National Apple Day, on Hallowe'en.

Boosts Are Predicted

The Agriculture Department predicted that milk price boosts averaging about one cent a quart will be authorized soon for many urban areas under federal marketing control. Milk production costs have climbed, the department said, because dry weather in many areas curtailed pasture feeding and feed grain prices also increased.

The department directed the attention of budget-minded shoppers to the following "most plentiful foods" list for the nation in October: Fresh apples, table grapes, canned apples and applesauce, processed citrus products, cabbage, onions, potatoes, broilers and fryers, turkeys, frozen fish fillets, cheese, butter milk, cottage cheese, nonfat dry milk solids, dry beans and honey.

Promotes Friendship

San Francisco (AP)—The American University of Beirut in Lebanon is one of America's strongest links of friendship with the Arab world, says Dr. Hamilton Anderson, University of California Medical professor. Chimp Flops in Zoo Debut

Calgary (AP)—Joey is a bit of a disappointment at the Calgary Zoo. A chimpanzee, Joey doesn't do any of the things chimps are expected to do, and zoo officials think he's plain chump, not chimp. The three-year-old seems to have a decided inferiorty complex. Since his arrival last January, Joey has fooled everybody. He won't be dressed up, drink out of paper cups, or peel oranges. The only thing he's worn up to now is a slightly sarcastic expression. He was obtained from a Florida zoo and was supposed to be a trained chimp. Zoo officials believe the long train ride may have given him a sort of animal amnesia. But maybe he's just a cynic at heart.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Spotty shortages of beef showed up in many retail meat counters this week as the controversy over beef price controls raged from the rangelands to the hall of Congress.

Price-tags on meat were little changed, but shoppers found that butchers, particularly in the big volume chain stores and supermarkets, often had no beef to sell.

Changes in the costs of other foods were irregular. Top grade eggs turned downward—by as much as six cents a dozen—in some areas for the first time in many weeks. Butter advanced one to two cents a pound in scattered sections.

Lettuce, tomatoes and several fresh fruits moved higher, while carrots, sweet potatoes, cauliflower and brussels sprouts were lower.

Blaming on Pricing

The scarcity of beef steaks, roasts and other popular beef cuts was blamed on pricing troubles, not on any real shortage of meat. Big retailers said they couldn't obtain their usual supplies from the packing houses. The packers said their slaughtering operations were down sharply because they were unable to buy livestock at present ceilings.

Their purchases over a 30-day period must average no higher than the ceilings—but the only livestock they're been offered lately has been at above-average prices, the packers said. Either the livestock producers are withholding their animals from the market or the government's complicated pricing, grading, and record-keeping regulations are being ignored somewhere along the meat supply line.

To Check Houses

The Office of Price Stabilization, seeking to expose violations and make the regulations work, sent out every available investigator this week to check hundreds of packing and meat distributing houses. At the end of a single day, these sleuths said they had found at least 96 control violations in 27 cities: Inaccurate scales, improper grading, falsely weighed carcasses, incomplete records and so on.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said in a speech at San Diego that "if there are sharp practices they are being indulged in by registered slaughterers and licensed practitioners who have been in the business for years." The American Meat Institute, which represents most big packers, retorted that DiSalle's meat control program is unworkable and the situation will get "progressively worse unless controls are promptly removed."

Expected To Go Up

Meantime, retail beef prices were expected to go up an average of 1½ cents a pound later this week, reflecting higher ceilings in the wake of the higher wholesale prices granted last week. And an adjustment in wholesale pork ceilings was announced which price officials said would trim ham and bacon prices in some stores next week by as much as five cents a pound.

The nation's apple growers started a nationwide campaign to market their big crop earlier this year. The apple crop is expected to be about 10 per cent bigger than the ten-year (1940-49) average—almost as large as last year's, but with more of the fruit coming from the east and midwest and fewer from the far west.

Early movement of this abundant supply—from now through December—is the only way to prevent accumulating too many apples in storage for the spring and early summer market, the industry says. So apples are featured by the Agriculture Department as the week's most plentiful food for thrifty buying. An intensive trade promotion program will continue up to National Apple Day, on Hallowe'en.

Boosts Are Predicted

The Agriculture Department predicted that milk price boosts averaging about one cent a quart will be authorized soon for many urban areas under federal marketing control. Milk production costs have climbed, the department said, because dry weather in many areas curtailed pasture feeding and feed grain prices also increased.

The department directed the attention of budget-minded shoppers to the following "most plentiful foods" list for the nation in October: Fresh apples, table grapes, canned apples and applesauce, processed citrus products, cabbage, onions, potatoes, broilers and fryers, turkeys, frozen fish fillets, cheese, butter milk, cottage cheese, nonfat dry milk solids, dry beans and honey.

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The Ruminator does not think that enough attention is paid to the public's attitude when inflationary prospects are discussed.

Our papers and business bulletins are full of inflation analyses—how the supply of money is increasing, how the wage and cost spirals continue to twist upward, and how other price-propelling influences will motivate further inflation.

Yet, very little is said about how "we, the people" will react. The past several months have shown that "everyone" is not presently worried about rising prices. People have moderated their buying and have added hugely to their savings.

Economists place great emphasis upon what is called "purchasing power." Yet, this very expression is misleading, as it suggests a force that propels purchasing. The term is a misnomer. What is meant is purchasing potential—or the availability of funds, if people are willing to spend them.

It was a little amusing to read an item in the Wall Street Journal recently, headed: "Consumers Confound Federal Forecasts by Saving More, Spending Less." There followed a quotation by an un-named Truman economist, who said, "Maybe something's lacking in the classical economic notion that when people earn more they always spend more. That theory may need refining and I don't know what new approach to take." Well, the Ruminator might add that the New and Fair Dealers have tried enough new approaches already. It would be a relief if they would stop hunting for new schemes. There is nothing "new" in public psychology as it applies to economics. Just to illustrate that the "people" do take things into their own hands every now and then you might review the public reactions in the spring of 1920, when the alphabetical designation HCL (high cost of living) was as frequently voiced as any of our present-day letter-combinations.

One of the delightful descriptions of what people did and thought in 1920 appear in Alexander Dana Noyes' reminiscences, "The Market Place." Mr. Noyes for many years was the noted financial editor of the New York Times and before that of the Evening Post, and other newspapers.

To get the picture of this period, it should be recalled that prices in November, 1918 (the month of the Armistice) were generally double what they had been before the war started. By the spring of 1920 "prices of such articles as clothing, household goods, and fuel were quoted 40 to 70 per cent above November, 1918." Rents rose spectacularly.

Before long a "consmers' strike" set in. As Noyes tells us, "a highly organized nation-wide movement occurred in 1920 to resist high prices through not buying." The New York "Financial Chronicle" reported "'Old-Clothes clubs' and 'Overalls clubs' are sweeping over the country like a prairie fire. The costume which has long been distinctive of farm or mechanical workers has appeared in business places, in the halls of Congress, in Bible classes and high schools, in the pulpit, among the bar in the presence of the bench, and on the bench itself."

There was an overalls parade down Fifth avenue, and various demonstrations in other cities.

To shorten our story, it was not long before prices collapsed. How much influence the consumers' strike had on the situation is debatable—as prices had risen so high they had to come down—but undoubtedly the public's reaction hurried the start of the decline.

Today is different from 1920, admittedly. Every era is different from another, except that public psychology has a way of repeating itself.

We thus may find that the much-predicted shortages that are supposed to be in evidence this fall and winter will not be in evidence. Perhaps people will continue to hold back in their buying, and keep on with their savings. Perhaps as price-boosts are permitted by the agency that is supposed to control prices—the OPS—people will refuse to buy things they do not actually need.

If, in the meantime, prices of essentials do not rise—if food prices, for instance, remain stable—the public will come to "accept" the price levels and refuse to get scared or to be stampeded into thoughtless buying as they did at the outbreak of the Korean war.

There is a lot to be analyzed in "feelings" as well as in "figures" when one attempts to predict the future of economic trends.

To Speak

DONALD P. SWEETSER

Donald P. Sweetser, partner of Stevenson, Jordan and Harrison, of New York, will speak on Profit Planning and Control at the Oct. 2 meeting of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants at the Hotel Stuyvesant. Predicts Conquest of Polio

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Basil O'Connor reported yesterday he is "convinced the conquest of infantile paralysis is in sight" but he can't predict how many years it will require. O'Connor is president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and of the International Poliomyelitis Congress. He talked with newsmen after conferring with President Truman at the White House yesterday. O'Connor said recent research holds out hope that two major anti-polio weapons can be developed: a vaccine, and a reliable diagnostic test.

Orders on Lock

Orders closing the federal lock at Troy three days this month, the 27th, 28th and 29th, have been rescinded by the Department of the Army, Corps of Engineers, but the lock will be closed to navigation on October 2, 3, 4 and 5 between 7 a. m. and noon to permit dredging operations in the channel at the south entrance.

To get the picture of this period, it should be recalled that prices in November, 1918 (the month of the Armistice) were generally double what they had been before the war started. By the spring of 1920 "prices of such articles as clothing, household goods, and fuel were quoted 40 to 70 per cent above November, 1918." Rents rose spectacularly.

Before long a "consmers' strike" set in. As Noyes tells us, "a highly organized nation-wide movement occurred in 1920 to resist high prices through not buying." The New York "Financial Chronicle" reported "'Old-Clothes clubs' and 'Overalls clubs' are sweeping over the country like a prairie fire. The costume which has long been distinctive of farm or mechanical workers has appeared in business places, in the halls of Congress, in Bible classes and high schools, in the pulpit, among the bar in the presence of the bench, and on the bench itself."

There was an overalls parade down Fifth avenue, and various demonstrations in other cities.

To shorten our story, it was not long before prices collapsed. How much influence the consumers' strike had on the situation is debatable—as prices had risen so high they had to come down—but undoubtedly the public's reaction hurried the start of the decline.

Today is different from 1920, admittedly. Every era is different from another, except that public psychology has a way of repeating itself.

We thus may find that the much-predicted shortages that are supposed to be in evidence this fall and winter will not be in evidence. Perhaps people will continue to hold back in their buying, and keep on with their savings. Perhaps as price-boosts are permitted by the agency that is supposed to control prices—the OPS—people will refuse to buy things they do not actually need.

If, in the meantime, prices of essentials do not rise—if food prices, for instance, remain stable—the public will come to "accept" the price levels and refuse to get scared or to be stampeded into thoughtless buying as they did at the outbreak of the Korean war.

There is a lot to be analyzed in "feelings" as well as in "figures" when one attempts to predict the future of economic trends.

Predicts Conquest of Polio

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Basil O'Connor reported yesterday he is "convinced the conquest of infantile paralysis is in sight" but he can't predict how many years it will require. O'Connor is president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and of the International Poliomyelitis Congress. He talked with newsmen after conferring with President Truman at the White House yesterday. O'Connor said recent research holds out hope that two major anti-polio weapons can be developed: a vaccine, and a reliable diagnostic test.

New Hot Rod Idea Is Real Flame Thrower

Macon, Ga., Sept. 27 (AP)—The latest hot rod gimmick—a flame throwing exhaust pipe—has found police here without a city ordinance to turn to.

Traffic officers complained to Police Chief Ben T. Watkins that characters who get a thrill out of starting their cars with a spectacle, have put spark plugs in exhausts. This ignites gas in the vents and sends out a tail of fire eight feet long on occasions.

"If you're on a motorcycle and get close enough to it, you'll come out with no eyebrows," Traffic Lieut. Marshall Pierce warned yesterday.

"It doesn't make any noise and as yet we haven't been able to do anything about it."

DRIED EGGS

Last year, Uncle Sam lost $76,055,947 in his dried eggs business!

"Dried eggs?" you may ask. "Has he gone in for agriculture?"

Yes, he has. And his Irish potato losses were $63,291,380.88. His peanut losses totaled $14,584,836.98. Wheat ran him $19,013,931.33 in the red and linseed oil $38,484,285.85.

You urban dwellers who have never thought about the close relationship of agricultural and industrial prosperity should know that in these days when federal budgets are 80 billions of dollars annually, farm prices had better be sustained at pretty high levels.

Otherwise, America is sunk economically and her political fortunes will wind up in a dictatorship.

Let the reader imagine that he is a Kansas wheat farmer. Wages are in the skies. Farm machinery, without which you can't carry on, is very costly. In fact, everything that goes into the production of wheat costs a lot. Where will you be if wheat sells $1 a bushel below present prices? You, too, will be sunk.

You will not have the money to buy the new tractor you need. You will not purchase the delivery truck you must have. And what does that mean? It means that International Harvester and and General Motors will do no business with you.

And, in turn, these two corporations will employ no help to make the stuff you need and they will pay no taxes on the equipment you do not buy. In other words, the subsidized price of of wheat sets in motion many machines of production operated by men who must have employment.

Dried eggs, if you please, are only a symbol of the economic control that Uncle Sam, through the Congress of the United States and the executive officers exercises over the well-being of 150-million people.

And what if Uncle Sam loses a few hundred millions of dollars yearly (as he does) through these basic commodity transactions? Where does this money come from?

Why, from taxpayers. Reader, are you a federal tax payer? Then last year you helped pay the 76 million dollar loss on dried eggs! And this question immediately comes up: do you eat eggs for breakfast? At seven cents each, do you think they are too high?

If so, blame Uncle Sam for it. He is responsible. Without his egg price support, there would be a panic in egg prices. You might be able to buy them for two or three cents each. When I was on our Schoharie county, New York farm, they often sold for one cent each.

But, please note, if eggs should tumble to two or three cents each, poultry farms would quit. Feed for chickens is very high and general costs are terrific. Poultry farmers must get high prices for their produce. If they don't, America will soon discover there are no eggs, no chickens, no turkeys, no ducks.

Today, agriculture, a basic segment in the national economy, must be supported by agencies of the United States Government. And even though price supports cost hundreds of millions of dollars every year—which is furnished by taxpayers—this program must go on.

Our free enterprise system must be guarded against all threats. Yet our national economic responsibilities have become so great that the machinery of government must aid in the maintenance of this system.

What I detest at the present time is the spending of billions of dollars in an uneconomic fashion for enterprises fostered by the government that could and should be abolished today. I meet up with them all the time. I am treasurer of one of America's leading art schools. The director of this school, a distinguished artist, tells me that in New York city there are any number of fake art schools supported by tax payers' money.

Taxation that helps to maintain uneconomic projects in America is a terrific load for our people to carry.

Public Hearing Opens

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—The Public Service Commission opened a public hearing, today (about 8:30 a. m. EST) to determine the causes of the natural gas explosions that took three lives in suburban Brighton last Friday. The hearings were held at the Brighton school auditorium. They were conducted by Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the PSC. The PSC planned to question utilities officials and residents of the area where 44 homes were demolished or damaged.

But, please note, if eggs should tumble to two or three cents each, poultry farms would quit. Feed for chickens is very high and general costs are terrific. Poultry farmers must get high prices for their produce. If they don't, America will soon discover there are no eggs, no chickens, no turkeys, no ducks.

Today, agriculture, a basic segment in the national economy, must be supported by agencies of the United States Government. And even though price supports cost hundreds of millions of dollars every year—which is furnished by taxpayers—this program must go on.

Our free enterprise system must be guarded against all threats. Yet our national economic responsibilities have become so great that the machinery of government must aid in the maintenance of this system.

What I detest at the present time is the spending of billions of dollars in an uneconomic fashion for enterprises fostered by the government that could and should be abolished today. I meet up with them all the time. I am treasurer of one of America's leading art schools. The director of this school, a distinguished artist, tells me that in New York city there are any number of fake art schools supported by tax payers' money.

Taxation that helps to maintain uneconomic projects in America is a terrific load for our people to carry.

Storms Hit Broad Section of Country

(By The Associated Press)

Wind and rainstorms lashed wide areas of the midwest today as the coldest weather of the autumn season spread across the area from Canada.

Strong winds and tornadoes swept across the midwest yesterday, and eight persons were killed and several injured.

Twisters which hit rural areas in central Wisconsin killed seven persons and one woman was killed in a tornado which skipped across Biteley, Mich. Two men drowned in Green Gay at Sister Bay, Wis., when a squall overturned their motorboat.

The intense storm that whipped across the Dakotas, through Minnesota and across the northern Great Lakes region yesterday was north of Lake Superior today. Light rain mixed with snow fell in the Lake Superior region and over most of Minnesota. Showers were reported from Lake Erie southwestward to eastern Oklahoma.

Temperatures Drop

Temperatures dropped into the 20's in Montana east of the continental divide today. They were below freezing in parts of Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Strong winds were reported in the Dakotas, the upper Mississippi valley and most of the Great Lakes region.

The rest of the country reported generally fair weather. It continued hot in most of the south. The mercury climbed above 100 in some Texas areas yesterday, with readings of 102 at Abilene and Big Spring setting records for the date. The day's top at Great Falls, Mont., was 35.

Will 'Welcome' Workers

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Mayor Thomas J. Corcoran says he will "welcome back to work" the 600 city workers who have been "sick" since Tuesday. But, the workers will not return to their jobs until the city give them a $400-a-year wage increase, a spokesman for Local 540, AFL Truck Drivers and Helpers Union, maintains. The city has included a $350 boost in its 1952 budget. Corcoran said yesterday that the workers had forfeited their jobs under the state's Condon-Wadlin Act. But after he conferred with city officials and political leaders the mayor said he had not fired anybody connected with the walkout.

Will Carry Pictures

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United Lutheran Church in America plans to have its members carry small pictures of Christ in their pockets this fall to remind every one that "he is with them always." The cards also carry textual matter in five languages. The ULCA has some 2,250,000 members.

Father Hyland Leaves Saugerties

The transfer has been announced of the Rev. Raymond A. Hyland from Saugerties to the Bronx, where he will be assistant pastor of the Church of St. Angela Mereci, 163rd street and Morris avenue.

For the past four years, Father Hyland, a son of John A. Hyland, 155 Broadway, this city, was assistant pastor to the Rev. Edmond T. Harty, at St. Mary's Church, Saugerties.

His transfer effective last Saturday was announced by Francis Cardinal Spellman of the Archdiocese of New York.

Succeeding Father Hyland at the Saugerties church is the Rev. John C. Spillane of New York, who after his ordination last summer served as assistant to the Rev. Louis A. Stryker, pastor of St. John's Church, The Clove.

For the past four years, Father Hyland, a son of John A. Hyland, 155 Broadway, this city, was assistant pastor to the Rev. Edmond T. Harty, at St. Mary's Church, Saugerties.

His transfer effective last Saturday was announced by Francis Cardinal Spellman of the Archdiocese of New York.

Succeeding Father Hyland at the Saugerties church is the Rev. John C. Spillane of New York, who after his ordination last summer served as assistant to the Rev. Louis A. Stryker, pastor of St. John's Church, The Clove.

Report Expected On New Beef Price

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The new and higher meat prices housewives will start paying next Monday may be announced late today by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS).

The increase is expected to be one and a half to two cents a pound. It is being ordered to let wholesalers pass on to consumers the hike in wholesale prices authorized last week.

Meanwhile, the nationwide drive to enforce the beef price control program has turned up 222 specific charges of violations in 50 cities. Before the drive is over—it began Monday—the total is expected to run into the hundreds.

OPS said the 1,500 agents found violators in slaughter houses in more than half the cities where operations of meat packing and distributing plants were investigated. Court action will be taken against all alleged violators.

Price enforcement Director Edward P. Morgan said violations are widespread. He said most slaughterers accepted the investigations in good spirit, but some "resisted." One OPS agent in Buffalo, N. Y., he said, "got punched in the nose."

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said yesterday the beef price program will continue, denying rumors they had urged President Truman to drop it. Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said OPS will continue its fight to make the controls work.

Refers to Red Control

McCarthy said testimony before the McCarran group so far, and documents from the IPR files, have "already shown that this organization was controlled by secret members of the Communist party." McCarthy has contended that Jessup was aware of that.

Among other things, McCarthy told the foreign relations group his documents show "Jessup's affiliation with six organizations officially cited as Communist fronts." He produced copies of letterheads which he said demonstrated that Jessup at one time or another had some association with:

The National Emergency Council for Democratic Rights, The American Russian Institute, The Coordinating Committee to Lift the (Spanish) Embargo, The American Law Student's Association, The China Aid Council (through Mrs. Jessup), and The American Council of the IPR.

On the issue of Communist-fronts, Jessup told a Senate committee last year:

Late Bulletin

Albany, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Republican state chairman today demanded the resignation of Edward A. Ruppell as GOP chairman of Richmond county (Staten Island).

Ruppell has been accused of taking bribes for political favors—by witnesses before the State Crime Commission in its probe of Staten Island crime and corruption.

In a telegram to Ruppell, the Republican state chairman, William L. Pfeiffer, said:

"In view of the developments as revealed in the public press, I cannot recognize you any longer as the chairman of the Republican committee of Staten Island, and demand that your resignation be submitted immediately."

Grand Jurors Will Meet October 1st

Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster County will hold a regular meeting on Monday, October 1, at 8 p. m. at the court house.

This meeting will be important to all members as plans and arrangements will be made for the annual banquet to be held in November. Also many other matters of interest for the welfare and benefit of the association will be brought before the meeting.

President Thomas J. Murphy is asking for a large turnout. He also expresses his thanks to all members who made the trip to the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch on September 12. A large delegation attended the meeting there and was the guest of Superintendent Thomas J. Hanlon. President Murphy, at the conclusion of the program there, paid tribute to Major Hanlon and his staff for the splendid job they are doing in the field of education at the institution.

Relatively quiet since 1912, Mt. Katmai, Alaskan volcano, showed some activity in 1914, 1920, 1921, 1929 and 1931.

Engineers Will Hold Fall Dinner Tonight

E. W. Dayton, public works staff member of the New York State Civil Defense Commission, will be the guest speaker tonight at the fall dinner meeting of the Ulster Chapter, New York State Society of Professional Engineers, at the Hotel Stuyvesant at 6:30 o'clock.

Dayton will address the meeting on the necessity and responsibilities of all engineers in the all-over phases of public works in the state civil defense program. Local civil defense officials will be present.

James Michael Curley, his wife and son, George (left to right, foreground), are surrounded by cheering campaign workers early Sept. 26 after returns indicated the political veteran had won one of two mayoral nominations in Boston. Ridgway Office

Reds, there is no need to reopen discussion of their charges.

Songhyon is a war-scarred village six miles southeast of Kaesong's outskirts. It is one mile south of the Red outpost at Panmunjom. Ridgway described it as "approximately midway between the battle lines."

Ridgway's message was delivered to Communist liaison officers at Panmunjon. Air force Col. Andrew J. Kinney handed it to North Korean Col. Chang Chun-san. Chang took the brown manila envelope and left immediately by jeep for Kaesong.

Earlier the allied liaison group failed to show up for a scheduled meeting with Red liaison officers at Kaesong. When he delivered Ridgway's message, Kinney said:

"I regret that I was unable to meet you this morning as scheduled. However, I think that this message from our commander to your commanders will remove some of the difficulties."

Chang was smiling as he accepted the note.

Albany, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Republican state chairman today demanded the resignation of Edward A. Ruppell as GOP chairman of Richmond county (Staten Island).

Ruppell has been accused of taking bribes for political favors—by witnesses before the State Crime Commission in its probe of Staten Island crime and corruption.

In a telegram to Ruppell, the Republican state chairman, William L. Pfeiffer, said:

"In view of the developments as revealed in the public press, I cannot recognize you any longer as the chairman of the Republican committee of Staten Island, and demand that your resignation be submitted immediately."

Grand Jurors Will Meet October 1st

Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster County will hold a regular meeting on Monday, October 1, at 8 p. m. at the court house.

This meeting will be important to all members as plans and arrangements will be made for the annual banquet to be held in November. Also many other matters of interest for the welfare and benefit of the association will be brought before the meeting.

President Thomas J. Murphy is asking for a large turnout. He also expresses his thanks to all members who made the trip to the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch on September 12. A large delegation attended the meeting there and was the guest of Superintendent Thomas J. Hanlon. President Murphy, at the conclusion of the program there, paid tribute to Major Hanlon and his staff for the splendid job they are doing in the field of education at the institution.

Relatively quiet since 1912, Mt. Katmai, Alaskan volcano, showed some activity in 1914, 1920, 1921, 1929 and 1931.

Most Inquisitive Congress

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The 82nd Congress may not go down in history as one of the lawmakingist, but it bids fair to be remembered as the most inquisitive. Rep. Hugh D. Scott (R.-Pa.), former chairman of the Republican National Committee, made a survey and came up today with these figures: Laws passed, 104, investigations conducted, 130. Hugh put the figures in a weekly newsletter he sends to his Philadelphia constituents. The 82nd Congress has another year to run.

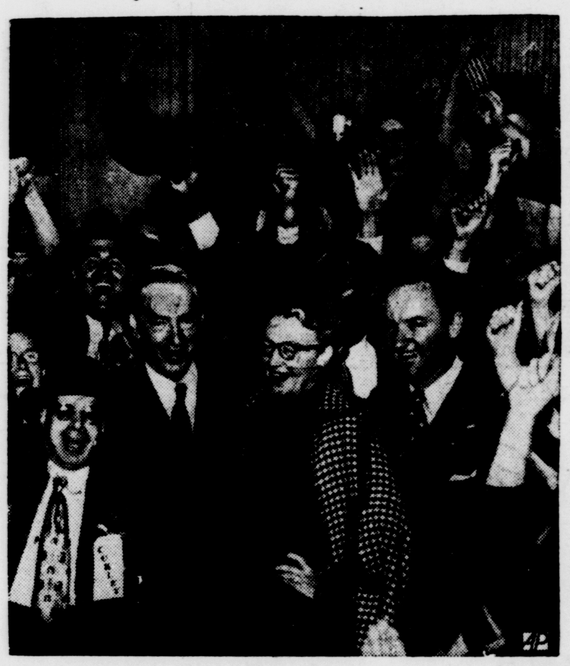
Curley Comeback Celebration



James Michael Curley, his wife and son, George (left to right, foreground), are surrounded by cheering campaign workers early Sept. 26 after returns indicated the political veteran had won one of two mayoral nominations in Boston. Curley, whose political career has survived two jail terms, ran second to Mayor John B. Hynes in the four-man non-partisan primary. He will oppose Hynes in the November 6 election. (AP Wirephoto).

Ridgway Office

Reds, there is no need to reopen discussion of their charges.

Songhyon is a war-scarred village six miles southeast of Kaesong's outskirts. It is one mile south of the Red outpost at Panmunjom. Ridgway described it as "approximately midway between the battle lines."

Ridgway's message was delivered to Communist liaison officers at Panmunjon. Air force Col. Andrew J. Kinney handed it to North Korean Col. Chang Chunsan. Chang took the brown manila envelope and left immediately by jeep for Kaesong.

Earlier the allied liaison group failed to show up for a scheduled meeting with Red liaison officers at Kaesong. When he delivered Ridgway's message, Kinney said:

"I regret that I was unable to meet you this morning as scheduled. However, I think that this message from our commander to your commanders will remove some of the difficulties."

Chang was smiling as he accepted the note.

Oust Returned Hitler

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—"What would you do if Adolf Hitler suddenly re-appeared on Germany?" An inquiring reporter asked this question of German passers-by in Frankfurt. An office employe said: "Take him to the nearest lamppost and string him up." A housewife replied: "Get out of here as fast as I could." A taxi driver, with a hard grin, threatened: Cut out his insides." But a business executive said he would "like to have a long talk with Hitler and find out if he was really crazy." A messenger boy said he would like to see a trial held with Adolf as defendant so that "all the facts could be laid before the public." Another office worker snapped: "I'd get a gun." A railroad station porter had a novel punishment for the man who led Germany to defeat: "I'd send him to the Russian zone to live."

Contribute $500 to Kingston Boys Club

The treasury of the Kingston Boys Club, which isn't too elaborate, is $500 richer due to the efforts of the clambake committee and those who patronized the September 9th event sponsored by the Ulster County Restaurant, Hotel and Liquor Dealers Association. At a dinner in The Barn, Tuesday evening, a check for the amount was turned over to the board of directors of the Boys Club. From left are Burt Tresider, vice-president of the county association; Ray Amell and Tony Saccoman of the clambake committee; Herbert Shultz, president of the board of directors of the Boys Club; Frank Carpino, chairman of the bake and George Broome, president of the Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers Association. (Freeman Photo)

Oust Returned Hitler

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—"What would you do if Adolf Hitler suddenly re-appeared on Germany?" An inquiring reporter asked this question of German passers-by in Frankfurt. An office employe said: "Take him to the nearest lamppost and string him up." A housewife replied: "Get out of here as fast as I could." A taxi driver, with a hard grin, threatened: Cut out his insides." But a business executive said he would "like to have a long talk with Hitler and find out if he was really crazy." A messenger boy said he would like to see a trial held with Adolf as defendant so that "all the facts could be laid before the public." Another office worker snapped: "I'd get a gun." A railroad station porter had a novel punishment for the man who led Germany to defeat: "I'd send him to the Russian zone to live."

Armed Japanese Captured

Guam, Sept. 26 (AP)—Two Guamanian fisherman last night captured an armed Japanese soldier of World War War 2 asleep on a northeast Guam beach. Three other Japanese escaped. Guam police and navy authorities went out today in search of them. The captured Japanese, Faira Koishin, 39, told police he had been an airman in the war that ended more than six years ago. He had an American carbine and three clips. Koishin said another group of Japanese, well armed, is on Guam.

The U. S. had as many as 675 whaling ships between 1833 and 1863, "golden age of whaling."

The Julian Alps are in northwestern Yugoslavia.

Honesty Best Policy In Playing Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

No matter how careful you may be about keeping your eyes where they belong, you sometimes see a card in an opponent's hand. It happens to everybody, and of course you always warn the opponent to be more careful. But what should you do? Should you take advantage of the information you have thus gained?

Before you answer this question, let me tell you a sad story. It's about the very honest gent who played today's hand.

West opened the queen of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. Now our honest hero had to decide which finesse to take. By mischance he chose to finesse the queen of diamonds, and lost to West's king.

West led another heart, and East won with the king in order to return a trump. South naturally finessed the queen, which just as naturally won. Declarer laid down the ace of diamonds and was relieved when both opponents followed suit.

His course now clear, South ruffed a club in dummy and returned a diamond. East discarded a heart, and South ruffed with the three. At this point East squirmed in his chair, and South saw the king and ten of Spades in East's hand.

That was all he could see, so he hastily warned East to hold his cards back. Then, being an honest gent, he wondered whether or not he should make use of his knowledge.

Temptation finally proved too strong. He knew a finesse was necessary to pick up East's trumps, so he ruffed a second club in dummy and took a second trump finesse.

And then he felt sick. He had one trump in his own hand and one in dummy. He could ruff a third club in dummy, but the diamonds were dead. The moment he led a diamond from dummy, East would ruff. South could then make the ace of trumps but would have to give up the other two tricks, losing his contract.

The sad part of the story is that South would have made his contract if he hadn't seen East's trumps. He'd have laid down the ace of trumps at once. With two trumps in dummy, he could ruff a club and lead diamonds until East was willing to take the king of trumps. Then dummy would still have a trump left as the entry to the rest of the diamonds.

Rates Are Increased

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today authorized the Western Union Telegraph Company to increase its rates for telegrams within the state by an average of 21.1 per cent. The increase is effective Oct. 11. The new rates within the state are identical with rate increases granted by the Federal Communication Commission Sept. 1 on interstate messages. The company said that, even under the new rates, it would lose money on its intrastate business.

Health for All

SYMPTOMLESS ONSET OF TB

One of the reasons why tuberculosis, a communicable disease, is so difficult to control is because it has what doctors call a "symptomless onset."

This means that tuberculosis does not announce itself with apparent symptoms when it first strikes. Tuberculosis strikes insidiously and its victims can have an active case of the disease for months before he even suspects that he is ill.

The "sneak attack" of tuberculosis can spell disaster both for the person who is unknowingly ill and for those with whom he associates.

The person who has tuberculosis and doesn't know it will, of course, go about his routine duties, perhaps working hard and playing hard, while his health is further undermined and his life endangered. Yet the patient might have been under treatment in a tuberculosis hospital, fighting his way back to health if his disease had been discovered early. By the time obvious symptoms appear and he goes to his doctor, the disease may be in an advanced stage and more difficult to cure.

Meanwhile, since tuberculosis is communicable even in an early symptomless stage, the sick person may have been innocently spreading his germs to others. And it is possible that one or more of his associates has, as a result, developed tuberculosis. The family of the victim with whom he lives may be in special danger.

None of this is necessary. Every adult can keep a check on the health of his lungs by getting periodic chest X-rays—at least once a year—for the X-ray can detect tuberculosis even in the symptomless stage. The person who forms the wise habit of regular chest X-rays is seeing to it that, if tuberculosis does strike, he has his best chance of finding it in an early stage, a stage in which it is easiest to cure.

The insidious nature of tuberculosis, which can attack anyone at any age, is frightening until we stop to realize that we have as our ally the X-ray which can show up evidence of tuberculosis in the earliest stages, long before the recognizable symptoms appear and the disease has the upper hand.

Rates Are Increased

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today authorized the Western Union Telegraph Company to increase its rates for telegrams within the state by an average of 21.1 per cent. The increase is effective Oct. 11. The new rates within the state are identical with rate increases granted by the Federal Communication Commission Sept. 1 on interstate messages. The company said that, even under the new rates, it would lose money on its intrastate business.

Health for All

SYMPTOMLESS ONSET OF TB

One of the reasons why tuberculosis, a communicable disease, is so difficult to control is because it has what doctors call a "symptomless onset."

This means that tuberculosis does not announce itself with apparent symptoms when it first strikes. Tuberculosis strikes insidiously and its victims can have an active case of the disease for months before he even suspects that he is ill.

The "sneak attack" of tuberculosis can spell disaster both for the person who is unknowingly ill and for those with whom he associates.

The person who has tuberculosis and doesn't know it will, of course, go about his routine duties, perhaps working hard and playing hard, while his health is further undermined and his life endangered. Yet the patient might have been under treatment in a tuberculosis hospital, fighting his way back to health if his disease had been discovered early. By the time obvious symptoms appear and he goes to his doctor, the disease may be in an advanced stage and more difficult to cure.

Meanwhile, since tuberculosis is communicable even in an early symptomless stage, the sick person may have been innocently spreading his germs to others. And it is possible that one or more of his associates has, as a result, developed tuberculosis. The family of the victim with whom he lives may be in special danger.

None of this is necessary. Every adult can keep a check on the health of his lungs by getting periodic chest X-rays—at least once a year—for the X-ray can detect tuberculosis even in the symptomless stage. The person who forms the wise habit of regular chest X-rays is seeing to it that, if tuberculosis does strike, he has his best chance of finding it in an early stage, a stage in which it is easiest to cure.

The insidious nature of tuberculosis, which can attack anyone at any age, is frightening until we stop to realize that we have as our ally the X-ray which can show up evidence of tuberculosis in the earliest stages, long before the recognizable symptoms appear and the disease has the upper hand.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, 74 John street, in Kingston.

Machine Age Note

Jeffeson City, Mo. (AP)—P. G. Barnickol, fisheries man for the state conservation commission, says the sparrows in his yard have adapted themselves to the modern age. They used to follow the horses around. Now, he says, they retrieve insects from the grilles of automobiles parked across the way.

FAT FOLKS! Your Dream Has Come True!

HOW TO LOSE UGLY FAT Without Dieting-Hunger!

NO CALORIE COUNTING! NO DIETS! NO EXERCISES!

If you are a non-glandular overweight man or woman by all means read about this amazing, new, clinically tested medical discovery, that is already creating a sensation all over the country.

Forget all about diets, hunger, calorie counting, massage, drugs, exercise and all other unpleasant, unnecessary things usually associated with reducing.

For a great medical discovery now makes it possible for you to lose pounds of excess fat safely — without dieting, without having a single hungry moment.

Doctors Discover Wafex

Most doctors agree that the best way to lose excess fat is to eat less — to go on a restricted diet. A group of New York doctors, making a special study of obesity, realized however that while dieting was desirable it wasn't as easy or as simple as it sounds for most overweight people.

Hunger—The Fat Person's Enemy!

Dieting for most folks means hunger.

Men: Why not try Wafex, the natural way to take off excess weight that's neither good for you nor good to look at.

And few people can resist hunger. So they appease it by eating between meals, by going off their diets. And back comes the unwanted pounds and inches.

So these New York doctors worked for years searching for a formula that would lick hunger and make people lose fat safely without dieting. They finally announced success in a food adjunct called WAFEX.

Clinical Tests Proved Their Discovery

The doctors clinically tested WAFEX on a large group of normal, healthy overweight men and women.

The group undergoing the tests were instructed by the doctors to chew or suck a tasty WAFEX Wafer half an hour before each meal, but not to go on any special diet, not to cut out any special foods — just sit down at the table and eat until satisfied.

Results Amazing!

Every member of the group lost 8 to 20 pounds in a short period of time; in fact satisfactory weight losses were noticed the very first week. And not a single person said she had a hungry moment.

WAFEX STOPS HUNGER

This Wafex Wafer has according to scientific calculations, the hunger satisfying capacity of 2 ham sandwiches or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread. Yet contains only 5 calories.

Wafex as Harmless as A Glass of Water

A Food Adjunct Not A Drug

During the tests the doctors carefully checked the physical condition of each person, took electro-cardiograms and did not find a single case of ill effect. Everyone said, she never felt better.

So at last, the fat person's dream has come true — a way to lose excess fat without dieting, without hunger, without giving up the food he likes.

House Rejects Proposal

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The House rejected yesterday a proposal to have the federal government help finance farm produce markets in the nation's big cities. A vote of 181 to 102 sent the bill back to the agriculture committee which had recommended it. The bill would have provided for long-term loans for construction of markets where producers sell to wholesalers.

Former Minister Dies

Asphalt Truck Spills Tar; Woman Killed

Adams, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—A truck carrying eight tons of hot asphalt ran wild on a hill yesterday and overturned, spilling its load on two women pedestrians. One was killed and her companion was injured seriously.

Mrs. Genevieve Pellenz, 69, of nearby Pulaski, died after passersby pulled her from the molten tar. Mrs. Abbe Harris, 72, also of Pulaski, suffered from burns and a broken leg.

The asphalt had been heated to 300 degrees.

State police said the truck driver, Cortland Casey, 49, of Watertown, told them the brakes on the truck failed as he approached a traffic light at the foot of a hill in the center of this northern New York village.

Grading Not Necessary

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The government decided today that farmers who slaughter livestock for their own use don't have to have the beef graded and labelled after all. Previously the meat regulations required every person slaughtering livestock to have the meat graded and marked. The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) said today this placed an unnecessary burden on farmers, livestock raisers and others. The new ruling is effective October 1.

May Seek Admission

Tokyo, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Japanese news agency Kyodo said today Japan may request admission to the United Nations even before the peace treaty is ratified. Kyodo said the Foreign Office is preparing the application.

More Filing Space At County Clerk's

Congestion and confusion which has existed for some time in the records vault at the county clerk's office will shortly be relieved through the addition of filing space on a new balcony which is now being erected.

The old vault has become overtaxed by the thousands of records which are filed each year and the Board of Supervisors recently made available funds for the erection of a balcony. This balcony is being erected along the west wall of the vault and will provide considerable additional filing space for record books. A similar balcony was erected some years ago along the easterly wall but this had become filled with records.

Henry H. Swart & Son was awarded the general contract and portions of the work are being done under sub-contracts by Thomas Kennedy & Son and the Ashley Welding Machine and Iron Company, Inc.

Officers Are Assigned

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The government has assigned 21 Public Health Service medical officers to station in 12 states to help investigate epidemics and with the idea they might detect signs of germ warfare. While the primary idea is to help look into outbreaks of disease which are beyond control of state and local health officials, federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing commented in a statement: "There is always the possibility that a potential enemy may seek to employ biological warfare. * * * An intelligence scheme which will promptly report outbreaks of disease would be invaluable if 'BW' were employed."

Greetings Are Sent to Jews

Duesseldorf, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—West Germany's highest officials have sent New Year's greetings to the country's Jews. The cordial message from President Theodor Heuss, chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Socialist Party Chairman Kurt Schumacher and Trade Union Leader Christian Fette pledged a continuing fight against anti-Semitism.

Former Minister Dies

Asphalt Truck Spills Tar; Woman Killed

Adams, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—A truck carrying eight tons of hot asphalt ran wild on a hill yesterday and overturned, spilling its load on two women pedestrians. One was killed and her companion was injured seriously.

Mrs. Genevieve Pellenz, 69, of nearby Pulaski, died after passersby pulled her from the molten tar. Mrs. Abbe Harris, 72, also of Pulaski, suffered from burns and a broken leg.

The asphalt had been heated to 300 degrees.

State police said the truck driver, Cortland Casey, 49, of Watertown, told them the brakes on the truck failed as he approached a traffic light at the foot of a hill in the center of this northern New York village.

Grading Not Necessary

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The government decided today that farmers who slaughter livestock for their own use don't have to have the beef graded and labelled after all. Previously the meat regulations required every person slaughtering livestock to have the meat graded and marked. The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) said today this placed an unnecessary burden on farmers, livestock raisers and others. The new ruling is effective October 1.

May Seek Admission

Tokyo, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Japanese news agency Kyodo said today Japan may request admission to the United Nations even before the peace treaty is ratified. Kyodo said the Foreign Office is preparing the application.

More Filing Space At County Clerk's

Congestion and confusion which has existed for some time in the records vault at the county clerk's office will shortly be relieved through the addition of filing space on a new balcony which is now being erected.

The old vault has become overtaxed by the thousands of records which are filed each year and the Board of Supervisors recently made available funds for the erection of a balcony. This balcony is being erected along the west wall of the vault and will provide considerable additional filing space for record books. A similar balcony was erected some years ago along the easterly wall but this had become filled with records.

Henry H. Swart & Son was awarded the general contract and portions of the work are being done under sub-contracts by Thomas Kennedy & Son and the Ashley Welding Machine and Iron Company, Inc.

Officers Are Assigned

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The government has assigned 21 Public Health Service medical officers to station in 12 states to help investigate epidemics and with the idea they might detect signs of germ warfare. While the primary idea is to help look into outbreaks of disease which are beyond control of state and local health officials, federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing commented in a statement: "There is always the possibility that a potential enemy may seek to employ biological warfare. * * * An intelligence scheme which will promptly report outbreaks of disease would be invaluable if 'BW' were employed."

Greetings Are Sent to Jews

Duesseldorf, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—West Germany's highest officials have sent New Year's greetings to the country's Jews. The cordial message from President Theodor Heuss, chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Socialist Party Chairman Kurt Schumacher and Trade Union Leader Christian Fette pledged a continuing fight against anti-Semitism.

County WCTU Has Fall Convention

The fall convention of the Ulster county WCTU was held at the First Baptist Church with Mrs. Lillie S. Shultis, county president, in charge. The Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor of the church who was ill, sent a message of welcome.

At the morning devotions led by the director of the department of spiritual life, Mrs. E. Young called attention to the state director's plea to use the months of October and November for special prayers for peace.

Her scripture lesson fitted the theme of the program: To Build for Total Abstinence and to Build Well, One Must Know the Master Builder.

(Official Report)

The report of Mrs. E. Sherman, corresponding secretary, told of a constant gain in membership. Most unions have added new names to the roll this year, Ellenville obtaining 20 women. A total of 299 names are now on the county's books. Ellenville also boasts of a children's society, a Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss Katherine Meier being leader. It was a chorus of Ellenville voices that advertised the national magazine—Union Signal—during the report of publicity. When told in inches, Ulster's WCTU publicity measures 2,225. Because so many county newspapers are willing to publish WCTU news, Ulster stands with the counties that rank high in inches of publicity when statistics given in state reports are read. Some interesting features were mentioned in the different county directors' reports. The cooperation of Teacher's College and the New Paltz Union shows how alcohol education can be brought to the schools. In the Visual Education report brought by Mrs. Fred Craft, the WCTU float in the Fourth of July parade of the American Legion of New Paltz is another example of cooperation, also an example of how to give attractive features to WCTU activities. The report on citizenship proved that attention to the foreign-born pays dividends. Bibles for men in service were mentioned when Mrs. Matilda Osborn spoke for the unions having a soldiers and sailors department. Comforts for veterans in hospitals are provided by many unions. Bags for the head of the bed to hold little things the soldier patient needs were exhibited so all unions might take part in such an undertaking. Flower mission and relief had reached institutions and needy spots overseas, bundles of clothing going afar, and worn silk stockings helped an industry taken up by the women of Japan.

Mrs. William Whiston told of what the unions had done in the distribution of literature. An exhibit of posters, phamplets, leaflets, blotters, catchy slogans on cards, was on the table in the back, inviting delegates to study the wealth of good things provided to bring temperance facts to those who should understand them. Mrs. Shultis supplemented Mrs. Gunther's report of work in church schools by telling how Mrs. Gunther brings films and posters and catchy lessons to the public and church schools in the Kingston area.

In the early afternoon there was a service of remembrance in charge of Mrs. Minnie Dunnagan, assisted by Mrs. Steketee. White flowers, one by one, were assembled in a vase as tribute was paid to the memory of members who had slipped into the beyond since the last convention. Mrs. Iantha Cantine, once president of Ellenville Union, spent her last days in Milton, but always considered herself an Ellenville member. Highland Union remembered the pleasing personality and obliging ways and the devotion that Mrs. Leon Burnett gave as easily as breathing, and Miss Bertha Tiel who had been a member for over 50 years. Just last week Kingston Union lost Mrs. Elizabeth Conaro. Mrs. Whiston paid a loving tribute as Mrs. Steketee placed the white blossom for her name. Mrs. Dunnagan herself told of Mrs. Barley's organizing a WCTU in Cottekill because, as a young mother, she desired to have something in her town that would help her do away with the evils that are apt to counteract the good influences with which we would surround our young folks. New Paltz mourns Mrs. Harriet Dayton, a helpful friend, always found at the neighbor's when trouble or sorrow entered.

Mrs. Carpenter of Plattekill told of a Miss Ruth Palmer of Bloomington, N. J., whose death reminded of the way her mother labored for the Plattekill Union. Mrs. Herring of the Ulster Park Union, a few days before, had attended the funeral of a Mrs. Thorne who had been a teacher in the Ulster Park school 40 years ago. She kept her membership in the Ulster Park Union though long a resident of Kingston. Mrs. Dunnagan added her tribute to Mrs. Herring's.

An interlude of inspiration came when Miss Winifred Kimball sang from her heart, as well as with her expressive voice, Guion's Prayer.

Election of officers is always a part of the "fall convention." There's a new vice-president, Mrs. R. M. Hasbrouck, but otherwise the same county officers will serve another year. It was voted to limit the term of service for county officers to five years, as a new personality in an office often acts as a prod to the zeal of the members. No such respite comes to the county directors. Mrs. Shultis appointed the same heads for the departments, and, no doubt, will keep on appointing them until her own term comes to an end.

It was voted to make Mrs. Shultis a delegate to state convention meeting in Buffalo, Oct. 11 to the 15.

The resolutions adopted showed that WCTU's of Ulster are still working to get the drinking places of our county to have closing hours that coincide with Dutchess, so that Ulster residents living near the bridge will not be annoyed by the drinkers who seek the sides of the river where drinkers who seek the sides of the river where drinking may be continued.

The adopted resolutions also arranged for protests to Senate committees in regard to liquor advertising and the establishment of places selling liquor in the vicinity of training camps.

Mrs. Shultis was pleased to see that some responded to the invitation that bids the public come to WCTU gatherings. At Mrs. Shultis request, Mrs. Northway brought a breath of air from Monroe county to stir the hearts and minds of her sisters in an Ulster convention.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

I had a person to person call from F. B. Shannon of 100 Central avenue, Kearny, N. J., who wanted information on our famous "Ulster County Gazette." He said, Mr. Hutty, artist of Woodstock, told him to get in touch with me as I write about this Gazette in the column. It is difficult to give instant information over the phone as there is so much to say about the little Gazette. So I dropped Mr. Shannon a card giving the title of Ulster County Gazette and Its Illegitimate Offsprings," 3rd edition, as published by the New York Public Library which told the entire story.

The next day I received a very nice letter from Mr. Shannon saying he obtained the booklet from the Fifth avenue library as I suggested and that it "was an amazing story." A friend from Illinois has a copy of the Gazette and plans to be in New York in October for whom Mr. Shannon is trying to get information on it. Little did Samuel Freer, the publisher of the Ulster County Gazette, think when he was publishing the Saturday, January 4, 1800 edition that 101 years later people would still be excited about his little paper, and that some 100 reprints would be made of that one copy. No one knows exactly how many of those originals he ran off his hand press in Kingston, and no doubt he threw a number of them in the basket which did not look so perfect. Even those imperfect copies today would demand a good price as a collector's item. Perhaps most every home in Kingston at the time, in 1800 owned one of those Saturday, January 4th Gazette. Then like all newspapers it was either thrown out, or perhaps used under rugs, for floor covering, in a closet, or heaped together or burned with other papers. In spite of the fact that so far only two original copies exist, I feel that somewhere, perhaps within 30 miles of where I sit and type right now, is an original copy tucked away and forgotten, unknown to the owner.

One item in R.W.G. Vail's book on the Gazette says, that it was peddled from door to door, as we know from a handbill which we reproduced, apparently issued before 1876. It begins: "The oldest paper! A relic of 1799 (neither statement true!) Death of Washington! Slavery in New York, etc.," and ends: "Can only be obtained from our authorized travelling agents, as a limited number will be exposed for sale in all the cities and towns in the United States." No wonder the Ulster County Gazette "covers the country like the dew!"

In the Whig Press (Middletown) of July 21, 1858, the editor speaks of a facsimile of the famous issue of January 4, 1800, having been places in the cornerstone of the Reformed Dutch Church of Montgomery, Orange county, on July 1, 1858. The Gazette was referred to by the Whig Press as a "typographical curiosity."

The Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876 was responsible for the revived interest in the Revolution, in Washington, in our history generally. There were several reprints of the Gazette this year and probably each printer disposed of tens of thousands of copies. One printer, perhaps Walter Gillis, who we know did issue the Gazette for sale at the Centennial, had a regular contract for supplying them for sale on the exposition grounds and they were distributed as souvenirs by the armful. This edition was stereotyped on thin, tough brown paper, reached over 100,000 copies, and sold at five cents each.

Suicide Verdict Stays

Flemington, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP) —Suicide was still the verdict today after a three-week probe into the death of left-wing writer Louis Adamic. But while nothing has turned up to change the previous tentative conclusion of suicide, all hints of foul play will be tracked down, Hunterdon County Prosecutor Herbert T. Heisel said last night. Police have been looking into the possibility that Yugoslav-born Adamic was slain by Stalinist agents in his flaming farmhouse in nearby Reigelsville.

Parts of the first trans-Atlantic cable are still in use.

County WCTU Has Fall Convention

The fall convention of the Ulster county WCTU was held at the First Baptist Church with Mrs. Lillie S. Shultis, county president, in charge. The Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor of the church who was ill, sent a message of welcome.

At the morning devotions led by the director of the department of spiritual life, Mrs. E. Young called attention to the state director's plea to use the months of October and November for special prayers for peace.

Her scripture lesson fitted the theme of the program: To Build for Total Abstinence and to Build Well, One Must Know the Master Builder.

(Official Report)

The report of Mrs. E. Sherman, corresponding secretary, told of a constant gain in membership. Most unions have added new names to the roll this year, Ellenville obtaining 20 women. A total of 299 names are now on the county's books. Ellenville also boasts of a children's society, a Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss Katherine Meier being leader. It was a chorus of Ellenville voices that advertised the national magazine—Union Signal—during the report of publicity. When told in inches, Ulster's WCTU publicity measures 2,225. Because so many county newspapers are willing to publish WCTU news, Ulster stands with the counties that rank high in inches of publicity when statistics given in state reports are read. Some interesting features were mentioned in the different county directors' reports. The cooperation of Teacher's College and the New Paltz Union shows how alcohol education can be brought to the schools. In the Visual Education report brought by Mrs. Fred Craft, the WCTU float in the Fourth of July parade of the American Legion of New Paltz is another example of cooperation, also an example of how to give attractive features to WCTU activities. The report on citizenship proved that attention to the foreign-born pays dividends. Bibles for men in service were mentioned when Mrs. Matilda Osborn spoke for the unions having a soldiers and sailors department. Comforts for veterans in hospitals are provided by many unions. Bags for the head of the bed to hold little things the soldier patient needs were exhibited so all unions might take part in such an undertaking. Flower mission and relief had reached institutions and needy spots overseas, bundles of clothing going afar, and worn silk stockings helped an industry taken up by the women of Japan.

Mrs. William Whiston told of what the unions had done in the distribution of literature. An exhibit of posters, phamplets, leaflets, plotters, catchy slogans on cards, was on the table in the back, inviting delegates to study the wealth of good things provided to bring temperance facts to those who should understand them. Mrs. Shultis supplemented Mrs. Gunther's report of work in church schools by telling how Mrs. Gunther brings films and posters and catchy lessons to the public and church schools in the Kingston area.

In the early afternoon there was a service of remembrance in charge of Mrs. Minnie Dunnagan, assisted by Mrs. Steketee. White flowers, one by one, were assembled in a vase as tribute was paid to the memory of members who had slipped into the beyond since the last convention. Mrs. Iantha Cantine, once president of Ellenville Union, spent her last days in Milton, but always considered herself an Ellenville member. Highland Union remembered the pleasing personality and obliging ways and the devotion that Mrs. Leon Burnett gave as easily as breathing, and Miss Bertha Tiel who had been a member for over 50 years. Just last week Kingston Union lost Mrs. Elizabeth Conaro. Mrs. Whiston paid a loving tribute as Mrs. Steketee placed the white blossom for her name. Mrs. Dunnagan herself told of Mrs. Barley's organizing a WCTU in Cottekill because, as a young mother, she desired to have something in her town that would help her do away with the evils that are apt to counteract the good influences with which we would surround our young folks. New Paltz mourns Mrs. Harriet Dayton, a helpful friend, always found at the neighbor's when trouble or sorrow entered.

Mrs. Carpenter of Plattekill told of a Miss Ruth Palmer of Bloomington, N. J., whose death reminded of the way her mother labored for the Plattekill Union. Mrs. Herring of the Ulster Park Union, a few days before, had attended the funeral of a Mrs. Thorne who had been a teacher in the Ulster Park school 40 years ago. She kept her membership in the Ulster Park Union though long a resident of Kingston. Mrs. Dunnagan added her tribute to Mrs. Herring's.

Election of officers is always a part of the "fall convention." There's a new vice-president, Mrs. R. M. Hasbrouck, but otherwise the same county officers will serve another year. It was voted to limit the term of service for county officers to five years, as a new personality in an office often acts as a prod to the zeal of the members. No such respite comes to the county directors. Mrs. Shultis appointed the same heads for the departments, and, no doubt, will keep on appointing them until her own term comes to an end.

It was voted to make Mrs. Shultis a delegate to state convention meeting in Buffalo, Oct. 11 to the 15.

The resolutions adopted showed that WCTU's of Ulster are still working to get the drinking places of our county to have closing hours that coincide with Dutchess, so that Ulster residents living near the bridge will not be annoyed by the drinkers who seek the sides of the river where drinkers who seek the sides of the river where drinking may be continued.

The adopted resolutions also arranged for protests to Senate committees in regard to liquor advertising and the establishment of places selling liquor in the vicinity of training camps.

Mrs. Shultis was pleased to see that some responded to the invitation that bids the public come to WCTU gatherings. At Mrs. Shultis request, Mrs. Northway brought a breath of air from Monroe county to stir the hearts and minds of her sisters in an Ulster convention.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Heavenly Beef

One and one-half pounds beef stew, cut in cubes, ¼ cup fortified margarine, ¼ cup minced onion, 1 tablespoon chili sauce, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 cup sour cream, one 8-ounce can mushroom pieces, ½ cup diced celery, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Melt margarine in large saucepan over low heat. Add meat and brown well. Add onion, chili sauce, vinegar, sour cream, mushrooms, celery, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer until tender, about 45 minutes. Serve over a bed of hot broad noodles.

Betsy's Braised Beef
(6 servings)

One cup apple cider or apple juice, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 large onion, sliced, 1 cut clove of garlic, 1 bay leaf, ⅛ teaspoon ginger, ⅛ teaspoon allspice, 2 pounds beef, cut for stew, 2 tablespoons fortified margarine, 1½ teaspoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper.

Mix together cider, molasses, onion, garlic, bay leaf and spices in a shallow bowl. Add the meat, cover and let stand in a refrigerator overnight. Turn and keep in marinade until ready to start cooking. Melt margarine in a saucepan over low heat. Remove meat from marinade and dust with flour, salt and pepper. Brown meat in melted margarine.

Remove the garlic clove. Pour the marinade over the meat and cook over medium or low heat for about two hours, or until tender. If desired, thicken the gravy before serving. To serve: Arrange a bed of hot fluffy rice on a platter. Top with the braised beef.

Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Norton of Albany, and Miss Frances Miuccio of Lincoln Park, cousin of the bride. They were dressed in identical off-shoulder turquoise gowns, and picture hats covered with satin and lace. Both attendants carried crescent-shaped bouquets of pink pompons and gladioli.

Following a dinner and reception for 200 guests in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel the couple left for a wedding trip to Lake George and Canada. The bride's traveling ensemble included a blue and white checked suit, wine accessories, and a corsage of white orchids. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Weaver will make their home in Albany.

Mrs. Weaver is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '48, and prior to her marriage was employed with the A&P, this city.

Idle Giants Waiting for Break As Brooklyn Calls on Preacher

Dressen Taking No Chances With Hurlers

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The New York Giants, panting down the Brooks' backs in the mad chase for the flag after winning 35 of their last 42 outings, will spend the day watching and waiting. They don't get back into action until Saturday against Boston.

Actually, the Brooks are in an advantageous position and the Giants will have to get the breaks to win the bunting. If the Giants win both their two games against the Braves, Charlie Dressen's operatives then will have to win three of their four remaining contests.

Should the Giants falter once, Brooklyn will need only two triumphs. And if the Giants should lose both, the Dodgers will need only one victory.

Erskine Friday

"It's got to be Roe," he said, "for we've got to keep on winning. I'm not expecting anybody to help us by beating the Giants. We've got to help ourselves. Carl Erskine will start for us tomorrow. I don't know who will go Saturday, but it will be Roe again Sunday if we need the win."

Giants Batter Phils, 10-1

Yesterday's 15-5 conquest of the Braves did a lot for the Dodgers, even though the Giants came right back at night and polished off the Philadelphia Phillies with equal emphasis, 10-1. For one thing it indicated the Brooks have not cracked up completely after their double defeat by the Braves Tuesday night.

For another thing, it showed that Don Newcombe, who had been trying to win his 19th game for a long time, again could be trusted with top assignments.

In the American League, the New York Yankees made no progress in their efforts to sew up the flag. They were completely ineffectual against the slants of little Bobby Shantz and dropped a 4-1 decision to the Philadelphia A's.

So the combination still is two for the Yanks—two triumphs or two defeats by the Cleveland Indians, who were idle yesterday. The Yanks have five games left to play and the Indians only two. The Tribe winds up the season's business with single games at home against the Detroit Tigers Saturday and Sunday. The Yanks play all five of theirs against the Boston Red Sox.

Nats Trim Bosox

Casey Stengel's men have only one worry about the Sox now. With their 7-3 loss at the hands of the Washington Senators last night, the Beantowners can't possibly win the pennant. If they win all six of their remaining games, and the Yanks lost all five of theirs, Steve O'Neill's team will tie.

The Giants were on the spot last night. The Dodgers already had won their game, and Leo Durocher knew his hired hands would have to win to stay in the race. They came through nobly behind Larry Jansen, who racked up his 21st victory.

Jansen's task was made easy when his mates presented him with four runs in the first inning, then three more in the third.

Irvin Big Gun

Monte Irvin was the big boy in the Giants' attack with a three-run home run in the first, a triple and a double.

The Dodgers gave the Braves the same treatment the Giants gave the Phils. They pushed over four runs in the first, then added four more in the fifth and seven in the eighth.

Newcombe gave up only eight hits although two of them were home runs by Bob Addis and Earl Torgerson. Max Surkont, the first of six Brave hurlers, was the loser.

The Yanks played acceptably against the A's, who have won 22 of their last 31 games. But these days, you have to do better than be acceptable against Philadelphia.

Shantz held the New Yorkers to six hits, while his mates loosed a barrage against the combined offerings of Bob Kuzava and Johnny Sain. One of the three A's home runs was a tremendous belt by Gus Zernial, 430 feet to the left field bleachers.

Sid Hudson and Tom Ferrick combined to hold the Red Sox to six hits while the Senators were battering Ray Scarborough for a half-dozen runs before he retired in the fourth. Scarborough gave up eight of the 11 hits collected off four Sox throwers.

In the only other major league game, the St. Louis Browns hung up a 7-1 conquest over the Detroit Tigers behind Ned Garver, who now has 19 victories to his credit for the last place Brownies.

St. Louis—Virgil "Honey Bear" Akins, 136¼, St. Louis, outpointed Freddie Dawson, 137½, Chicago, 10.

Irate Braves to 'Shoot the Works' In Finale Against Dodgers Today

Robbie's Steal Seen As Downright Insult

Boston, Sept. 27 (AP) — An aroused Boston team, led by its equally irate manager, Tommy Holmes, has vowed to "shoot the works" today in an all-out effort to knock off the "high and mighty" Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Braves, who inflicted two stunning defeats upon the Brooks Tuesday to cut their National League margin over the New York Giants to one game, were on the receiving end yesterday. The Dodgers literally ripped them to pieces with a 15-5 shellacking.

The one-sided defeat, however, did not bother Holmes and his men half as much as one comparatively insignificant Brooklyn maneuver that had no direct bearing on the result.

The play in question was the steal of home by Jackie Robinson. It came in the eighth inning and was the sixth of a seven run frame. The Dodgers were in front, 13-3 when Robby made his break for the plate.

"Maybe you call it baseball," Holmes stormed after the game. "But I call it rubbing it in. They just wanted to pile it on. Who ever heard of a guy attempting to steal home when his team is ahead by 10 runs so late in the game?

"I don't mind getting beaten," the usually mild mannered pilot continued. "But nobody likes to get shown up."

May Use Spahn

"Sure, we figured to try our darnest to beat 'em, anyway. But now, we're going to throw the book at 'em. This is the big one and Im going to pitch the kid, Chet Nichols. But I'm going to have everybody ready in the bullpen and I'm going to use Warren Spahn, if we need him."

Brooklyn Manager Charlie Dressen accepted Holmes' challenge in typical Dressen manner.

"That's great," he chortled. "Now we have less to worry about. I like to see the opposition mad. Some folks may believe in letting sleeping dogs lie. Not me.

Robinson defended his steal of home, his first of the season by the way, in this manner.

"I just kept walking, walking. Next think I knew I was only two feet from home. Heck, I was just playing baseball."

Dressen Confident

"Tell the folks back in Brooklyn not to worry," he said "We're going to win three more games and clinch the thing. The boys are over the hump. They showed it yesterday.

Dressen said he plans to pitch Preacher Roe today and follow with Carl Erskine in Philadelphia tomorrow.

"That will leave me with Newcombe Saturday, and Roe Sunday, if necessary," he said.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching—Larry Jansen, Giants—hurled his 21st victory, holding the Philadelphia Phils to nine scattered hits, and keeping the Giants one game from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Batting—Monte Irvin, Giants—came through with a three-run home run in the first inning against the Phillies and added a triple and a double.

Outsider Cops Race

Practice Shoot Set Sunday at Paltz Club

The annual sportsmen's Field Day, a competitive event for both trap teams and individual shooters of Ulster county will be held at New Paltz on the following Sunday, Oct. 7.

Long Shot Wins

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Moore Volo, a 19 to 1 shot despite the fact he had paced a 2:04 3/5 mile this year, defeated the 7-5 favorite, Blackstone, by the narrowest of margins in the feature race at Yonkers Raceway last night.

Rakov, a 173-pound guard, is one of the two lettermen back with the Choate gridders this season. The local man will be on the sidelines nursing an infected hand. The other letterman with Choate this year is Gerald Cobb, right halfback and captain of the team.

Irate Braves to 'Shoot the Works' In Finale Against Dodgers Today

Robbie's Steal Seen As Downright Insult

Boston, Sept. 27 (AP) — An aroused Boston team, led by its equally irate manager, Tommy Holmes, has vowed to "shoot the works" today in an all-out effort to knock off the "high and mighty" Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Braves, who inflicted two stunning defeats upon the Brooks Tuesday to cut their National League margin over the New York Giants to one game, were on the receiving end yesterday. The Dodgers literally ripped them to pieces with a 15-5 shellacking.

The one-sided defeat, however, did not bother Holmes and his men half as much as one comparatively insignificant Brooklyn maneuver that had no direct bearing on the result.

The play in question was the steal of home by Jackie Robinson. It came in the eighth inning and was the sixth of a seven run frame. The Dodgers were in front, 13-3 when Robby made his break for the plate.

The Braves interpreted this move as a downright insult, let alone an act of poor sportsmanship.

"Maybe you call it baseball," Holmes stormed after the game. "But I call it rubbing it in. They just wanted to pile it on. Who ever heard of a guy attempting to steal home when his team is ahead by 10 runs so late in the game?

"I don't mind getting beaten," the usually mild mannered pilot continued. "But nobody likes to get shown up."

May Use Spahn

"Sure, we figured to try our darnest to beat 'em, anyway. But now, we're going to throw the book at 'em. This is the big one and Im going to pitch the kid, Chet Nichols. But I'm going to have everybody ready in the bullpen and I'm going to use Warren Spahn, if we need him."

Spahn, the ace of the Braves' staff, whipped the Dodgers Tuesday for his 22nd victory. He was scheduled to face the Giants next Saturday.

Brooklyn Manager Charlie Dressen accepted Holmes' challenge in typical Dressen manner.

"That's great," he chortled. "Now we have less to worry about. I like to see the opposition mad. Some folks may believe in letting sleeping dogs lie. Not me.

"Treat 'em rough. That's my idea of good baseball. Get 'em so hopping mad that they can't play their usual game. When a fellow is hot under the collar he's bound to make mistakes.

Robinson defended his steal of home, his first of the season by the way, in this manner.

"I just kept walking, walking. Next think I knew I was only two feet from home. Heck, I was just playing baseball."

Dressen Confident

Dressen was too happy over yesterday's important victory to be much concerned over Holmes' blast.

"Tell the folks back in Brooklyn not to worry," he said "We're going to win three more games and clinch the thing. The boys are over the hump. They showed it yesterday.

Dressen said he plans to pitch Preacher Roe today and follow with Carl Erskine in Philadelphia tomorrow.

"That will leave me with Newcombe Saturday, and Roe Sunday, if necessary," he said.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching—Larry Jansen, Giants—hurled his 21st victory, holding the Philadelphia Phils to nine scattered hits, and keeping the Giants one game from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Batting—Monte Irvin, Giants—came through with a three-run home run in the first inning against the Phillies and added a triple and a double.

Outsider Cops Race

Practice Shoot Set Sunday at Paltz Club

There will be a practice shoot at the traps of the New Paltz Rod and Gun Club Sunday at 2 p. m. All shooters who wish to warm up in preparation for the annual sportsmen's Field Day are invited to attend the shoot.

The annual sportsmen's Field Day, a competitive event for both trap teams and individual shooters of Ulster county will be held at New Paltz on the following Sunday, Oct. 7.

Long Shot Wins

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Moore Volo, a 19 to 1 shot despite the fact he had paced a 2:04 3/5 mile this year, defeated the 7-5 favorite, Blackstone, by the narrowest of margins in the feature race at Yonkers Raceway last night.

Idle Giants Waiting for Break As Brooklyn Calls on Preacher

Dressen Taking No Chances With Hurlers

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The desperate Brooklyn Dodgers, who have seen their one-mighty 13½-game National League lead dwindle to just one game, go into today's big test against Boston's Braves with Preacher Roe (22-2)—their stopper—on the mound.

The New York Giants, panting down the Brooks' backs in the mad chase for the flag after winning 35 of their last 42 outings, will spend the day watching and waiting. They don't get back into action until Saturday against Boston.

Actually, the Brooks are in an advantageous position and the Giants will have to get the breaks to win the bunting. If the Giants win both their two games against the Braves, Charlie Dressen's operatives then will have to win three of their four remaining contests.

Should the Giants falter once, Brooklyn will need only two triumphs. And if the Giants should lose both, the Dodgers will need only one victory.

Erskine Friday

"It's got to be Roe," he said, "for we've got to keep on winning. I'm not expecting anybody to help us by beating the Giants. We've got to help ourselves. Carl Erskine will start for us tomorrow. I don't know who will go Saturday, but it will be Roe again Sunday if we need the win."

Giants Batter Phils, 10-1

Yesterday's 15-5 conquest of the Braves did a lot for the Dodgers, even though the Giants came right back at night and polished off the Philadelphia Phillies with equal emphasis, 10-1. For one thing it indicated the Brooks have not cracked up completely after their double defeat by the Braves Tuesday night.

For another thing, it showed that Don Newcombe, who had been trying to win his 19th game for a long time, again could be trusted with top assignments.

In the American League, the New York Yankees made no progress in their efforts to sew up the flag. They were completely ineffectual against the slants of little Bobby Shantz and dropped a 4-1 decision to the Philadelphia A's.

So the combination still is two for the Yanks—two triumphs or two defeats by the Cleveland Indians, who were idle yesterday. The Yanks have five games left to play and the Indians only two. The Tribe winds up the season's business with single games at home against the Detroit Tigers Saturday and Sunday. The Yanks play all five of theirs against the Boston Red Sox.

Nats Trim Bosox

Casey Stengel's men have only one worry about the Sox now. With their 7-3 loss at the hands of the Washington Senators last night, the Beantowners can't possibly win the pennant. If they win all six of their remaining games, and the Yanks lost all five of theirs, Steve O'Neill's team will tie.

The Giants were on the spot last night. The Dodgers already had won their game, and Leo Durocher knew his hired hands would have to win to stay in the race. They came through nobly behind Larry Jansen, who racked up his 21st victory.

Jansen's task was made easy when his mates presented him with four runs in the first inning, then three more in the third.

Irvin Big Gun

Monte Irvin was the big boy in the Giants' attack with a three-run home run in the first, a triple and a double.

The Dodgers gave the Braves the same treatment the Giants gave the Phils. They pushed over four runs in the first, then added four more in the fifth and seven in the eighth.

Newcombe gave up only eight hits although two of them were home runs by Bob Addis and Earl Torgerson. Max Surkont, the first of six Brave hurlers, was the loser.

The Yanks played acceptably against the A's, who have won 22 of their last 31 games. But these days, you have to do better than be acceptable against Philadelphia.

Shantz held the New Yorkers to six hits, while his mates loosed a barrage against the combined offerings of Bob Kuzava and Johnny Sain. One of the three A's home runs was a tremendous belt by Gus Zernial, 430 feet to the left field bleachers.

Sid Hudson and Tom Ferrick combined to hold the Red Sox to six hits while the Senators were battering Ray Scarborough for a half-dozen runs before he retired in the fourth. Scarborough gave up eight of the 11 hits collected off four Sox throwers.

In the only other major league game, the St. Louis Browns hung up a 7-1 conquest over the Detroit Tigers behind Ned Garver, who now has 19 victories to his credit for the last place Brownies.

St. Louis—Virgil "Honey Bear" Akins, 136¼, St. Louis, outpointed Freddie Dawson, 137½, Chicago, 10.

Wiltwyck Pro-Am Golf Tourney Benefit for Warren Townley

Professional Aces In Annual Event

The annual Wiltwyck Golf Club Pro-Amateur tournament which is expected to attract 25 of the leading golf professionals of the area to the uptown course on Sunday, will be played as benefit for Warren Townley, former Woodstock Country Club pro, Tom Danaher, Wiltwyck pro, announced today.

Danaher and members of the Wiltwyck Club are making every effort to raise a sizeable sum for the former popular Woodstock pro who lost a leg through amputation last year in a veterans' hospital.

"We hope that every golf fan in Kingston will come out and support this worthwhile event," Danaher said today.

Record Field Expected

"If we can get 25 pros and I have every reason to believe we will," Danaher said, "we will put on the biggest show in the history of the event."

The entry list is likely to include such professional stars as Roy Talgo, Catskill Country Club's siege gun; Tex Lavender, the West Point golf coach; Dick Stennard of Amsterdam and a host of others.

Invitations have been mailed to the following:

Len Brunelle, Peekskill; Mickey La Medica, James Baird, Joe Kazimir, Walden; Joe Ruszas, Albany; George Lux, Chester; Branny Banulis, Newburgh; Fred Hasbrouck, Walden; Joe Sondey, Red Hook; Charlie DeStefano, College Hill; Mike Grande, Beacon; Frank Sheridan, Hudson River State Hospital; Tommy McNamara, Dutchess Country Club; and Jim Hutchins of Woodstock.

Included in the list of Wiltwyck "regulars" are such prominent stars as Scotty Robertson of Onteora, Eddie Brown of Columbia.

The Wiltwyck amateur contingent which includes city champion, Leon Randall; Bill Van Aken, Maurice Davenport and others will be on hand, along with George Hughes, of Twaalfskill, the 1951 Ulster county amateur kingpin and Alvin Boice, former city champion.

Giles Weighs Job As NL President

Chicago, Sept. 27 (AP)—It was up to Warren Giles today: whether to accept the $40,000-a-year job as National League president, and the prestige that goes with it, or continue on in his well paid position as president of the Cincinnati Reds.

National League owners all want the 55-year-old Giles for a successor to Ford Frick, who a week ago was elected baseball's commissioner after Giles stepped out of the running. Frick, National League president since 1934, succeeded A. B. Chandler to the $65,000 a year commissionership.

League Vice President Phil K. Wrigley, who is owner of the Chicago Cubs, disclosed yesterday that all league clubs had authorized him to contact Giles and ask him to take over as league president.

Giles had no comment on the offer immediately.

Saddler Wins TKO Over Willie Pep Before 13,836 Fans

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Unless they take their act on the wrestling circuit, the Sandy Saddler-Willie Pep featherweight series is over today with Slashing Sandy still the champion.

Four times is enough—and to many fans too much—for this furious feud between the ring's best 126-pounders. A battered, bleeding and disgusted Pep quit on his stool after the ninth round at the Polo Grounds last night to give the skinny Harlem Negro a nine-round technical knockout and a 3-1 edge in the series.

It was almost a duplicate of last year's battle between the two. That one ended when the one-time great Hartford, Conn., veteran claimed a dislocated shoulder after the seventh round.

"My eye is bothering me and I don't want to go on. The pain is killing me."

That's what the sad-eyed, dark-haired little ex-champ told Referee Ray Miller when the official strode over to Willie's corner after the ninth to warn him to cut out his holding and wrestling tactics or face disqualification. Both gladiators had been warned repeatedly by Miller to stop the rough stuff and get back to boxing.

Don't get the idea, though, that this was strictly for the wrestling fiends. There were moments of boxing brilliance in the bout and Pep actually was leading by a shade on the scorecards of two of the three officials, including the referee's.

"I couldn't go on," said the crestfallen Pep afterwards. "The pain was killing me. That Saddler was rougher this time than the last. I just couldn't get away from his grips. The referee was against me. I couldn't fight the two of them."

Willie Changes Tune

In his next breath, Pep said "I don't want to complain about the referee. I guess he done his best."

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, the attending ringside physician, looked at Pep's eye after the bout was stopped and said "the eye was all right. He could see out of it."

"I intended to fight a clean fight," said Saddler, "but he started the rough stuff. I got a little mad when he heeled me and thumbed me in the eye and stepped on my toes. I felt he was weakening in the sixth round. I noticed him say 'ah' when I hit him in the body.

For last night's show, seen by 13,836 Polo Grounds customers and witnessed by 50,000 others in 17 theatres in 13 cities by closed circuit television, Saddler received about $61,000. Willie got around $37,000.

The gross gate was only $75,311 but $110,000 was paid for the theatrecast and movie rights.

Montreal Wins Opener by 6-3

Montreal, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Montreal Royals of the International League hold a one-game advantage over the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association today as the teams went into the second contest of the Little World Series with two southpaws expected to oppose each other.

The Royals won the opener 6-3 last night before a chilled crowd of 11,691.

The Royals won last night's game in the second inning when they crossed the plate four times on five hits. The International Leaguers collected ten hits off four hurlers. Three of the blows, including a double, were by second baseman Wally Fiala.

Chris Van Cuyk gave up all the Brewers' runs and seven of their eight hits before developing a streak of wildness with two out in the eighth. Tommy Lasorda relieved and permitted only one hit in the ninth.

The opening night net gate was $18,176.93 with $10,906.15 going into the players' pool. Each club received $2,273.12 and the commission $2,276.54.

Wiltwyck Pro-Am Golf Tourney Benefit for Warren Townley

Professional Aces In Annual Event

The annual Wiltwyck Golf Club Pro-Amateur tournament which is expected to attract 25 of the leading golf professionals of the area to the uptown course on Sunday, will be played as benefit for Warren Townley, former Woodstock Country Club pro, Tom Danaher, Wiltwyck pro, announced today.

Danaher and members of the Wiltwyck Club are making every effort to raise a sizeable sum for the former popular Woodstock pro who lost a leg through amputation last year in a veterans' hospital.

Tags will be sold at the golf course during the day and a percentage of the entry fees will be turned over to the Townley fund.

"We hope that every golf fan in Kingston will come out and support this worthwhile event," Danaher said today.

Record Field Expected

Danaher is shooting for a goal of 25 pros, who would be paired with two amateurs and one club member.

"If we can get 25 pros and I have every reason to believe we will," Danaher said, "we will put on the biggest show in the history of the event."

The entry list is likely to include such professional stars as Roy Talgo, Catskill Country Club's siege gun; Tex Lavender, the West Point golf coach; Dick Stennard of Amsterdam and a host of others.

Invitations have been mailed to the following:

Professional Aces In Annual Event

The annual Wiltwyck Golf Club Pro-Amateur tournament which is expected to attract 25 of the leading golf professionals of the area to the uptown course on Sunday, will be played as benefit for Warren Townley, former Woodstock Country Club pro, Tom Danaher, Wiltwyck pro, announced today.

Danaher and members of the Wiltwyck Club are making every effort to raise a sizeable sum for the former popular Woodstock pro who lost a leg through amputation last year in a veterans' hospital.

Tags will be sold at the golf course during the day and a percentage of the entry fees will be turned over to the Townley fund.

"We hope that every golf fan in Kingston will come out and support this worthwhile event," Danaher said today.

Record Field Expected

Danaher is shooting for a goal of 25 pros, who would be paired with two amateurs and one club member.

"If we can get 25 pros and I have every reason to believe we will," Danaher said, "we will put on the biggest show in the history of the event."

The entry list is likely to include such professional stars as Roy Talgo, Catskill Country Club's siege gun; Tex Lavender, the West Point golf coach; Dick Stennard of Amsterdam and a host of others.

Invitations have been mailed to the following:

Len Brunelle, Peekskill; Mickey La Medica, James Baird, Joe Kazimir, Walden; Joe Ruszas, Albany; George Lux, Chester; Branny Banulis, Newburgh; Fred Hasbrouck, Walden; Joe Sondey, Red Hook; Charlie DeStefano, College Hill; Mike Grande, Beacon; Frank Sheridan, Hudson River State Hospital; Tommy McNamara, Dutchess Country Club; and Jim Hutchins of Woodstock.

Danaher also expects Sig Makofski, of Schenectady, perhaps the greatest amateur in these parts, H. Law Weatherwax, former Yale star; John Cwik, IBM; Ray Distel, IBM; Hank Kowal, Dutchess; Jack Yank, Dutchess, and a host of others.

The Wiltwyck Pro-Am is the final regularly scheduled event on the Northeastern PGA calendar.

Okay Ring Mat

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—The new safety mat, designed to cut down ring injuries, had the approval of featherweight champion Sandy Saddler and Referee Ray Miller today.

Lanesville Stops Whiz Kids, 6-0

Lanesville jumped on big Sal Misasi for a six-run rally in the first inning and went on to defeat the Saugerties Whiz Kids, 6 to 0, in the final regular game on its 1951 schedule last Sunday.

The Lanesville and Chichester teams will stage their Old Timers game next Sunday, with the proceeds to be used for the annual baseball picnic on October 7.

Bud Smith scattered six hits and struck out 11, while Misasi granted only five and whiffed ten. McConakey of the Whiz Kids and C. Smith of Lanesville each rapped two hits. Benjamin's double was the lone extra base blow of the game.

Giles Weighs Job As NL President

Chicago, Sept. 27 (AP)—It was up to Warren Giles today: whether to accept the $40,000-a-year job as National League president, and the prestige that goes with it, or continue on in his well paid position as president of the Cincinnati Reds.

National League owners all want the 55-year-old Giles for a successor to Ford Frick, who a week ago was elected baseball's commissioner after Giles stepped out of the running. Frick, National League president since 1934, succeeded A. B. Chandler to the $65,000 a year commissionership.

League Vice President Phil K. Wrigley, who is owner of the Chicago Cubs, disclosed yesterday that all league clubs had authorized him to contact Giles and ask him to take over as league president.

Giles had no comment on the offer immediately.

Saddler Wins TKO Over Willie Pep Before 13,836 Fans

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—Unless they take their act on the wrestling circuit, the Sandy Saddler-Willie Pep featherweight series is over today with Slashing Sandy still the champion.

Four times is enough—and to many fans too much—for this furious feud between the ring's best 126-pounders. A battered, bleeding and disgusted Pep quit on his stool after the ninth round at the Polo Grounds last night to give the skinny Harlem Negro a nine-round technical knockout and a 3-1 edge in the series.

It was almost a duplicate of last year's battle between the two. That one ended when the one-time great Hartford, Conn., veteran claimed a dislocated shoulder after the seventh round.

"My eye is bothering me and I don't want to go on. The pain is killing me."

That's what the sad-eyed, dark-haired little ex-champ told Referee Ray Miller when the official strode over to Willie's corner after the ninth to warn him to cut out his holding and wrestling tactics or face disqualification. Both gladiators had been warned repeatedly by Miller to stop the rough stuff and get back to boxing.

Don't get the idea, though, that this was strictly for the wrestling fiends. There were moments of boxing brilliance in the bout and Pep actually was leading by a shade on the scorecards of two of the three officials, including the referee's.

"I couldn't go on," said the crestfallen Pep afterwards. "The pain was killing me. That Saddler was rougher this time than the last. I just couldn't get away from his grips. The referee was against me. I couldn't fight the two of them."

Willie Changes Tune

In his next breath, Pep said "I don't want to complain about the referee. I guess he done his best."

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, the attending ringside physician, looked at Pep's eye after the bout was stopped and said "the eye was all right. He could see out of it."

"I intended to fight a clean fight," said Saddler, "but he started the rough stuff. I got a little mad when he heeled me and thumbed me in the eye and stepped on my toes. I felt he was weakening in the sixth round. I noticed him say 'ah' when I hit him in the body.

"If he wants another fight, I'll take him on if the money is right," said Saddler.

For last night's show, seen by 13,836 Polo Grounds customers and witnessed by 50,000 others in 17 theatres in 13 cities by closed circuit television, Saddler received about $61,000. Willie got around $37,000.

The gross gate was only $75,311 but $110,000 was paid for the theatrecast and movie rights.

Lowlands Horse Show Proves Big Success

64 Entries Compete In Sixteen Events

The second annual Lowlands Riding Club horse show held on Sunday at Spring Lake Park attracted 64 entries in 16 events, with outstanding exhibitors in the area taking part.

From the grand entry at 1 p. m. until the final event, the horse show was a pageant of color and thrills, with some of the finest show specimens in the area parading before the judges.

Grace Williamson and her team of Albino horses were unable to appear as scheduled but a very interesting exhibition of working stock horses was presented by Walter Martin of the Bar-M Ranch with his famous horse, "Sugar."

Martin took off the bridle and put Sugar through the figure-eight, walk trot and canter and rope work, using only his knee motions as a cue for the horse to change to another motion. Sugar received the plaudits of the crowd for his great performance and the committee felt the act was a worthwhile substitute.

McCabe Is Marshal

James McCabe of Kingston served as grand marshal for the grand parade and also as ring master. Joseph Lamphere of Kingston was the ring steward. The judges, assisted by Al Kurdt of Kingston, were Alice Jordan of West Coxsackie, Harvey Slater of Highland, and Troy Graves of Newburgh. Kurdt served as official timer. "Navajo Joe" McNierney, of Kingston, who promoted the show, did a splendid job as announcer.

The Spring Lake park proved a perfect locale for the show with its beautiful backdrop and large parking facilities.

John Schoonmaker of Phoenicia was a double winner with Topper in the pony, 14.2 hands and under division and in the Pony express ride. Robert Davis of Hurley won two ribbons with Robin in the three-gaited saddle and road hack sections.

Good Soil Precious

It takes about 40,000 years to form four feet of good soil, the minimum needed for good crop-producing land.

U. S. Army records show 68 per cent of officers have completed one or more years of college.

BEATS THROW AT SECOND

Carl Furillo, Brooklyn Dodgers outfielder, beats the ball to second base after shortstop PeeWee Reese's grounder to Braves Earl Torgeson at first in fifth inning of game in Boston. Braves shortstop Buddy Kerr takes throw from Torgeson. Relay back to first was also too late to nab Reese. Dodgers won, 15-5. (AP Wirephoto)

CIO Backs AFL Theatre Walkout

An announcement from Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, today revealed that a CIO union is supporting an AFL affiliate in the local theatre strike.

Mabel Fisher, business agent for the Amalgamated, said members are respecting the picket lines at Walter Reade's local theatres established by B-42, IATSE.

She said, "We are calling upon members of all unions and citizens of the community to aid these strikers in gaining union recognition, better wages and working conditions."

Backing of the Amalgamated followed that voted by affiliates of 19 building trades in the Ulster-Sullivan Counties Building Trades Council at a meeting Tuesday night.

The issue of a union election is reported to be the cause of the strike in which are involved cashiers, ushers, candy attendants and porters.

Picketing started last Saturday at the Kingston, Broadway and 9W Drive-In theatres.

Striking employes claim membership in Local B-42 IATSE, AFL, according to Phoebe Van Wagenen, president.

Management contends it has no such union in any of its other enterprises and calls for an election first under the supervision of the labor board as required by law.

In a published statement, it added, "This was not acceptable to some of our employes who struck without notice. . . ."

Window Reported Broken

Police were notified at 9:25 p. m. yesterday that a plate glass window was broken in the Kunst store, window in the Kunst store, 23 Broadway. Two men had been seen near the store, the report said, but when Officers Charles Hoehing and George Loughran arrived, they found no men near the place.

Says Coils Are Taken

John Tancredi notified police yesterday that three beer coils were removed from a cooler at the Eichler Hotel and two of them, valued at $75, were taken from the building. The other, he said, was left behind a door in the men's room. Officers Edward Leonard and Francis Fagan investigated.

Lowlands Horse Show Proves Big Success

64 Entries Compete In Sixteen Events

The second annual Lowlands Riding Club horse show held on Sunday at Spring Lake Park attracted 64 entries in 16 events, with outstanding exhibitors in the area taking part.

From the grand entry at 1 p. m. until the final event, the horse show was a pageant of color and thrills, with some of the finest show specimens in the area parading before the judges.

Grace Williamson and her team of Albino horses were unable to appear as scheduled but a very interesting exhibition of working stock horses was presented by Walter Martin of the Bar-M Ranch with his famous horse, "Sugar."

Martin took off the bridle and put Sugar through the figure-eight, walk trot and canter and rope work, using only his knee motions as a cue for the horse to change to another motion. Sugar received the plaudits of the crowd for his great performance and the committee felt the act was a worthwhile substitute.

McCabe Is Marshal

James McCabe of Kingston served as grand marshal for the grand parade and also as ring master. Joseph Lamphere of Kingston was the ring steward. The judges, assisted by Al Kurdt of Kingston, were Alice Jordan of West Coxsackie, Harvey Slater of Highland, and Troy Graves of Newburgh. Kurdt served as official timer. "Navajo Joe" McNierney, of Kingston, who promoted the show, did a splendid job as announcer.

The Spring Lake park proved a perfect locale for the show with its beautiful backdrop and large parking facilities.

John Schoonmaker of Phoenicia was a double winner with Topper in the pony, 14.2 hands and under division and in the Pony express ride. Robert Davis of Hurley won two ribbons with Robin in the three-gaited saddle and road hack sections.

CIO Backs AFL Theatre Walkout

An announcement from Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, today revealed that a CIO union is supporting an AFL affiliate in the local theatre strike.

Mabel Fisher, business agent for the Amalgamated, said members are respecting the picket lines at Walter Reade's local theatres established by B-42, IATSE.

She said, "We are calling upon members of all unions and citizens of the community to aid these strikers in gaining union recognition, better wages and working conditions."

Backing of the Amalgamated followed that voted by affiliates of 19 building trades in the Ulster-Sullivan Counties Building Trades Council at a meeting Tuesday night.

The issue of a union election is reported to be the cause of the strike in which are involved cashiers, ushers, candy attendants and porters.

Picketing started last Saturday at the Kingston, Broadway and 9W Drive-In theatres.

Striking employes claim membership in Local B-42 IATSE, AFL, according to Phoebe Van Wagenen, president.

Management contends it has no such union in any of its other enterprises and calls for an election first under the supervision of the labor board as required by law.

In a published statement, it added, "This was not acceptable to some of our employes who struck without notice. . . ."

Window Reported Broken

Police were notified at 9:25 p. m. yesterday that a plate glass window was broken in the Kunst store, window in the Kunst store, 23 Broadway. Two men had been seen near the store, the report said, but when Officers Charles Hoehing and George Loughran arrived, they found no men near the place.

Says Coils Are Taken

John Tancredi notified police yesterday that three beer coils were removed from a cooler at the Eichler Hotel and two of them, valued at $75, were taken from the building. The other, he said, was left behind a door in the men's room. Officers Edward Leonard and Francis Fagan investigated.

Lowlands Horse Show Proves Big Success

64 Entries Compete In Sixteen Events

The second annual Lowlands Riding Club horse show held on Sunday at Spring Lake Park attracted 64 entries in 16 events, with outstanding exhibitors in the area taking part.

From the grand entry at 1 p. m. until the final event, the horse show was a pageant of color and thrills, with some of the finest show specimens in the area parading before the judges.

Grace Williamson and her team of Albino horses were unable to appear as scheduled but a very interesting exhibition of working stock horses was presented by Walter Martin of the Bar-M Ranch with his famous horse, "Sugar."

Martin took off the bridle and put Sugar through the figure-eight, walk trot and canter and rope work, using only his knee motions as a cue for the horse to change to another motion. Sugar received the plaudits of the crowd for his great performance and the committee felt the act was a worthwhile substitute.

McCabe Is Marshal

James McCabe of Kingston served as grand marshal for the grand parade and also as ring master. Joseph Lamphere of Kingston was the ring steward. The judges, assisted by Al Kurdt of Kingston, were Alice Jordan of West Coxsackie, Harvey Slater of Highland, and Troy Graves of Newburgh. Kurdt served as official timer. "Navajo Joe" McNierney, of Kingston, who promoted the show, did a splendid job as announcer.

The Spring Lake park proved a perfect locale for the show with its beautiful backdrop and large parking facilities.

John Schoonmaker of Phoenicia was a double winner with Topper in the pony, 14.2 hands and under division and in the Pony express ride. Robert Davis of Hurley won two ribbons with Robin in the three-gaited saddle and road hack sections.

CIO Backs AFL Theatre Walkout

An announcement from Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, today revealed that a CIO union is supporting an AFL affiliate in the local theatre strike.

Mabel Fisher, business agent for the Amalgamated, said members are respecting the picket lines at Walter Reade's local theatres established by B-42, IATSE.

She said, "We are calling upon members of all unions and citizens of the community to aid these strikers in gaining union recognition, better wages and working conditions."

Backing of the Amalgamated followed that voted by affiliates of 19 building trades in the Ulster-Sullivan Counties Building Trades Council at a meeting Tuesday night.

The issue of a union election is reported to be the cause of the strike in which are involved cashiers, ushers, candy attendants and porters.

Picketing started last Saturday at the Kingston, Broadway and 9W Drive-In theatres.

Striking employes claim membership in Local B-42 IATSE, AFL, according to Phoebe Van Wagenen, president.

Management contends it has no such union in any of its other enterprises and calls for an election first under the supervision of the labor board as required by law.

In a published statement, it added, "This was not acceptable to some of our employes who struck without notice. . . ."

Window Reported Broken

Police were notified at 9:25 p. m. yesterday that a plate glass window was broken in the Kunst store, window in the Kunst store, 23 Broadway. Two men had been seen near the store, the report said, but when Officers Charles Hoehing and George Loughran arrived, they found no men near the place.

Says Coils Are Taken

John Tancredi notified police yesterday that three beer coils were removed from a cooler at the Eichler Hotel and two of them, valued at $75, were taken from the building. The other, he said, was left behind a door in the men's room. Officers Edward Leonard and Francis Fagan investigated.

Drawing Jury Now In Slugging Case At Marlborough

Selection of a jury was begun in County court this morning for trial of the robbery, first degree; grand larceny, first degree, and assault, second degree, indictment against Williams Mills Copeland, 45, and Bernard V. Keyes, 44, itinerant workers in the Marlborough section of the county who are charged with slugging and robbing Edward Baker, 58, May 3.

Baker, who also worked in the area and saved his money, which he secreted on his person, and had approximately $800 when the alleged assault and robbery took place at a "hobo jungle" near Marlborough. State Police who investigated the case reported most of the money was recovered. Sergeants L. Baker and J. Metzer of the B.C.I. unit at Highland investigated the case and reported that apparently Keyes, an accomplice, had received only $30 of the money taken.

Copeland is represented by Bernard A. Culloton and Keyes is represented by John L. Larkin, both being assigned to the defendants by the court.

Asks Extra Jurors

In anticipation of the trial Judge Cashin directed that an extra panel of 50 jurors be summoned to report at 2 o'clock today.

Prior to taking up the criminal case, Judge Cashin announced that all civil cases on the calendar would have to go over the term. Supreme Court opened on Monday for the October term. Judge Cashin said that he would like to dispose of the civil cases on the calendar but, due to circumstances they would have to go over to the next term. The first two weeks of the September trial term was "wasted" he said because attorneys were not ready to move cases for trial.

A negligence action, William Kelder against Peter Scheid, was announced settled. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Carter & Conboy for defendant.

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—William M. Boyle, Jr., acknowledged today that he accepted eight law cases involving government agencies—with fees estimated at $158,500—while serving as "acting chairman" of the Democratic National Committee.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—A stock market showing signs of tiredness sagged a bit today.

Railroad issues were fairly lively on the downside today, and some traders reasoned that a corrective move by the carriers was to be expected following their recent long advance.

Iowa Monument Is Not Lone Marker

The Herald Tribune feature, "Where in the World," Tuesday presented details of a monument erected to an apple in a field near Peru, Iowa, in 1920 marking the discovery by Jesse Hiatt of the Delicious apple in 1872.

Atwood & Gretter, authors of the feature, could have found an apple monument a bit closer to New York. They could have, without too much trouble, taken a quick look at the Jonathan apple monument, Bearsville road, Woodstock, which is also in virtual tribute to an apple.

The Herald Tribune feature thanks Miss E. C. Smith, 106 Hobart avenue, Summit, N. J., for facts on the Iowa monument. She also could have found the one closer to home.

Hiatt, an Iowa fruit grower, the article said, first named his discovery Hawkeye, but a judge at a fruit exhibit, exclaimed at first bite, "Delicious! Delicious!" and the name stuck.

Will Leave October 7

London, Sept. 27 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburg will leave for their postponed Canadian tour by air on Oct. 7, they announced today.

Two Are Arrested

Ossie Lee Brice, 40, no home, and William McNeil, 51, of Milton were arrested at Milton on Wednesday by Constable James Dirago, on petit larceny charges. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ralph E. Clark, both were sentenced to pay fines of $50 or spend 50 days in jail. Neither paid the fine and both were sent to jail. The charge involved the theft of a workman's tools, it was learned at the sheriff's office.

No Exemption for HST

Drawing Jury Now In Slugging Case At Marlborough

Selection of a jury was begun in County court this morning for trial of the robbery, first degree; grand larceny, first degree, and assault, second degree, indictment against Williams Mills Copeland, 45, and Bernard V. Keyes, 44, itinerant workers in the Marlborough section of the county who are charged with slugging and robbing Edward Baker, 58, May 3.

Baker, who also worked in the area and saved his money, which he secreted on his person, and had approximately $800 when the alleged assault and robbery took place at a "hobo jungle" near Marlborough. State Police who investigated the case reported most of the money was recovered. Sergeants L. Baker and J. Metzer of the B.C.I. unit at Highland investigated the case and reported that apparently Keyes, an accomplice, had received only $30 of the money taken.

Copeland is represented by Bernard A. Culloton and Keyes is represented by John L. Larkin, both being assigned to the defendants by the court.

Asks Extra Jurors

In anticipation of the trial Judge Cashin directed that an extra panel of 50 jurors be summoned to report at 2 o'clock today.

Prior to taking up the criminal case, Judge Cashin announced that all civil cases on the calendar would have to go over the term. Supreme Court opened on Monday for the October term. Judge Cashin said that he would like to dispose of the civil cases on the calendar but, due to circumstances they would have to go over to the next term. The first two weeks of the September trial term was "wasted" he said because attorneys were not ready to move cases for trial.

A negligence action, William Kelder against Peter Scheid, was announced settled. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Carter & Conboy for defendant.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—If the National League baseball race ends in a tie between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants, the first game of the playoff will take place at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, with the second and, if necessary, the third at the Polo Grounds. This was decided at a coin-tossing ceremony today at the offices of National League President Ford Frick. Late Bulletin

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—William M. Boyle, Jr., acknowledged today that he accepted eight law cases involving government agencies—with fees estimated at $158,500—while serving as "acting chairman" of the Democratic National Committee.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—A stock market showing signs of tiredness sagged a bit today.

Although most of the losses among leading shares were small, a few ranged to more than a dollar, before the movement leveled off.

Trading activity picked up appreciably on the sell-off. But there was no apparent tendency for a run-away by bearish forces.

Three previous sessions this week failed to produce a decided rush either forward or backward.

Railroad issues were fairly lively on the downside today, and some traders reasoned that a corrective move by the carriers was to be expected following their recent long advance.

Drawing Jury Now In Slugging Case At Marlborough

Selection of a jury was begun in County court this morning for trial of the robbery, first degree; grand larceny, first degree, and assault, second degree, indictment against Williams Mills Copeland, 45, and Bernard V. Keyes, 44, itinerant workers in the Marlborough section of the county who are charged with slugging and robbing Edward Baker, 58, May 3.

Baker, who also worked in the area and saved his money, which he secreted on his person, and had approximately $800 when the alleged assault and robbery took place at a "hobo jungle" near Marlborough. State Police who investigated the case reported most of the money was recovered. Sergeants L. Baker and J. Metzer of the B.C.I. unit at Highland investigated the case and reported that apparently Keyes, an accomplice, had received only $30 of the money taken.

Copeland is represented by Bernard A. Culloton and Keyes is represented by John L. Larkin, both being assigned to the defendants by the court.

Asks Extra Jurors

In anticipation of the trial Judge Cashin directed that an extra panel of 50 jurors be summoned to report at 2 o'clock today.

Prior to taking up the criminal case, Judge Cashin announced that all civil cases on the calendar would have to go over the term. Supreme Court opened on Monday for the October term. Judge Cashin said that he would like to dispose of the civil cases on the calendar but, due to circumstances they would have to go over to the next term. The first two weeks of the September trial term was "wasted" he said because attorneys were not ready to move cases for trial.

A negligence action, William Kelder against Peter Scheid, was announced settled. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Carter & Conboy for defendant.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—If the National League baseball race ends in a tie between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants, the first game of the playoff will take place at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, with the second and, if necessary, the third at the Polo Grounds. This was decided at a coin-tossing ceremony today at the offices of National League President Ford Frick. Late Bulletin

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—William M. Boyle, Jr., acknowledged today that he accepted eight law cases involving government agencies—with fees estimated at $158,500—while serving as "acting chairman" of the Democratic National Committee.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 27 (AP)—A stock market showing signs of tiredness sagged a bit today.

Although most of the losses among leading shares were small, a few ranged to more than a dollar, before the movement leveled off.

Trading activity picked up appreciably on the sell-off. But there was no apparent tendency for a run-away by bearish forces.

Three previous sessions this week failed to produce a decided rush either forward or backward.

Railroad issues were fairly lively on the downside today, and some traders reasoned that a corrective move by the carriers was to be expected following their recent long advance.

Iowa Monument Is Not Lone Marker

The Herald Tribune feature, "Where in the World," Tuesday presented details of a monument erected to an apple in a field near Peru, Iowa, in 1920 marking the discovery by Jesse Hiatt of the Delicious apple in 1872.

Atwood & Gretter, authors of the feature, could have found an apple monument a bit closer to New York. They could have, without too much trouble, taken a quick look at the Jonathan apple monument, Bearsville road, Woodstock, which is also in virtual tribute to an apple.

The Herald Tribune feature thanks Miss E. C. Smith, 106 Hobart avenue, Summit, N. J., for facts on the Iowa monument. She also could have found the one closer to home.

Hiatt, an Iowa fruit grower, the article said, first named his discovery Hawkeye, but a judge at a fruit exhibit, exclaimed at first bite, "Delicious! Delicious!" and the name stuck.

Will Leave October 7

London, Sept. 27 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburg will leave for their postponed Canadian tour by air on Oct. 7, they announced today.

Two Are Arrested

Ossie Lee Brice, 40, no home, and William McNeil, 51, of Milton were arrested at Milton on Wednesday by Constable James Dirago, on petit larceny charges. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ralph E. Clark, both were sentenced to pay fines of $50 or spend 50 days in jail. Neither paid the fine and both were sent to jail. The charge involved the theft of a workman's tools, it was learned at the sheriff's office.

No Exemption for HST

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Senate voted 77-11 today to wipe out the tax exemption on expense allowances of the president, vice president and members of Congress, effective Jan. 3, 1953.
